A.F.L. Calls For Lewis' Dismissal as Peace Price

Teamsters Hint Bolt Tobin Demands Truce Labor Act Assailed Amendments Asked

By the United Press.

Houston, Tex., Oct. 10.—The American Federation of Labor tonight called for the resignation or ouster of C. I. O. Chieftain John L. Lewis as the price of labor peace, in a tumultuous session during which Daniel J. Tobin, head of the teamsters, threatened to lead his 300,000 members out of the parent body.

Only one dissenting vote was cast against adoption of the report of the resolutions committee which said the A. F. of L. will not make terms "with dictatorship or communistic leadership," and demanded that the next move for an armistice come from the C. I. O.

Smith Fight Planned

Earlier the convention had voted unanimously for the committee's report demanding nine far-reaching changes in the Wagner act and had approved a fight to defeat Senate confirmation of President Roosevelt's reappointment of Donald Wakefield Smith to the National Labor Relations Board.

Tobin spoke after Matthew Woll, chairman of the resolutions committee, had denounced Lewis as a "dictator" and "autocrat," and as responsible for the collapse of peace talks a year ago.

Tobin, who heads the federation's largest union, declared, "You are not getting anywhere calling men 'dictators,' 'autocrats,' or judases.' This report has spoiled further any immediate hope for ending this awful strife . . . The teamsters want peace and we intend to have it, inside or outside of the American Federation of Labor."

Green Blames Lewis

President William Green, in an impassioned defense of The Federation's peace efforts, charged that Lewis slammed the door shut a few days ago when, after President Roosevelt had appealed to the Federation convention that "labor make and keep the peace," the C. I. O. leader called a constitutional convention to set up a permanent dual organization.

Green earlier had bitterly assailed administration of the Wagner act by the NLRB but declared:

"We are not opposing or antagonizing our great President in presenting this point of view. We shall co-operate with him and we hope he will co-operate with us."

The resolution adopted said the board's actions had favored the C. I. O. had "promoted strife" and brought administrative justice "into disrepute."

Amendments Asked

It called for amendment of the Wagner act along these lines:

Curtailing power of the board to invalidate contracts; providing an opportunity for every known interested party to appear in any case after being served with due process; making intervention by interested parties a right and not a matter of discretion; setting up definite qualifications for examiners; clarifying of the power over issuance of subpenas and liberalizing of the rule in that regard; giving an opportunity for all persons to examine material on which decisions are made; holding of elections within 30 days from the filing of a petition for a vote; deciding of all cases within 45 days after testimony is closed.

Youth, Kidnaper Of D. C. Man, Is Given Life Term

Minneapolis, Oct. 10 (AP).—John Couch, 23, was sentenced to life imprisonment today for kidnaping Miss Peggy Gross and Daniel Cox Fahey, jr., a Washington, D. C., man employed in St. Louis, and leaving them bound near Champlain, Minn., before fleeing to a northwoods hideout.

Couch already has spent more than a third of his life in prison for automobile thefts and burglaries. The Government said he and Otis James Meredith, fatally shot when Couch was captured at Effie, Minn., commonly took their auto theft victims with them to prevent early reports of the stolen car.

A native of Washington, Fahey is attached to the National Parks Service. Two years ago he was transferred to St. Louis. While in Washington he served as co-ordinator of CCC camps in this area. His mother, Mrs. Katherine D. Fahey, lives at 4550 Connecticut avenue northwest.

Supreme Court Denies Review in Mooney, Park Bank Appeals

Supreme Court Decisions

THE NATIONAL LABOR Relations Board won victories yesterday in three Supreme Court rulings, but was unsuccessful in a fourth. Review of the order returning impounded fees to commission men in the Kansas City stockyard case was granted. Page 3.

IN A CASE INVOLVING Mount Vernon Seminary, the District Court of Appeals yesterday held that schools not run for private profit are tax-exempt. Page 3.

The Mooney Case

By the Associated Press.

President Roosevelt's two appointees to the Supreme Court have tried in vain to persuade the tribunal that it should review a lower court decision against Thomas J. Mooney, labor leader who has been fighting for 22 years against conviction of complicity in a famous bombing.

This was disclosed yesterday when the court, with Justices Black and Reed dissenting, refused Mooney's request that it review the decision announced last October 31 by the California Supreme Court.

To some legal minds this meant that Mooney had lost his last chance of being saved by the high court from the life sentence he is serving after being convicted of complicity in the 1916 Preparedness Day bombing at San Francisco.

Now Looks to Election

However, counsel for the imprisoned man obtained permission from Chief Justice Hughes to file a petition for a writ of habeas corpus within the next 20 days. The court denied a similar petition three years ago.

Mooney, told of the court action, pinned his remaining hopes for freedom on the California election in November. Culbert L. Olson, Democratic candidate for Governor, has expressed the intention of pardoning him if elected.

Justices Black and Reed noted their dissent to the court's order publicly, a rare procedure, but they made no comment.

In other actions, the high tribunal:

Refused to interfere with the convictions of Charles (Lucky) Luciano and five others sentenced to long prison terms as members of a New York City vice ring.

Refused to review the conviction of Anna Marie Hahn, of Cincinnati, under sentence to die in the electric chair as the poison slayer of Jacob Wagner.

The State contended Wagner was one of four men who died in a scheme to "murder for profit."

"Glad It's Over"

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 10 (AP).—"I am glad the suspense is over," said Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn today of the Supreme Court's refusal to review her conviction.

D. C. Bank Ruling

Close analysis of assets of the defunct Park Savings Bank will begin today under direction of John F. Moran, receiver, following yesterday's action of the United States Supreme Court which held, in effect, that the bank's 29 directors are liable for deposits as of August 30, 1929.

Estimates of the directors' liability have ranged from $1,000,000 down to $200,000.

Present assets of the bank will be scrutinized to determine what proportion, if any, existed as assets in 1929, when the bank's 20-year charter expired. The institution continued in operation until early in 1933.

The Supreme Court refused to review a decision of the District Court of Appeals, handed down last March, holding the directors personally responsible for all deposits in the bank on August 30, 1929, unless the accounts had been liquidated between that date and March 6, 1933, when the bank finally shut its doors.

Second Ruling Upheld

The appellate court also was upheld in its decision that the directors were not personally liable for deposits or new accounts made in the three and a half years between expiration of the charter and permanent closing of the bank.

The group of depositors who asked in a cross-petition that the Supreme Court hold the directors responsible for deposits made from 1929 to 1933, as well as for those existing on August 30, 1929, maintained that it was beyond the power of the directors to operate a banking business without a charter and therefore "the directors were liable for the losses incurred." The appeals court had held that the directors were "liquidating trustees."

Preferential Claims

Moran stated last night that about 25 per cent of the depositors with present claims against the bank were depositors on August 30, 1929, and, therefore, would receive preferential treatment in accordance with the court's findings. He added that $800,000 has already been paid to depositors and $2,800,-

District Heads in Congress For Schooling of Crippled

Two members of Congress last night assured The Post that they would support the recommendation of District officials for school facilities for crippled children of school age whose afflictions make it impossible for them to attend school.

Senator William H. King, Utah, chairman of the District committee and an ex-officio member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, declared "these children obviously will have to be taken care of."

Representative Ross A. Collins, Mississippi, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee subcommittee on the District, said:

"I am inclined to be exceedingly liberal on school appropriations. If the Commissioners of the District think the need in this case is urgent I will follow their recommendations."

Both expressed sympathy with the proposal, which District officials are now advocating for the fourth consecutive year, for inclusion in the appropriation bill for the District of an item of $8,400 for six visiting teachers for Washington's stay-at-home cripples.

Meanwhile, Ross Haworth, deputy administrator of the Works Progress Administration in the District,

61-Ct. Corn Loans Likely On Big Crop

Bumper Yield Seen Boost May Be Forced Wheat Near Record Other Products Gain

By the Associated Press.

A Government forecast that the American corn crop would total 2,459,316,000 bushels this year prompted officials to say yesterday that the Government loan rate to growers was likely to be 61 cents a bushel.

That rate would be the maximum permitted under the crop control law, which provides for price-bolstering loans to farmers. The 61-cent figure would be 4 cents more than the rate the department indicated several weeks ago it was prepared to establish.

Not Yet at Legal Peak

The crop law authorizes the department to provide a loan at 75 per cent of the "parity" price of corn—the price goal set up by Congress—if the average farm price on November 15 is below that figure and the November crop report indicates a production of less than 2,717,-000,000 bushels. Officials said it was unlikely the November report would raise the estimate to the latter figure or that prices would rise above the mandatory loan level.

The parity price now is 81 cents and the farm price 48 cents a bushel, officials said. Loans are being made on 1937 corn at the rate of 57 cents a bushel.

The corn crop forecast yesterday by the Federal Crop Reporting Board was about 7 per cent less than last year's harvest of 2,644,995,-000 bushels, but 7 per cent larger than the 1927-36 average of 2,306,-157,000.

The board said the quality of the crop was reported to be generally good. A per acre yield of 26.7 bushels was indicated, compared with 28.2 last year and 22.9 for the ten-year average.

Bumper Wheat Crop

The board estimated the wheat crop at 940,229,000 bushels, the third largest on record. It contrasted with 873,993,000 bushels last year and 752,891,000 for the ten-year average.

The board reported stocks of old corn on farms October 1 at 352,134,-000 bushels, the largest for that date in the 13 years that such estimates have been made. Stocks last year were only 60,571,000 bushels. Wheat stocks were estimated at 406,989,-000 bushels compared with 326,503,-000 last year.

The board said September weather improved crop prospects nearly 1 per cent. Principal changes were a 3 per cent increase in cotton, 4 per cent in soy beans, 2 per cent in grain sorghums and peanuts, and about 1 per cent in tobacco and barley. Decreases of 4 per cent in sweet potatoes and pecans, 3 per cent for buckwheat and 2 per cent for apples were indicated.

The commercial vegetable crop will be about 20 per cent greater than a year ago, the board said.

U. S. Bars Strachey As a Communist Pending Hearing

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Evelyn John St. Loe Strachey, British writer on communism and one-time object of a deportation proceeding in this country, was barred from entering the United States tonight by immigration officials.

They ordered him held aboard the Normandie overnight and instructed the French Line to deliver him tomorrow morning to Ellis Island for appearance before a special board of inquiry.

The hearing will determine whether he shall be allowed a temporary permit to enter.

Assassin Slays Bulgar Army Head

Sofia, Bulgaria, Oct. 10 (AP).—The chief of staff of the Bulgarian army, Maj. Gen. Yordan Peyeff, was shot to death in a Sofia street today by a two-gun assassin who then tried to kill himself.

Gen. Peyeff, 55, died en route to a hospital. He had six bullet wounds. His adjutant, Maj. Stoyanoff, also was struck by some of a full dozen shots fired and was hospitalized in a serious condition.

The shots were fired by a man who gave his name as Stoil K'roff, 33. He was expected to die from self-inflicted wounds.

106 Register As Foreign Agents Here

86 Are Named Barton Included 33 Represent Britain Act Requires Listing

The State Department yesterday made public names of 86 persons and firms acting as agents in the United States for foreign governments or organizations who had registered up to October 6, deadline fixed by the registration act passed at the last session of Congress.

Former Ambassadors, a member of Congress, British knights and prominent business men were among those who registered.

The department disclosed that, since the deadline passed, 20 additional firms and corporations have registered, increasing the total number of registrants to 106. Names of the 20 will be made public later.

H. P. Fletcher for Italy

Henry P. Fletcher, former Ambassador to Italy, was registered by the Italy-America Society, Inc., New York, of which he is president. Chester Aldrich, New York, is vice president. The society said it receives $6,600 a year from the Italian government.

Culbertson & Leroy, 412-417 Colorado Building, the law firm of William S. Culberston, former Ambassador to Chile, registered as agent for Juan Francisco de Cardenas, Ritz-Carlton Hotel, New York, who represents Gen. Franco, Spanish rebel chief, in this country. Cardenas also registered.

Representative Barton's advertising firm—Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, New York—registered because it handles advertising copy for three large American companies, a large portion of whose stocks, they believe, is owned by British interests.

Two Knights Registered

Two British knights, Sir Wilmott Lewis, Washington correspondent for the London Times, and Sir James F. Paget, British passport official in New York City, filed statements. Sir Wilmott registered because he makes speeches before American gatherings, contributes occasionally to American magazines and at times is a radio commentator. He listed his salary from the Times at 1,500 pounds a year.

Of the 86 registering up to the deadline set by the act, 33 mentioned British principals. This was the largest number for any nationality.

12 Represent Japanese

Japanese principals were named in 12 of the registrations, German in 10, Italian in 7, French in 6, Spanish in 6, Chinese in 4, and Norwegian in 4. Other nationalities mentioned were Hungarian, Polish, Mexican, Finn, Argentine, Czechoslovak, Swiss, Brazilian, Egyptian, Belgian, Dutch, Cuban, Guatemalan, Honduran and Dominican. Some of those registering mentioned several principals.

The Rev. Alexander Cairns, Bloomfield, N. Y., a former missionary in Japan, registered as a spokesman for the Japanese people. He said he received $25 per speech, paid by a group of Japanese business men in New York City.

Frederick Moore, 1868 Columbia road northwest, registered as an

Twenty Plunge To Death as Plane Crashes in Flames

Berlin, Oct. 10 (AP).—Sixteen passengers, all Germans, and a Belgian crew of four were killed today when a Belgian airliner crashed near Soest, in the Ruhr Valley in northwestern Germany.

The passengers were said to have fallen or jumped from the plane before it crashed in flames.

Sir Harry Twyford, lord mayor of London, and British legion officials had traveled from London to Brussels on the machine, but changed there to another plane bound for Prague. The lord mayor is in charge of a British relief mission for Czechoslovak refugees.

Sally Rand Sued For Plagiarism

Hollywood, Oct. 10 (U.P.).—Sally Rand, erstwhile fan dancer who switched from ostrich feathers to rubber bubbles to get "more artistic effects," today was sued for $375,-000 by Faith Bacon, streamlined stage dancer who accused Sally of pilfering the idea of the fan dance from her.

Miss Bacon said Sally not only stole her secrets by watching her backstage in a New York night club review, but that Sally herself was nothing but a fan rack and didn't know how to dance.

War in Holy Land

By the Associated Press.

Jerusalem, Oct. 10.—British forces killed 11 Arabs in the Beisan Valley and reoccupied the town of Bethlehem today as they launched the first of a series of punitive actions to curb the Holy Land's growing terrorism.

Troops, planes and police participated in the Beisan Valley attack. A large quantity of arms and ammunition was captured from an Arab insurgent band. Three insurgents were wounded.

The re-entry of the troops into Bethlehem, where the Arabs gained the upper hand several weeks ago, was greeted with expressions of great relief by the large Christian population of the birthplace of Christ.

Bethlehem's Church of the Nativity, one of the most sacred shrines of Christendom, presented a grim, warlike aspect as long cavalcades of armored cars and motor trucks filled with British soldiers lumbered into the square in front of the historic edifice.

Bearded Franciscan monks in brown cassocks, followed by American Catholic priests in white stoles, threaded their way through long lanes of machine guns, rifles and trench mortars to enter the church for the first time in weeks.

Church Recovered

The church, said to be built over the manger in which Christ was born, had been abandoned to the insurrectionists since the British troops lost control of Bethlehem.

A realistic martial touch was imparted to the scene around the church by hastily thrown up barbed wire barriers and sand-bagged machine-gun emplacements.

Intense activity was seen at all British army camps throughout Palestine. Preparations were being made to accommodate reinforcements which the Colonial Office in London announced yesterday will arrive within the next two or three weeks.

These new troops, estimated at 4,000 men, will bring to 21,000 the number of British soldiers and police seeking to restore order.

Immigration Curb Rumored

Rumors were rife the British government intended to curtail Jewish immigration and give the Jews only a tiny puppet state along the coastline from Haifa to Tel Aviv.

Both Jews and the Arabs have opposed the partition plan.

Jewish leaders said they would never resort to armed force against the British, but might adopt nonviolent methods similar to those employed in India, including civil disobedience, passive resistance and possible boycott of the British government.

On the other hand, it is believed Arab leaders may make an effort to negotiate. It is said an "armistice" in the guerrilla warfare may be sought.

Catholics Aroused

By the United Press.

Vienna, Oct. 10.—Theodore Cardinal Innitzer, Archbishop of Vienna, tonight prepared to confer personally with Reichsfuehrer Hitler in Berlin as Nazi authorities closed his cathedral and new anti-Catholic demonstrations threatened in historic St. Stephen's Square.

It was understood the cardinal soon would depart for Berlin to lay before Hitler an account of the week-end terrorism.

[L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, protested against the "outrageous attack" against the palace of Cardinal Innitzer, the Associated Press said.

[The Vatican newspaper published a news dispatch from Vienna on the incident, having no official report from church authorities. Vatican circles said that was due to lack of papal representation in Berlin, L'Osservatore Romano said:

["We raise our Christian and civil protest, expressing to the Archbishop of Vienna sentiments of sincere and profound condolence for the outrage caused to his person and in him to the religion and church of Christ."—Editor's Note.]

Police Crowd Square

Police banned indefinitely a series of evening Bible study hours at the cathedral, begun Sunday, and thousands of Catholics arriving in the square at 6 p. m. found the cathedral locked.

In the square and in nearby streets there were large groups of police alert for any new outbreak and many anti-Catholic youths.

As the crowds steadily increased the police cleared and cordoned the square at 7 p. m.

A few minutes later a number of demonstrators were arrested in side streets when they began shouting Catholic and Nazi slogans.

Hitler Is "Annoyed"

It was understood the archbishop, who escaped serious injury when a yelling mob of 5,000 stormed his palace Saturday night shouting "Kill all priests!" might leave for Berlin before morning.

Before conferring with Der Fuehrer he is expected to talk with Mgr. Cesar Orsenigo, papal nuncio in Berlin, and other church dignitaries.

Hitler, described as "greatly annoyed" by the mob terrorism, has sent a personal investigator to Vienna and ordered severe punishment of those who organized the riots.

There were indications the investigation would be conducted by Joseph Buerckel, Reich commissioner for Ostmark, formerly Austria.

Nazi authorities were reported later to have carried out a series of swift arrests to suppress anti-Catholic disorders. The roundup was directed by Reich Commissioner Buerckel, supposedly under direct instructions from Hitler.

Hitler, who learned of the riots Sunday while he was making a speech at Saarbrucken on the Rhine, sent his emissary to Vienna immediately with instructions to

Brazil Recalls Her Envoy To Germany

Follows Up Ritter Snub Linked to Nazi Putsch Vargas Fights Meddling

Buenos Aires, Oct. 10 (U.P.).—Jose Joaquim de Lima e Silva, Brazilian Ambassador to Germany, tonight was instructed to return to Rio de Janeiro, according to unimpeachable sources.

There was no immediate explanation of the reason for the instructions which were nearly simultaneous with circulation of reports in the Brazilian capital that German Ambassador Karl Ritter would not be sent back to that city. Ritter left Rio de Janeiro several weeks ago ostensibly to attend the Nazi Party Congress at Nuremberg.

No Formal Demand

Although the Brazilian foreign office refused to confirm or deny the reports that the goverment had requested Berlin not to return Ritter, well-informed sources said that no formal demand had been made in that direction. It was admitted, however, that informal moves might have been made.

Relations between the Brazilian government and Ritter have been strained for some time, dating back to the anti-Nazi measures taken by that country and affecting German communities in southern Brazil.

It was regarded as significant that although the German Ambassador to Argentina, Edmund Freiherr von Thermann, who attended the Nuremberg congress, already has returned to his post, Ritter so far failed even to announce a possible date for his return.

Shortly after President Getulio Vargas' proclamation of his new authoritarian state last November, political activities of foreigners were curbed drastically in Brazil. Chief sufferers under the decree were Nazi groups in the states of Rio Grande do Sul, Sao Paulo and Santa Catharina. Their centers were closed, as were German-language

Yugoslavia's Regent Moves To Join Rome-Berlin Axis

By the United Press.

Belgrade, Oct. 10.—Regent Prince Paul of Yugoslavia today dissolved Parliament and reorganized the cabinet in an apparent move to strengthen the government's alignment with Rome and Berlin.

By forcing a general election when opposition parties favoring friendship with the democracies are suffering from a body blow due to the Czech dismemberment, the government of Premier Milan Stoyadinovich hopes to get a "popular mandate" for more extensive co-operation with Germany and Italy.

The foreign policy of the government has been based on this type of co-operation with authoritarian states, but a strong opposition has maintained Yugoslavia's welfare depends on co-operation with the western democracies.

In his decree today, Prince Paul—who rules during the boyhood of King Peter—ordered elections for Parliament on December 11. In the cabinet shift M. Hodjera, leader of the Yugoslav Fascist Party, was named minister without portfolio and Croat Deputy Mastrovich was appointed minister of physical education.

Vandenberg Sees U.S. Going Totalitarian

Denies 1940 Aspiration
Calls for 'Independence'
Scores Farm 'Failure'

By the Associated Press.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 10.—Republican Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, contended tonight that Congress has given the President something "close to totalitarian power—as it is known in Europe," in an address at a Republican rally.

In an interview, Vandenberg denied Presidential aspirations for 1940 and added:

"Time and events will dictate the answer to that question when the time comes."

His Senatorial term expires in two years, but whether he will run again "is something else," he said.

Calling for the election this year of a Senate and House which "speak independently for themselves and the American people," Vandenberg in his address warned the voters against a drift toward centralized power.

"Seeping, Sweeping Forces"

"Let's unfailingly remember," he said, "that many of the greatest and bravest Jeffersonian Democrats stand shoulder to shoulder with us in many of these critical issues, and that they have dared imperial reprisals for their faiths.

"We have no divine immunity to the seeping, sweeping forces of autocracy that elsewhere have freedom by the throat. On the contrary, we too have felt both the promise and the pressure of the iron heel.

"Mr. Secretaory Wallace says we are headed for what? For 'frontiers quite different from any we have ever known!' The President himself asserts that he has created instrumentalities of power which, in wrong hands, would do what? 'Shackle the liberties of the people!' The Supreme Court has said, 'Every journey to a forbidden land begins with the first step!'

"We have taken that first sinister step. A supine, rubber-stamping, mimeographing Congress has taken it by lodging more individual, personal power in the President than was ever before exercised in America by one man."

Assails Court "Packing"

Vandenberg condemned what he said was the attempt to "pack the Supreme Court" to enact the reorganization bill and to "hog-tie the great quasi-judicial Federal commissions."

"To cap the climax," Vandenberg asserted, "his dynastic, 'ditto' friends and satellites are already seeking to build for him a third consecutive Presidential term—which Washington refused, which Jefferson repudiated and which easily could end all but the shadow and fiction of democracy."

"The New Deal's farm program has failed," he said, "that is, it has 'failed' the average American farmer on his own farm. It has not 'failed' the bureaucrats, the little dictators and the farm-policemen."

The American farmer "must have the complete, noncompetitive, protected control of the entire domestic American market," Vandenberg said, reciting figures to show that under present policy heavy shipments of foreign farm goods were coming into this country.

Lehman Studies Herlands Data on Brooklyn Crime

Special Dispatch to The Post.

New York, Oct. 10.—Gov. Lehman began today to study a detailed report on crime conditions in Brooklyn which William B. Herlands, commissioner of investigation, placed in his hands at 2:20 p. m. to justify the request for an extraordinary term of the Supreme Court and a special prosecutor to supersede William F. X. Geoghan, district attorney of Kings County.

The Governor said he would have no statement to make on the case until he had had an opportunity to review the papers. Because a Kings County grand jury is marking time in its investigation of the fur racket, and the district attorney's office is clouded with uncertainty and confusion by recent events, Gov. Lehman is expected to announce his decision at the earliest possible moment—probably tomorrow or Wednesday.

First Wage-Hour Committee Meets

By the United Press.

Wage-hour Administrator Elmer F. Andrews' first industry committee holds its initial session today to begin investigations looking toward establishment of a minimum wage higher than 25 cents an hour for 1,300,000 workers in the textile industry.

Donald M. Nelson, vice president of Sears Roebuck & Co. and former NRA official, is chairman of the textile group which will meet with Andrews at 10 a. m.

The committee is charged with recommending the highest minimum wage schedule—not over 40 cents an hour—which it determines will not substantially curtail employment in the industry.

'People Sold Down the River by Democrats' So Say Senators Aiken and La Follette

Chicago, Oct. 10 (AP).—A "purge to end all purges" at November elections was urged on American voters today by Senator Bridges (Republican), New Hampshire, in an address prepared for delivery before the Union League Club.

SEN. BRIDGES

"The President," Bridges said, "is trying to purge those Democrats — those of his own party — who refused to bow to his will. He has gambled heavily, and he has lost."

"Over in Europe, they run on the principle of, 'Think as I think or I'll bomb you,'" Bridges said. "The New Deal over here follows with, 'Vote as I say, or I'll purge or starve you.'"

"The only way in which we can insure the continuance of our American form of government," Bridges concluded, "is to defeat all those who have sold 'We, the People' down the river for power, pap and patronage. Let us next month stage a purge of our own. A purge to end all purges."

Menomonee Falls, Wis., Oct. 10. (AP).—Senator La Follette (Democrat), of Wisconsin, said here today Wisconsin Democratic leaders are not in sympathy with the aims of President Roosevelt and have sold the rank and file of the party "down the river."

Referring to the choice of State Senator Harry Bolens, of Port Washington, as the Democratic candidate for Governor to succeed Robert K. Henry, of Jefferson, who withdrew, La Follette asserted that the "string pullers of the party have put up a man who has made one of the worst reactionary records in the history of the Wisconsin Legislature."

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Oct. 10 (AP). Speakers at an open forum here last night split sharply over the results of the Federal Government's plans to aid recovery.

Dr. Clark Foreman, director of the power division of the Public Works Administration, called the Government's recovery program one of the "greatest achievements" of the present Administration.

On the other hand, Mark Jones, president of the Akron Belt Co., said that whatever the Government had done toward recovery under the New Deal was a "complete failure." He said there was no prospect of true recovery until private industry was left "unimpeded."

Pennsylvania's fiery political campaign will be brought into the Capital Thursday evening, when F. Clair Ross, State treasurer of the Keystone State, comes here to address a rally arranged by the Pennsylvania Democratic Club of Washington at its headquarters, 1500 Rhode Island avenue. Another speaker will be Congressman James L. Quinn, of Allegheny County.

They will speak on behalf of the State's Democratic nominees for Governor, one United States Senator, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of Internal Affairs and 36 members of Congress. In the present House, the Republicans are represented by nine members, while the Democrats have 27 Representatives. Thomas J. Mangan, jr., club president, will preside.

60 General Motors Union Men Urge 32-Hour Week

Detroit, Oct. 10 (AP).—The chairman of the United Automobile Workers' General Motors Negotiating committee announced today delegates from 60 General Motors plants had joined in a request for a 32-hour work week until idle employes have been rehired.

Elmer Dowell made the announcement on the eve of conferences with General Motors Corp. on U. A. W. demands for a curtailed working schedule to share the work during the rehiring period.

Members of the negotiating committee said they had been informed by General Motors officials that a 15 to 20 per cent increase in production schedules is planned in 24 plants of the Chevrolet and Fisher divisions.

1,500 Defendants Ask for Time in D. C. Bakery Suit

Fifteen hundred defendants take a long time to talk things over when they are sued for $100,000, the Bakery and Cinfectionary Workers International Union told District Court yesterday and urged that Gundersheimer's Bakery be denied the speedy trial it asked.

The bakery sued the union after a strike in July, 1937, and last Monday asked the court to hurry the trial, saying that the plant was "simply tied up" until the case could be tried. The bakery claimed it lost money every day it had to wait and might lose its building through getting behind in the payments.

"And we'll lose by haste," the union retort said yesterday.

'Crackpot' Pension Plans Held Menace

Security Report Aired Schemes Blasted
'Unsound' Is Charge

Copyright, 1938, by the United Press.

Social Security Board experts have prepared a confidential report warning that enactment of "crackpot pension schemes" will plunge the Nation into economic chaos "comparable to the disastrous postwar inflation period in Germany," it was learned last night.

The report, compiled by attorneys and technicians, was disclosed shortly after New Deal chieftains announced they would expedite a program to liberalize and expand the social security act to thwart advocates of more sweeping old-age pension schemes.

President Roosevelt has issued warnings to the public against pension plans which he called "short cuts to Utopia."

"Crackpot Epidemic" Seen

The report deals particularly with the Townsend Plan which calls for maximum pensions of $200 monthly for persons over 60 years old, and California's so-called "$30-every-Thursday" scrip plan for persons over 50 years old.

"The . . . schemes . . . must be taken seriously only because their surface plausibility has succeeded in deluding so many millions . . ." the report states.

The report said Townsend planners will "have their hopes blasted" if they expect to receive $200 monthly because it would require at least $24,000,000,000 annually to defray the costs of such payments for an estimated 10,000,000 persons over 60 years. This, it was emphasized, is 40 per cent of the entire national income for 1936.

The report said California would have to carry the load of financing the scrip plan. The present volume of such transactions is about $16,000,000,000 annually, it said.

"Fallacy" Explained

Pension plans cannot create new purchasing power. They can only divert it from the younger productive part of the population to the elderly.

"The tax on business income would have to be paid first by enterprise itself, and particularly by small retail business men in which case either:

"Profits would be reduced or wiped out of deficits increased; or attempts would be made to recover the amount of the tax by reducing cost of production, particularly by cutting wages; or the tax would be passed on to consumers in the form of higher prices."

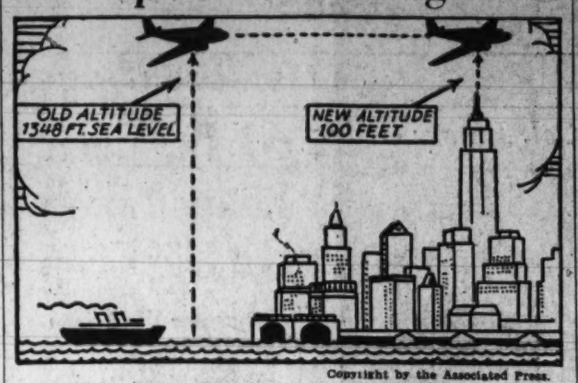
Social Agencies Urged to Give D. C. Girls More Help

Because "the crimes boys commit are more spectacular" boys receive more attention than girls from the District's corrective agencies, Mrs. William Floyd Crosby, Girl Scout commissioner, reported yesterday to the Council of Social Agencies.

The need for character-building work among girls of the city is just as urgent as the boys' program, however, she emphasized in her report to the first fall meeting of the council, at the Y. W. C. A. Building.

Charles M. Fyfe, director of the Boys Club, pointed out that his organization, the Y. M. C. A., Boy Scouts and Jewish Community Center are not "something-for-nothing" agencies, since boys all pay dues for use of their facilities, even though the fees are not sufficient to meet operating expenses.

Plane Here Exhibits Device To Keep It From Hitting Peaks



Copyright by the Associated Press.

Sketch shows how the new United Airlines—Western Electric Co., radio altimeter functions. It measures exact distance of plane from objects beneath it, instead of from sea level, as in the past

New Altimeter Tells 'Absolute' Height
Gadget to Help in 'Blind' Flying and Landing
Noble, Civil Air Chief, 'Much Impressed'

An instrument to shoot radio waves from an airplane and catch them on the rebound, will virtually end the danger of planes plowing into mountainsides was demonstrated over Washington yesterday.

The new instrument was developed by the Western Electric Co. and United Air Lines. It uses the shortest radio wave ever employed in aviation, officials said.

Members of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, the Air Safety Board and United States Army and Navy officials viewed the new altimeter yesterday at Washington Airport.

Edward J. Noble, chairman, and C. B. Allen, of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, flew to Washington from New York yesterday in the twin-engined "flying laboratory" in which the altimeter is installed.

Noble said he was "much impressed" by its possibilities. "It registered every object we passed over—including even a blimp we flew over outside Newark," he said.

Allen said that the new instrument should immeasurably simplify navigation and landing of planes.

The altimeter was demonstrated to aviation officials and reporters in a flight over Arlington and Alexandria. Peter C. Sandretto, superintendent of United Air Lines' laboratory, was in charge.

As the plane flew over the Masonic Memorial the barometric altimeter registering 900 feet, the new device dropped to 600 feet—actual distance between plane and memorial. The 900-feet reading was the height of the plane above sea level.

Others who took flights here yesterday included Admiral C. E. Courtney, chief of naval communications; Sumpter Smith and Thomas Hardin, of the Air Safety Board; D. M. Stewart and W. E. Jackson, of the Civil Aeronautics Authority, and L. M. Harding, of the Department of Commerce.

Roosevelt, Aides Shape Budget; Face Deficit Near 1937 Peak

President Roosevelt returned to the Capital yesterday from Hyde Park and immediately took up with his fiscal advisers tax matters in preparation for his budget message to Congress. He is scheduled in the next few days to take up the problems of social security, farm relief and reorganization of anti-espionage facilities.

The President made a preliminary review yesterday of budget and tax matters with Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., Acting Director of the Budget Daniel W. Bell and Assistant Secretary of the Treasury John W. Hanes, in charge of tax matters.

Morgenthau said the preliminary discussions would lead to formulation of the new tax program and preparation of the 1940 fiscal year budget. Mr. Roosevelt has estimated the revised 1939 deficit at $3,984,000,000, the second largest in the New Deal, and slightly more than $400,000,000 under the 1936 record deficit.

The conferees canvassed the whole field of taxes, especially the undistributed profits tax, elimination of tax-exempt securities, taxation of State and Federal employes and the possibility of lowering income tax exemptions.

The Administration is faced with declining revenues because of the business slump which set in during the summer of 1937 and continued up to July, 1938. Treasury receipts in the first three months of the 1939 fiscal year aggregated $1,509,182,032, against $1,659,690,000 last year, while expenditures rose from $1,937,764,000 in the first three months of last year to $2,210,165,000 for the current quarter.

The Administration was in the red to the extent of $700,000,000 in the three months ended September 30. Treasury experts believe this deficit will mount sharply when the spending-lending recovery program gains momentum.

Purported Guffey Letter Held Illegal

Political Fund Asked
Senator's Name Forged
Warning Issued

By the Associated Press.

The Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee yesterday ruled that two letters sent to Federal employes, among others, by the Pennsylvania Democratic State committee, appealing for funds, violated the law because the letterheads bore the names of Senator Guffey (Democrat), Pennsylvania, and Gov. Earle, Democratic nominee for the Senate.

One of the letters bore the purported signature of Senator Guffey and the other that of Oscar Deckerd, finance committee chairman.

Senator Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, said both Guffey and Earle denied knowledge of the letters.

Committee investigators found none of the signatures resembled Guffey's, Sheppard said. The investigators were ordered back to Pennsylvania yesterday.

The committee, warning all Senatorial candidates not to permit themselves to be involved in solicitation of political funds from Federal employes, said it would report the entire matter to the Senate.

Labor Board Favored in 3 Court Rulings

Fourth Case Is Lost
Ford Wins Review
Livestock Suit Accepted

The Supreme Court, in four cases involving the National Labor Relations Board, yesterday issued orders in line with the board's wishes in three cases but found to the contrary in the fourth.

The Ford Motor Co. was granted a review of a Circuit Court order which permitted the board to withdraw litigation against the Ford company for changes in procedure.

Reviews granted the board concerned:

A board contention that men who strike during a labor dispute retain their status of employes even though they were under contract not to strike. The Seventh Circuit Court at Chicago ruled against the board on this issue in a case involving the Columbian Enameling & Stamping Co. of Terre Haute, Ind.

A decision by the Sixth Circuit Court refusing enforcement of a board order to reinstate employes of the Sands Manufacturing Co., of Cleveland.

Memphis Company Loses

A review was denied the Memphis Furniture Manufacturing Co., which had made an unsuccessful attack in a lower court on the Labor Board's authority to order reinstatement of 13 employes.

The court also:

Agreed to review a lower court order that $586,000 of imponded funds be turned over to livestock commission men at Kansas City. The money represents the difference between rates fixed by Secretary Wallace and higher ones actually charged by the commission men. It was impounded during litigation which resulted in Wallace's rate-fixing order being declared invalid by the Supreme Court. Now the Secretary is trying to have the money returned to farmers.

Agreed to pass on litigation involving validity of the tobacco inspection act of 1935. The act permits the Agriculture Secretary to regulate inspection of tobacco and to designate auction centers.

Upholds Tax Ruling

Refused to reconsider its ruling of May 23 that officials of the Port of New York Authority were subject to Federal income tax. The officials had argued that the ruling made hundreds of thousands of other State and municipal employes liable for back income taxes.

Refused to review a contention by John M. Perry, of New York, that the Government should pay him $16,931 on a $10,000 bond payable in gold of the 1918 value. The suit was a challenge to the Administration's dollar devaluation.

Refused to review an unsuccessful attack in a lower court on the 1933 securities act.

Refused to consider challenges of the Ohio liquor law and the Massachusetts birth control law.

Agreed to consider cases attacking liquor control measures in Michigan and Missouri.

Colored Youth Wins

Granted the petition of Lloyd L. Gaines, colored, St. Louis, for a review of a Missouri Supreme Court decision rejecting his suit to force the University of Missouri to admit him to its law school.

Refused to review the legal fight of Douglas Fairbanks, motion picture star, to escape payment to the Federal Government of approximately $70,000 which the Treasury once refunded to him as overpaid income taxes.

Granted the petition of Princess Lida of Thurn and Taxis for a review of a Pennsylvania Supreme Court decision barring her from prosecuting a mismanagement suit against trustees of a fund set up by her first husband, Gerald Purchell Fitzgerald.

Granted the petition of the Mackay Radio and Telegraph Co. for review of a Second Circuit Court of Appeals desicion holding it infringed on patents held by the so-called radio patent pool headed by Radio Corporation of America.

Agreed to review Wisconsin's challenge of validity of sections of the home owners loan act authorizing Federal chartering of buiding and loan associations.

Collectors Club to Hear 1847 Stamps Discussed

United States stamp issues for 1847 will be discussed tonight at a meeting of the Collectors Club by Walter S. Fishel, of Boonsboro, Md., who will also exhibit his prize collection of 1847 stamps, which won an award at the recent philatelists' convention in Chicago.

The meeting, held at the Thomson Community Center, will be open to the public.

New Yorkers Protest Strict Collection of HOLC Loans

Ask Interest Cut, Longer Periods
Fight Ousters by Foreclosure
Demand Action in Next Congress

Sharp protests against Home Owners Loan Corporation foreclosures and ousting of delinquent home borrowers yesterday were lodged with Chairman John H. Fahey, of the HOLC, by a delegation from Brooklyn and the Bronx.

Led by Representatives O'Toole and Fitzpatrick (Democrats), of New York, the group asked HOLC debtors be permitted to remain in their houses, at reasonable rental, after foreclosures.

They estimated HOLC foreclosures throughout the country at 120,000 and urged Fahey to recommend legislation reducing interest charges and extending the amortization period on loans.

O'Toole last night said Fahey and members of the HOLC board agreed that conditions in the Bronx and in Brooklyn are "the most desperate in the country" but denied "there is a glut of foreclosed HOLC homes on the market."

O'Toole and Fitzpatrick presented the following four-point program for relief of home owners, and said they would follow it up by proposing legislation next session of Congress if the HOLC fails to act.

That HOLC interest rates be reduced from 5 to 3½ per cent, "to conform with farm interest charges."

That the amortization period be extended from 15 to 25 years.

That deficiency judgments against debtors be abolished "wherever possible."

That where foreclosures are forced, home owners be permitted to stay in their houses at normal rental, "rather than take over their homes and sell them at a loss."

Murray Speeding Trial Postponed

Trial of Charles Murray, 27, booked as the son of Senator Murray (Democrat), of Montana, on a charge of driving in excess of 60 miles an hour, was continued yesterday until October 31 by Justice of the Peace Fred C. Lutz, Riverdale, Md.

Justice Lutz said Louis Arnold, Murrays attorney requested time for summoning witnesses.

Murray was arrested Sunday mirning at College Park.

Fair at Frederick Will Open Today

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Frederick, Md., Oct. 10.—The 50-acre fairground was a veritable bee hive here today as concessionaires and exhibitors prepared for the opening tomorrow of the four-day Frederick Fair.

Entries for the show of draft horses were so numerous that 24 stalls were hastily provided in a large tent. Entries in the household, flower and art departments were not up to last year in number, but exhibits in the farm and garden building promised to outdo any previous effort. Scores of members of the grange and women's clubs completed their exhibits late today.

Latvian Envoy Will Send Gov. Leche His 3 Cents Change

Refund on Gas Tax Amuses Alfred Bilmanis
He Had Thought Treaty Was Being Challenged
Louisiana's Credit Extra Good With Him

Alfred Bilmanis, the Minister of Latvia, laughed until tears rolled down his cheeks over the furore stirred by his routine request that several Southern States refund the gasoline taxes he paid on his recent motor tour.

BILMANIS

"But it's in the treaty," he protested. "It's been going on for years. American diplomatists in Latvia pay no local taxes. Latvian envoys pay no local taxes in America. The State Department takes care of it. I don't understand it."

The Minister exhibited a precis he had prepared at first, when he supposed the treaty was being challenged in some way. He had enumerated several nations which have such understandings with the United States.

When he heard that Louisiana's Gov. Richard J. Leche had mailed him a dollar bill from his own bill fold to settle Latvia's 97-cent-claim his concern gave way to merriment. Gov. Leche acted because his attorney general advised him that the claim could not have been paid without a special act of the legislature.

"But I wouldn't have minded waiting," Bilmanis exclaimed. "The legislature would meet again sometime, wouldn't it? The credit of Louisiana is good with the Latvian legation any time. What a State! It's huge! Ani rich! I saw the new capitol Senator Long built beside the Mississippi River. A skyscraper! Magnificent! And those bridges.

"Yes sir, Louisiana's credit is good with us. But it's sporting of the Governor to pay right away. I can't keep the extra three cents. I'm going to send Gov. Leche his change right back. How would that be, ha?

"As you say in America, the principle of the thing."

Mount Vernon Seminary Wins Tax Suit Test

District Loses $60,000
Other Schools Involved
All May Escape Levies

Tax exemption of many District private schools yesterday seemed assured by a Court of Appeals decision refunding levies paid by Mount Vernon Seminary in 1934 and 1935.

The court held that institutions not run for profit are exempt, even private schools attended by non-residents.

$60,000 Directly Involved

The seminary, a school for girls, paid real estate taxes and penalties under protest and sued in District Court to get its money back. Involved was $25,000 already paid and $35,000 more for which the District government has sent bills in later years. The school won and the District appealed.

The tax office argues that Mount Vernon was not entitled to any exemption because its students were selected on a basis of social and financial standing and because many of them did not live here.

School Makes a Profit

These things, said the court, made no difference.

"The policy of the District," the opinion explained, "as expressed in its statutes, is and should be to encourage rather than to discourage the entrance into its schools of students from all parts of the country."

Although the seminary has reported a net profit in some years, the court pointed out, the money did not go to the incorporators and in no sense was a private gain.

A number of similar requests for exemption already are pending at the District tax office.

Public Schools Urged to Provide Safety Instruction

Guns 'Down' Bombers in N.C. Air Raid

'Net' Traces Invaders
Attack Breaks Through Urban Defense Tested

By Barry Sullivan.
A Staff Correspondent.

Fort Bragg, N. C., Oct. 10.—While searchlights stabbed the moonlit sky, planes of the GHQ air force dashed through the substratosphere tonight to bomb a hypothetical military air base in the first night attack of the mimic air corps anti-aircraft war here.

Leading the way were reconnaissance planes followed by nine attack planes which dived in an attempt to put the antiaircraft guns out of action.

With the way apparently cleared for the bombing planes, six "flying fortresses" and other bombardment craft came in from Cape Hatteras in a two-pronged assault intended to demolish hangars and runways of their objective here.

As they flew over the post the searchlights slashed into action, warned of the advance by sound locaters. Although hindered by clear atmosphere and brilliant moonlight the giant beams were able to pick up some of the aircraft but had difficulty providing sufficient illumination for antiaircraft guns to go into effective action.

Warning Net is Success

The warning net manned by civilians and extending over the State of North Carolina gave defending forces ample information of the attack but pursuit craft, normally in action in such an engagement, remained on the ground while antiaircraft guns defended the post, "bringing down" a number of fast bombers and attack planes.

Earlier in the day hundreds of citizens of North Carolina scanned the skies as 33 planes from the G. H. Q. Air Force at Langley Field, Va., launched a four-hour attack before dawn.

Groggy with sleep, doctors, lawyers, farmers and Coast Guardsmen, a cross-section of the inhabitants of this State—fell out of bed at 3:30 a. m. to serve as observers in the greatest air raid warning net ever set up in this country.

All the preparations for the air corps antiaircraft exercises have been worked out to permit opposing forces to ascertain whether such a warning net can be used as a part of the defenses of the highly strategic industrial and governmental cities of the country.

Early reports indicate that the net is working far more effectively than had been hoped. High officers have expressed gratification at interest and co-operation afforded in the exercises by 2,000 civilians who are on the alert during the war games.

Their messages, sent to defense headquarters here, aided defending pursuit planes and antiaircraft artillery in combatting the attack launched against an hypothetical military air base near the center of the Fort Bragg reservation.

At headquarters the points from which messages were sent were recorded in lights upon a great map of North Carolina and the course of the attacking planes thus was charted. As the aircraft of the G. H. Q. Air Force came on in five separate attacks at all altitudes, pursuit planes rose to meet them, aided by searchlights placed in a ring around Fort Bragg.

At headquarters a group of 50 military observers and newspapermen watched the unfolding of the problem as portrayed by flickering lights on the map.

Lights Record Attack

As the sun rose, a flight of attack planes scudded across the sky on the return journey to Langley Field, while officers commented that clearness of the atmosphere and presence of bright moonlight practically had nullified effectiveness of the searchlights.

Industrial Pay Above Rails, Union Claims

Wage Lag Charged
A. F. L. Offers Aid
Hearing to Continue

By the Associated Press.

The President's fact-finding board heard testimony yesterday that railroad wages had not kept pace with wages of factory workers in recent years.

David Kaplan, statistician for the International Association of Machinists, said the 8 per cent increase granted by the roads in 1937 was only about half as much as increases obtained by 8,500,000 workers in manufacturing industries.

Kaplan was testifying in opposition to the 15 per cent pay reduction ordered recently by the carriers. The pay cut, and a strike which rail workers have voted against it, have both been deferred by law until after the President's board reports to him.

Under cross-examination by W. T. Faricy, counsel for the roads, Kaplan conceded his figures represented hourly rather than weekly or annual wages and did not reflect the amount of employment.

Faricy contended the roads continued to employ workers while many other industries were shutting down and laying off their employes.

George M. Harrison, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives Association, made public a telegram from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, offering to support the railroad unions "to the full extent of our resources" in event of a strike.

Green's telegram, sent on behalf of officers and delegates of the national A. F. of L. convention at Houston, Tex., said in part:

"The membership of the American Federation of Labor is firmly convinced that a reduction in wages of railroad workers would greatly injure business, labor and agriculture. It would reduce purchasing power and thus add to our Nation's economic distress."

The board received testimony from L. E. Keller, research director for the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employes, that rail wages had decreased 38.6 per cent per freight ton mile since 1920, while shipping costs were declining 11.1 per cent.

Keller contended savings brought about by more efficient operation of the roads had not been passed along to shippers and workers.

J. Carter Fort, chief of railroad counsel, took issue with this, asserting the "fruits of all operating efficiency" had gone to employes through the maintenance of high wage scales.

School Census On Cripples Partial Picture

Fails to Tell Story
Many Borderline Cases
New Survey Planned

By Gerald G. Gross

(Third in a series on the lack of educational opportunities for physically handicapped children in the District.)

Your guess is as good as anyone's as to the number of "forgotten children" in the Nation's Capital. No one knows exactly how many there are.

The Board of Education, through the aggressiveness of its president, Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, is tackling the formidable job of bringing up to date its records on children of school age who are absent from classes for health reasons.

Five Hundred Venereal Cases

Ray Everett, executive director of the Washington Social Hygiene Society, estimates that Washington has upward of 500 minors suffering with venereal diseases alone.

The most accurate count of crippled children ever made here was that by Mrs. Beulah Jones Drake, principal of Langdon School. It was completed last summer. She reported 980 in addition to 112 heart and 81 mental cases.

Of the 980 there were 673 white and 307 colored. There were 386 white boys, 287 white girls, 158 colored boys, 148 colored girls. Approximately 60 per cent of the whites and more than half of the colored were of compulsory school age.

Bear in mind that these figures are on boys and girls with body deformities, temporary or permanent. The definition of a crippled child which was followed was: "One who by reason of congenital or acquired defects of development, disease or injury is deficient in the use of his body or limbs."

Figures Not All

And if you could get a clear statistical picture of the total number of boys and girls who are denied the precious boon of education which the law says none shall go without, the full story would yet be untold.

There would still be the Rose Belmonts.

Rose is the 13-year-old daughter of Ben Belmont, 473 F street southwest. She has been suffering from a certain form of heart disease four years. During the first three she was out of school entirely, and her lessons, of course, lapsed.

A year ago last September her recovery reached the stage where she was permitted to re-enter school. Fortunately it was Amidon, only a few steps from her house, an important consideration for a youngster who must refrain from even the mildest exertion.

When the present term opened last month, however, the Belmont girl was forced to transfer to Fairbrother School.

"Amidon does not teach the sixth grade," her father explained, "so she had to go to Fairbrother, or nowhere."

So Rose is now attending Fairbrother School, which is more than a half mile from her home. Two round trips daily—she comes home for lunch—for a child of whom her doctor says:

"All that walking may prove injurious to the girl. Her heart condition at present may be called quiescent but over-exertion is very bad. It could cause a relapse.

No, cases such as hers won't enter into statistical summary of the plight of the Capital's forgotten children. But they are none the less real.

Bible Students In Rally at School

Heralding the opening on Thursday of the 1938-9 term, students and teachers of the Bethel Bible School, Inc., staged a rally and reception last night at their headquarters, the E Street Branch of the Central Y. W. C. A.

Addresses were delivered by Dr. J. E. Miller, dean, who presided; the Rev. Harry V. Schaeffer; the Rev. B. E. Mahan; the Rev. H. A. Nunley, instructor in general prophesy; Mrs. Pearl Hargitt, teacher of typology and symbolism, and the Rev. C. A. Cooper, of Bellingham, Wash.

The Rev. Mr. Cooper, accompanied by his wife, contributed music for the occasion, as did Mrs. Ruth Merrifield, Mrs. Nellie Smith, Edward Harding, Mrs. Hargitt and Ralph Canning, of the Marine Band.

WPA to Provide Schooling for Crippled Children

Among those who attended a conference at the District Building yesterday with a view to providing transportation to schools and others in aid that might afford incapacitated children a means of obtaining an education, were, left to right, Dr. D. L. Seckinger, assistant Health officer; Dr. Ella Oppenheimer, head of maternal and child welfare division; Dr. Joseph A. Murphy, school medical inspector, and Ross Haworth, assistant WPA administrator of the District. announced, following a coference with Health Department and Board of Education officials at the District Building, that he would be receptive to an application for an allotment to provide WPA teachers at Gallinger Hospital's new orthopedic clinic.

Haworth indicated it might be possible to provide visiting teachers.

Classes for crippled children at the Gallinger orthopedic clinic, which is financed by Social Security funds, could be attended only by the 25 or so patients who will be brought to the ward when work on it is finished and some out-patients.

Will Follow Board

"So far as I am concerned," Senator King said, "I shall follow the recommendations of the Board of Education and the District Commissioners.

"There is no reason why these crippled children should not have school facilities just as the others. There must be no discrimination so far as school facilities are concerned. In fact, these children ought to receive a little more consideration than the others, because of their condition."

Volunteers Offer Teaching

Haworth declared the WPA would be "delighted to have the opportunity to help in the care of crippled children through expansion of our educational program."

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, president of the Board of Education, who has made an unrelenting fight for an appropriation for visiting teachers, declared she was delighted with the series of articles in The Post which first brought the plight of the crippled children to the attention of Washingtonians.

She said she had received calls from a number of people who, impressed by the articles in The Post, volunteered to serve as teachers for stay-at-homes.

Mrs. Doyle plans an early meeting of an advisory committee of experts now being organized to form a long-range program for care and instruction of crippled children and those suffering from tuberculosis, defective hearing or poor sight.

"The problems of educating and providing adequate medical treatment for crippled children are inseparable, and make necessary the closest kind of co-operation between Health Department and the school board," she declared.

2 Plead Not Guilty On Liquor Charge

Charged with possessing 470 gallons of untaxed whisky, two men were ordered to appear for hearing Friday when arraigned before United States Commissioner Turnage yesterday.

Joseph R. Baldwin, 21, 700 block Fifth street northwest, and Luther Feemster, colored, 24, 400 block N street northwest, both pleaded not guilty, and were released under $1,500 bond each.

Colored Suspect Held in D.C. Man's Death in Baltimore

Baltimore, Oct. 10 (AP).—Police announced tonight they had arrested a colored man and obtained a confession from him in the slaying of Robert Scott, of the 300 block of Third street southwest, Washington.

Scott died yesterday in City Hospital from a knife wound which penetrated his skull in a fracas with a man who tried to wrest his coat from him.

Before he died, police said, he was able to describe the assailant.

Sergt. Carl Walter and Patrolman Louis Vinup arrested Paul Bennett, colored, on the basis of the description.

Bennett was docketed on a murder charge and held for a hearing.

Straus and Ihlder Both to Address Housing Session

Housing Administrator Nathan Straus and John Ihlder, director of the Alley Dwelling Authority, who have clashed repeatedly in formulating a low-cost housing program for Washington, will speak from the same platform when the National Association of Housing Officials convenes at the Wardman Park Hotel at 10:30 a. m. today.

They will appear on the same program with John H. Fahey, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board; Stewart McDonald, head of the FHA; W. W. Alexander, farm security administrator, and Rear Admiral C. J. Peoples, chairman of the Central Housing Committee.

Dr. F. E. Jackson, Retired Treasury Employe, Dies

Dr. Elmer E. Jackson, 77, for 48 years in Government service and retired employe of the Treasury Department, died Sunday at his home at Chillum, Md.

One of the first to take a civil service examination, Dr. Jackson was appointed to what was known as the Sixth Auditor's Office, in 1884. Later transferred to the Interior Department, during the World War he went to the Treasury.

Dr. Jackson retired in June, 1932, while assistant chief of the section of administrative accounts.

Dr. Jackson is survived by his wife, Mrs. Netta H. Jackson, of Chillum; one daughter, Mrs. Julia J. Redden, and two grandsons, Henry J. Baltz, of Hyattsville and William J. Talbott, of Chillum.

Funeral services were held yesterday at the Gasch funeral home, Hyattsville. Burial was in Rock Creek Park.

Hopson Calls SEC Inquiry a $300,000 Show

Costs Utility That Remark Is Deleted Won't Answer Queries

Howard C. Hopson, utility magnate, yesterday asserted from the witness stand here that the Securities and Exchange Commission investigation was costing the Utilities Employes Securities Co. between $300,000 and $400,000 a year.

The company was suffering this loss, he declared, so that the commission could "put on a show." Trial Examiner Raoul Berger immediately ordered the remark stricken from the records.

For a second time in two weeks Hopson took the stand and refused to answer many questions, saying his information was obtained confidentially as an attorney.

The commission has been trying to ascertain the relationship between the Utilities Employes Securities Co. and Associated Gas & Electric. The former company has asked for a commission order declaring it not a subsidiary of the latter, thus excepting it from some provisions of the holding company "death sentence" act.

Hopson admitted that he once controlled the associated system, but added he had resigned in 1935.

During the hearing a Treasury attorney served Hopson with a subpena ordering him to testify November 16 at Trenton, N. J., at a hearing in connection with the bankruptcy of the Eastern Utilities Investing Corporation, against which the Treasury has a $3,460,059 tax claim.

In District Court yesterday Hopson and other trustees of a group of utility companies asked for an injunction to keep files and records from the SEC. The papers are presently kept from the investigators through a temporary restraining order issued by Chief Justice Wheat last month.

The plaintiffs argued the demand by the SEC that two New York accountancy firms produce the papers was vague, and that surrender of the papers would violate the Constitution.

Moran said an analysis of the bank's liabilities indicated that the directors might be responsible, under the court ruling, for a sum "as high as $500,000." He added that "it will take a Houdini" to compute the exact figure as well as the proportion of remaining assets that was existing on August 30, 1929. He said it was possible that this proportion might be credited to the directors.

Speaking of their personal liability, directors of the bank asserted last night that "$250,000 would be a high estimate." Stressing the complexity of the accounting problem, they said it would be a considerable time before the exact sum could be determined.

A important sidelight of the Supreme Court's refusal to review the appellate court decision was seen in the fact that the high court apparently disregarded the claim that the appellate decision was void because it was given by three judges "and not by the full court of five as required by statute." This was the second time that the Supreme Court has ignored this contention since enlargement of the appellate court from three to five members.

Directors of the bank were: Frank E. Altemus, Wade H. Atkinson, Charles W. Bolgiano, L. T. Breuninger, Justice Joseph W. Cox, of the District Court; H. F. Dismer, Peter M. Dorsch, G. W. Forsberg, J. O. Gheen, E. T. Goodman, John H. Holmead, C. F. Jenkins, A. F. Jorss, E. S. Kennedy, N. Mountford, C. M. Murray, Claude W. Owen, Robert L. W. Owens, Norman O. Oyster, H. A. Polkinhorn, George A. Prevost, Maurice Schlosberg, J. Robert Somerville, Warren W. Spencer, William B. Todd, W. W. Wailes, George E. Walker, George W. White and C. C. Wineberger. The Court of Appeals stated there was no question of bad faith on the part of the directors.

After the unsuccessful uprising of Fascist "Green Shirted" Integralists last May, Rio de Janeiro ewspapers charged that many of the arms used by the rebels were of German manufacture. When Ambassador Ritter left for Germany, it was predicted here that he would not come back.

New Milford, N. J., Oct. 10 (AP).—A crowd of several hundred persons broke through a protective cordon of almost 100 police and firemen tonight, stormed a German-American Bund meeting in a private home with a barrage of rocks and tossed the householder, Adam Kunze, into a nearby pond.

The meeting had been advertised as open to the public.

Coogan's Mother Loses in Court Fight for $40,000

Los Angeles, Oct. 10 (AP).—Jackie Coogan's mother, Mrs. Lillian Bernstein, lost today in her move to obtain release of $40,000 in securities placed in the hands of a receiver pending hearing of the actor's $2,000,000 suit for an accounting of his childhood earnings.

Mrs. Bernstein told the court she needed the money to provide for another son, Robert, and her mother.

George Conways Celebrate Their 60th Anniversary

A bride and bridegroom for 60 years—that's the record of Mr and Mrs George P Conway, of 1401 Sixteenth street northwest, who yesterday celebrated their "diamond" wedding anniversary.

They observed the event by receiving felicitations from friends and neighbors and admitting they are "just as happy as the day we were married."

"I've been a bride for 60 years," said Mrs Conway, arranging a bunch of roses given her by her husband.

"And I guess that makes me still a bridegroom," grinned Conway.

They were married in Slippery Rock, Pa. at the home of Mrs Conway's parents, Mr. and Mrs. David McKee. Her father was a member of the Pennsylvania State Legislature. Conway is a retired postal inspector. Mrs. Conway is an active church worker, and until recently was president of the Ladies Aid Society of the Metropolitan Presbyterian Church (Photograph on picture page)

Opossums Offer Clew To Deafness

Convention Told of Tests
Children May Be Aided
Inner Ear Theory Cited

A series of experiments with baby opossums which may lead to detection and treatment of deafness among children a few months old was reported yesterday to eye, ear, nose and throat specialists in convention at the Mayflower Hotel.

The paper, prepared by Dr. Olof Larsell, of the University of Oregon, and read by Dr. Ralph Fenton, supported the theory that hearing takes place through the cochlea, a snail-like bone inside the eardrum, rather than by tranmission to central areas in the brain. This conception was first developed 90 years ago but recently has fallen into disfavor.

Dr. Larsell discovered that various levels of the cochlea are sensitive only to sounds within a very limited range and that opossums, while still in the mother's pouch, react noticeably to high tones. When particular levels of the tiny animals' internal ear were electrosurgically damaged in laboratory tests, deafness to a corresponding range of sounds resulted.

Warned Against "Racket"

With further development of the Oregon scientist's discoveries, it is believed that insensitivity of a child's ear to certain sound pitches may be readily discovered, without waiting until the child's inability to talk leads to suspicion of deafness.

Earlier in the day members of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology were warned against "racketeering salesmen" who sell at high prices alleged aids to hearing which rapidly wear out and provide no means for repair.

With the American Medical Association formulating minimum standards for hearing aids, Dr. Horace Newhart and Dr. Henry E. Hartig, of Minneapolis, urged ethical manufacturers to submit their products for testitng by the association.

Even the salesman of "accepted" appliances cannot always resist "the temptation to diagnose or to suggest the treatment of ear disease," their report asserted. Use of a mechanical appliance does not provide complete solution of hearing problems of the patient, who should keep in close touch with an otologist or physician in an effort to preserve his residual hearing, the report concluded.

Mastoid Treatment

Successful treatment with sulfanilamid of such highly dangerous ear, nose and throat diseases as mastoiditis and "septic sore throat" was described in a paper by Dr. Karl M. Houser, of Philadelphia.

He pleaded for caution, however, in the use of the potent new drug. Despite its undeniable value in combatting certain conditions, sulfanilamid's usefulness as a preventive has not yet been established, he said.

Dr. M. C. Myerson explained an improvement of the well-known operation for removing cancer from one of the vocal cords, which enables the patient to breathe naturally after the incision, without opening the windpipe lower down in the neck.

After the cancerous cord has been taken out, he said, neighboring tissues are examined immediately in the frozen microscopic sections to insure that no cancer cells have been left behind and the split larynx is sewed up tightly. The patient is unable to speak at first, but in time the remaining vocal cord can function, he stated.

Scientific equipment valued at more than $1,000,000 will be on exhibit at the Mayflower Hotel throughout the forty-third annual convention.

Delegates will go back to school again this morning, enrolling for courses which academy officials say no individual doctor could undertake in less than a year's time. A faculty of 34 will direct the courses, continuing every morning through the week, while a total of 117 specialists will give single-period lectures.

Wives of academy members, were entertained by Mrs. Roosevelt at a reception in the White House yesterday.

Girl Kayoes Two Mashers—She's A Boxing Champ

Chicago, Oct. 10 (AP).—The two men who forced Rose Brendel, 17, into their car last night apparently were unaware of one interesting fact—she once won a medal for boxing.

When the men stopped the car later on, she said, she flattened one with a well-aimed kick. The other kicked her in the abdomen, she told police, after which she subdued him with rights and lefts and fled "several miles" to a street car line.

Miss Brendel said the boxing medal was awarded her in Central High School, of Kansas City, Kans. She weighs 172 pounds.

"I'm as strong as an ox," Miss Brendel said, "and when I hit with my right they stay hit."

Czech Parley With Hungary Near Collapse

By the Associated Press.

Komarom, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 10. Negotiation's between Czechoslovakia and Hungary were reported at the breaking point tonight because delegates of the Prague government considered Hungarian territorial demands "outrageous."

The Czechoslovaks offered about 20 per cent of the territory demanded and suggested discussions of other demands be continued in another conference within two months.

It was understood the Hungarian "minimum claims" include some territory in Carpatho-Russia, extreme eastern portion of Czechoslovakia, which would give Hungary free access to the Polish border on the north.

Army Paces Streets

While Czechoslovak and Hungarian delegations met today, the streets of all Komarom were lined with brisk Czechoslovak police and army detachments apparently ready to prevent the population from repeating pro-Hungarian demonstrations such as were staged yesterday.

Tension was noticeable among Czechoslovak and Hungarian army officers and soldiers, who waited impatiently for the final decision of the conference.

Czechoslovak military experts apparently were proud of their strong army and at the conference let the Hungarian delegates understand they should considerably reduce their demands or the army would not stand for continuation of negotiations.

Will Occupy Junction

Another Hungarian-Czechoslovak meeting will be held tomorrow.

Hungary was expected to occupy tonight the Czechoslovak railway junction of Satoralja Ujhely, just across the border and about 120 miles northeast of Budapest.

Hungary will occupy tomorrow, it was expected, the town of Ipolysag, 50 miles north of Budapest. These two occupations were agreed upon at the conference last night to symbolize the good will of the Czechoslovaks.

Budapest sources said Hungary was demanding surrender unconditionally of about 16,000 square kilometers (about 6,178 square miles) of "pure Hungarian regions" along Czechoslovakia's southern border.

Threats Are Defied

The Hungarian delegates expressed dissatisfaction with the Czechoslovak military display along the border. "The Czechs can't threaten us," they said "—we'll get all we want."

Steel-helmeted Czechoslovak troops reinforced positions here at Komarom and elsewhere along the border ready to resist any invasion before a conference agreement is reached. Almost an entire regiment moved into towns about 40 miles from Komarom.

On the Hungarian side barbed wire entanglements and heavy military guards were established across bridges and roads from Czechoslovakia.

make a full report of the partial wrecking of Innitzer's palace and the injury to the cardinal and two priests.

It was understood the government, which has attributed the disorders to "irresponsible rabble," soon will make a statement regarding the incidents of Friday, Saturday and Sunday night in an effort to allay anger and unrest among Austrian Catholics.

Nazi leaders feared the actions of the frenzied mob of anti-Catholics who tossed a crucifix, prayer books and a painting of the Madonna into a bonfire in the square, might touch off antagonism between the church and Nazi Party.

This fear was intensified by the prediction of reliable church prelates in Vatican City that the Vatican would make a strong protest against the Vienna demonstrations.

Italian Press Protests

The protest, it was understood, would be made through Mgr. Orsenigo, papal nuncio to Berlin.

The Vatican has not yet received a report from the Berlin nunciatura.

British Drive Arabs From Bethlehem

Palestine

Congress today demanded abandonment of the Palestine partition plan and ending of Jewish immigration to Palestine.

The resolution will be presented to the concluding session tomorrow. Other demands include: The Balfour declaration be considered null and void; the British mandate be abolished; parliamentary government in Palestine; Jews resident in Palestine to be considered Palestine citizens; Arabs interned and deported to be freed at once.

The resolution also provides for a committee of congress delegates to go to London immediately to submit the resolutions to the British government.

Celler Asks U. S. Action

By the Associated Press.

Representative Celler (Democrat), New York, urged President Roosevelt yesterday to ask Great Britain not to abandon the idea of a Jewish national home in Palestine.

"The now famous Balfour declaration which guarantees the Jewish people a homeland in Palestine is about to be scrapped," Celler said in a statement. "The German Nazi influence is to blame. Prime Minister Chamberlain and his cabinet have truckled to Hitler . . ."

Celler said the United States was under a "moral obligation" to defend the Palestine homeland because this country had subscribed to the Balfour declaration. The resolution was passed by the Senate and the House and was signed by President Wilson, Celler said.

Contracts Award New School Included Old Relics to Go

By the Associated Press.

Fort George G. Meade, Md., Oct. 10.—The war-time buildings in the Third Corps Area's training grounds for infantry and tanks are disappearign rapidly in the face of a construction program which has advanced the fort to one of the best equipped in the area.

Works Progress Administration laborers picked and shoveled foundations for more buildings today as the Army announced a contract for $122,350 had been awarded to a Baltimore construction firm (C. W. Smith Co.) for erection of a bakers and cooks school and barracks for the students.

The three buildings will be of brick construction, similar to the other barracks and houses for commissioned and noncommisioned officers. It will be built near the other barracks which resemble college dormitories and which replaced the wooden barracks where doughboys were housed during the World War.

The new construction is part of the $2,000,000 program now underway in the corps area.

Another cooks and bakers school is under construction at the Holabird Quartermaster Depot. Also being constructed there are houses for 20 families of noncommissioned officers. A contract for $168,000 has been awarded to a Chicago company.

In addition, WPA laborers are now completing foundations there for barracks to house 300 men, chiefly from departments recently transferred from Washington. Contracts have not yet been awarded, but bids will be opened November 1 for houses to shelter families of seven officers.

The Aberdeen Proving Grounds foundations have been completed by WPA laborers for five double houses for noncommissioned officers. Also to be constructed there are an administration building and a main barracks. Bids are to be opened November 7.

Student Flier Killed In Ohio Plane Crash

Port Clinton, Ohio, Oct. 10 (AP).—Glendon Fillinger, 18, a student pilot, was fatally injured yesterday in a plane crash, and a cousin, Fred Hunske, 20, his passenger, was critically injured. The plane, a rented one, went into a nose dive at about 300 feet.

Prague Fears New Pressure From Reich

Vassal State Held Aim Alliances Involved Economic Domination

Prague, Oct. 10.—Germany was reported in informed circles today to have launched a campaign of pressure upon Czechoslovakia aimed at reducing the republic to the status of a vassal of the Nazi state.

Berlin, whose armies already have completed occupation of the Fifth Zone of ceded territory, was said to have hinted it would forego a further military advance only on condition that Czechoslovakia end its alliances with Russia and France.

[It was reported in Berlin Saturday that no demand had been made upon Czechoslovakia to abolish these alliances, but political circles believed part of Germany's price for economic appeasement would be severance of the pacts, which are at cross-purposes with Germany's foreign policy.]

Further points of the Nazi program were reported as follows:

A customs union which many Czechoslovaks believe would lead eventually to complete domination by Germany.

Outlawing of the Communist Party by Czechoslovakia.

An agreement by which German troops might pass through Czechoslovak territory in event of war in eastern Europe.

Adoption of an anti-semitic policy by Prague sufficient to prevent anti-Nazi activities by Jews in Czechoslovakia.

High Czech quarters said this new German pressure would be resisted bitterly.

The Germans have offered Czechoslovakia use of a confiscated railroad across Nazi-occupied territory connecting Prague and Moravks - Ostrava in northern Moravia in return for establishment of a German station in the southern city of Brno and use of the line from Brno southeastward to Bratislava.

German troops moved today into Petrzalka, directly across the Danube River from Bratislava, completing occupation of the area along the border of Slovakia.

Election of a successor to Eduard Benes, veteran statesman who resigned as President last week, must, under the constitution, be held by October 19. It is expected to indicate the extent of German influence over the shorn republic.

Mentioned for the post are Jan Bata, head of the huge shoe and motor manufacturing interests; Jaroslav Preiss, president if the Zivnostenska Bank, and Rudolf Beran, leader of the Agrarian Party.

K. of C., Italians Here to Celebrate Columbus Day

Special exercises by the Knights of Columbus and Sons of Italy will highlight celebration of Columbus Day here tomorrow.

The District does not officially observe the holiday and public schools will not close. Parochial school pupils, however, will have the day off.

Garibaldi-Columbia Lodge, Sons of Italy, will hold ceremonies tomorrow at 10 a. m. in front of the Columbus Memorial Fountain, Union Station Plaza. The Knights of Columbus will mark the holiday with a parade and exercises at the same shrine in the evening at 7:30.

German Women Change Minds And Give Up Citizenship Here

Return to Homeland U. S. Agrees to Move 52 Take Oath Today

The Government sued in District Court yesterday to cancel the American citizenship of Gertrude Eckhardt, 35, and Mrs. Johanna Meuller, 45, because they went back to Germany to live.

Miss Eckhardt, who lived at 3017 Cortland place northwest, was naturalized October 11, 1934, but less than two years later went home to Stuttgart to work in her father's bakery. Vice Consul John Cope, jr., reported to Secretary Hull that she is going to marry a German citizen.

Mrs. Mueller's Washington home was 325 Ninth street northeast. After becoming a citizen July 8, 1931, she went back to Frankfort-on-Main in April, 1938, and regained her German citizenship last January 3. Also made German citizens were her sons, Johann, 14, and Walter, 6, both born in Washington.

District Attorney Pine and Assistant District Attorney Caldwell filed with the complaints waivers of their rights signed by the women before American officials in Germany.

Fifty-two persons were to take an oath as American citizens before Chief Justice Wheat today. They have lived five years or more in this country and complied with the law requiring them to give notice of their intentions.

They are:

America Asked To Guard Jews From 'Destruction'

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—The Pro-Palestine Federation of America tonight appealed to "American Christians of all denominations to join in requesting of our Government such action as will prevent the total destruction of millions of helpless" Jews.

The federation, an organization headed by Charles Edward Russell, of Washington, isued a manifesto to "fellow Christians" saying it was the "duty of the British government not to yield to Arab violence but to stand firm by their solemn pledge given to the Jewish people through the Balfour declaration and the mandate," for a Jewish national homeland in Palestine.

Loyalists Launch New Ebro Attack

Hendaye, France, October 10 (AP).—The Spanish government rallied its forces on the Ebro front today in an effort to regain ground lost over the week-end.

Activity was concentrated between the Gandesa-Corbera highway and the Sierra de los Caballos, where insurgents asserted they beat off counter-attacks.

Paraguay Given Major Portion of Disputed Chaco

Buenos Aires, Oct. 10 (AP).—The arbitral commission selected to define the Chaco boundary between Bolivia and Paraguay and end one of South America's most bitter territorial quarrels, awarded Paraguay more than three-fourths of the disputed region tonight.

The award left Bolivia without a navigable outlet to the sea on the Paraguay River for which the landlocked nation of 3,000,000 population fought a three-year war ending in an armistice in 1935.

French Grateful To Roosevelt, Bullitt Reports

Special Dispatch to The Post.

New York, Oct. 10.—William C. Bullitt, American Ambassador to France, was among the 1,476 passengers arriving this evening on the French liner Normandie. He reported that following the signing of the Munich four-power pact he was flooded with messages from almost every mayor in France and innumerable organizations expressing gratitude for President Roosevelt's intercession in behalf of a peaceful settlement of the Sudeten problem.

Bullitt explained that he was not here to give a full report to President Roosevelt on the European situation, as had been reported, but had 180 days vacation or leave due him. He will go to Washington tomorrow and then he will "seek a place in the sun to rest."

Britain to Put Home Defense On Army Basis

Territorials Bolstered Tank Units Added Would Aid Regulars

By the Associated Press.

London, Oct. 10.—War Secretary Hore-Belisha tonight announced complete reorganization of the territorial army, Britain's home defense force, to put it on a regular army footing.

The minister acted swiftly following the pledge last week of Prime Minister Chamberlain to "make good our deficiencies" shown during the European crisis.

Hore-Belisha said the reorganization would "produce an up-to-date army capable of reinforcing the regular army by units or formations."

Up to now the territorial army, which is a volunteer, part-time force of about 200,000 men, has regarded as a purely home defense organization.

The new plans apparently envisage its use to reinforce even a continental expeditionary force of the regular army.

The war secretary reviewed the work of mobilizing 50,000 men of antiaircraft and costal defense units in the recent crisis and declared it disclosed "both resources of our strength and evidences of our weakness."

Speaking of the territorial army, he said:

"This army must, with modifications appropriate to its peculiar character, be given the same content and be put on the same footing as the regular army. . . . It is deficient in many of the up-to-date units which the regular army has, and the necessary proportion of arms and services are lacking. These shortcomings must be made good."

He made only a passing reference to widespread criticism concerning shortage of antiaircraft guns.

Following are the principal territorial army changes:

Both light and heavy machine-gun battalions for the infantry.

Eight-gun batteries for the artillery, along regular army lines, instead of the present four-gun batteries.

Simon to Switch His Constituency

London, Oct. 10 (AP).—Sir John Simon, the Chancellor of the Exchequer and a member of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's "inner cabinet" during the Czechoslovak crisis, has decided to abandon his difficult constituency and stand for election in the safer Yarmouth division.

It was announced tonight he would not seek re-election from the industrial constituency in Spen Valley where Sir John had a meager majority of 642 at the last election in 1935. Arthur Harbord, a member of Sir John's own Liberal National Party, was elected from the Yarmouth division by a majority of 5,340.

Killed 20,000, Chinese Claim

Lindbergh 'Lied' About Russia's Strength In the Air, Angry Soviet Fliers Charge

Associated Press WIREPHOTOS.

Accused of spreading lies about Russia's air strength, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, shown at left with Vladimir Kokkinaki (in white) who was his host during his recent visit to Moscow, was termed a "stupid liar, a lackey and a flatterer of German Fascists" in a statement signed by ten noted Russian fliers, headed by Vasily Molokoff, civilian aviation chief, shown at right

By the Associated Press.

Moscow, Oct. 10.—Eleven Soviet aviation leaders denounced Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today in a letter which referred to alleged statements by the American flier published in London after he visited Moscow in August. The Soviet fliers charged Lindbergh stated the Soviet air force was weak.

(Lindbergh declined comment when he arrived late today in Rotterdam with Mrs. Lindbergh, en route from France to Berlin for the annual session of the Lilienthal Society for Aerial Research.

(Neither in Moscow, which the couple visited August 17-26, nor subsequently has there been any public statement by Lindbergh on his Russian trip or any other subject.

(The statements attributed to him in the Soviet airmens' letter were of the same tenor as an article in the October 5 issue of The Week, London leftist publication).

Arctic Fliers Sign

The letter, published in Pravda, organ of the Central Committee of the Communist Party, and circulated by Tass (Russian official news agency), accused Lindbergh of making "slanderous and insolent anti-Soviet utterances" before guests of Lady Astor, Virginia-born member of the British House of Commons.

The Daily Herald, of London, Labor paper, quoted Lady Astor as declaring a "complete lie" the report Col. Lindbergh pronounced the Soviet air force inefficient during a visit at her home.

The letter as circulated by Tass said in part:

". . . recently Lindbergh again visited the Soviet Union. It should be noted that nobody invited him and he was allowed to come only upon request of the Americans. Taking use of the permission to arrive, Lindbergh visited the festivities held Aviation Day and upon the return to London made use of the fact of his stay in the U. S. S. R. for slanderous and insolent anti-Soviet utterances which were served for Lady Astor's guests. It appears Lindbergh declared in London that Germany possesses powerful aviation which is able to defeat the air fleets of England, France, the U. S. S. R. and Czechoslovakia.

Second Lie Charged

"On what grounds did he base his statements? Allah alone knows.

"The second statement outstripped the first. He declared that in the course of his stay in Moscow he was offered the post of chief of Soviet civil aviation.

"Lindbergh as chief of aviation! Such absurd lies can only make us fliers laugh.

"A further quite unbridled falsehood followed. 'The Soviet air fleet,' Lindbergh declared, 'is left without leadership and is in a chaotic state.' It would be unnecessary to refute such an obvious lie.

"The same The Week agency which reported Lindbergs's statement declared that, according to information at the disposal of the higher command in London, Paris and Prague, the Soviet air fleet at least was equal to the fleets of Germany and Japan taken together, not mentioning the qualitative superiority of Soviet aviation.

"Mr. Lindbergh got into an awkward situation, making himself a laughing stock of the entire world. He found himself perfoming the part of a silly liar, underling and lackey of German Fascists and their British aristocratic patrons.

"Lindbergh acted in conformity with instruction of British reactional circles 'to prove the weakness of Soviet aviation' and thus provide Chamberlain with an argument in favor of capitulation in Munich in the Czechoslovakia problem."

The Lindberghs visited Moscow, August 17-26, then flew to the Ukraine and left Russia August 31.

It was pointed out at the American Embassy they came like any American tourists and the embassy asked nothing for them it would not normally ask for any Americans.

Berlin Visit Delayed

Berlin, Oct. 10 (AP).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh was expected to arrive in Berlin tomorrow to attend the annual session of the Lilienthal Society of Aerial Research, opening Wednesday.

His arrival was set for today, but bad weather caused the postponement.

Discard Soviet, Italy's Price For Paris Pact

Press Outburst Warning Peace to Be No Bargain French 'Egoism' Scored

By the Associated Press.

Rome, Oct. 10.—Informed quarters expressed a belief tonight Premier Mussolini would demand France denounce her alliance with Soviet Russia as an essential part of any French-Italian reconciliation.

A fresh outburst of bitterness against France appeared in the Fascist press and political circles viewed the campaign as a warning the French need not expect reestablishment of friendly relations with Italy at bargain rates.

(Reports of a new French-Italian understanding spread with signing of the four-power accord at Munich and Premier Daladier of France, last Tuesday announced Paris soon would be able to send an ambassador to Italy, resuming normal diplomatic relations broken off late in 1936 after the Italo-Ethiopian War. It was reparted in Paris the cabinet would meet Tuesday or Wednesday to name a new envoy.)

Along with the press attack upon France came much praise for Italy's "unilateral" contribution to international appeasement through the plan announced Saturday for withdrawal of part of her troops from insurgent Spain.

The newspapers insisted no further sacrifices in the cause of peace could be expected from Italy without corresponding gestures from others.

Virginio Gayda, authoritative Fascist editor, referred in his Il Giornale d'Italia in unusually strong terms to France's "avid egoism, overbearing pretentiousness, general jealousy, intrigue, continuous hostility and unremitting march toward the depths of subversive criminality."

La Tribuna in referring to the decision to bring home Fascist troops from Spain observed that "No other country has done as much—neither France, which continues to nourish and tolerate red spots, nor any other big or little democracy which participates in the theoretical and intermittent labors of the committee of nonintervention without having succeeded thus far in subtracting a single mercenary from the band in the pay of the Barcelona bolsheviks.

Reich to Let Jews Emigrate On Passports Visaed by U. S.

By the Associated Press.

Berlin, Oct. 10.—United States Consul Raymond H. Geist today obtained from German authorities assurance the government order invalidating Jews' passports would not halt intending emigrants to the United States who had received American visas.

In conferences with the Gestapo (state police) and with the foreigners' department of the regular police, Geist obtained agreement such passports would be revalidated without further difficulty.

United States consular authorities estimated several thousand passports bearing American immigration visas were in the hands of Jews still in Germany.

Revalidation is to be on unmistakable process. A large red letter "J" (for Jew) about an inch and a half high is stamped on the first page of a revalidated passport.

The Nazi regime thus will help to make the world conscious of the Jewish problem—an aim which Julius Streicher, Germany's chief Jew-baiter, long has advocated.

It was understood Switzerland and the Netherlands had asked that Germany identify Jewish travelers, so assurances might be required of a German Jew given a travel visa to those countries that he would not turn refugee as soon as he had left German soil.

Deanna Triumphs Again In "That Certain Age"!

New Keith Film Makes Four Hits in Row
Variety Honors First Chief Barkers
This and That About Amusements

SEVERAL months ago, in a moment of bravado, this space had the temerity to suggest that no "awkward age" hiatus would be permitted to interrupt the screen careers of such thoroughly equipped youngsters of the cinema as Mickey Rooney, Freddie Bartholomew, Judy Garland, Deanna Durbin, Bonita Granville, Jackie Cooper and one or two others who first attracted attention as that abhorred thing, the "child prodigy" and subsequently had betrayed such rich natural endowments as to forecast eventual and permanent stardom.

BELL.

That timorous prophesy seems gradually to be coming true. Perhaps not so gradually, either. Master Rooney, at the age of 18, is on the verge of individual stardom; the precocious Miss Granville, still in her early 'teens, is recognized as one of Hollywood's most versatile "character actresses," for her years, and Deanna Durbin, at 15, is the reigning queen of the Universal lot. The others have progressed as rapidly as their less abundant opportunities have permitted.

But it is the ingenuous and utterly unspoiled Miss Deanna Durbin, all things considered, who reveals the most remarkable development of them all, for one so young. Not only is she a charming and a natural actress, with an adroit sense of gentle comedy, but her voice and its use—whether in popular songs or operatic arias—are those of a mature and fully developed woman. This has been increasingly demonstrated in the three smashing screen successes in which Deanna already is known to the public—"Three Smart Girls," "One Hundred Men and a Girl" and "Mad About Music." It is given greater emphasis than ever in "That Certain Age," coming to RKO-Keith's Theater on Thursday of this week.

Some of us had taken the suggestion that "That Certain Age" would prove Deanna's greatest hit, to date, with a grain of salt. That grain of salt, in so far as this desk is concerned, was completely dissolved during yesterday afternoon's preview of the picture in the private projection room of the Twentieth Century-Fox Film Exchange. The lateness of the hour set for the screening caused your reporter to miss a portion of the picture he had feared he would not be able to see at all, but the portions viewed were sufficient to send him back to the salt mines slightly maudlin over the sheer charm of the thing.

There is a little more body to "That Certain Age" than there has been in the earlier Durbin vehicles, with the possible exception of "One Hundred Men and a Girl." In it, the rapidly maturing Miss Durbin is permitted to venture near the fringes of adult romanticism by falling girlishly in love with an heroic war correspondent just back from the Spanish front to write a series of special articles for her rich daddy's prodigious string of papers. This brief truancy from her own juvenile set, busy producing a Boy Scout benefit play, necessarily interrupts her youthful admiration of Ken, an Eagle Scout, whose tender sentiments soar high. That is all made right, however, by the considerate deceptions of the lionized Vincent Bullit, who painlessly deflects the great love in the heart of the juvenile Juliet.

The point is that here is a film play that enables Deanna to play on an equal footing with such veteran artists as Melvyn Douglas, John Halliday, Irene Rich and Nancy Carroll with not a moment of disparagement of herself or her brilliant talents. On the youthful side, in addition to the star, are Jackie Cooper, Jackie Searl, Peggy Stewart and that pestering baby actress, Juanita Quigley, to lend fine balance to an unusually amusing and delightful December-and-May romantic comedy.

Ballasting the four popular songs in which the Durbin voice is heard are Delibes' "Les Filles Des Cadiz" and the waltz aria from Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet." They are, needless to say, sung with a beauty and fullness of voice out of all proportion to the years of the amazing young artiste who sings them.

I should say that about four weeks should be a conservative estimate of the probable minimum length of run of "That Certain Age" on Fifteenth street.

It is pleasant, too, to see Irene Rich back on the silver sheet, as vivacious as ever and, if anything, more convincing, as Mrs. Fullerton, Deanna's mother. It was Miss Rich, you will recall, who was the late Will Rogers' perennial leading woman, back in the old days of the silent films. She appeared opposite the lamented star oftener than any other actress in Hollywood—thanks to the perspicacity of Sam Goldwyn and the insistence of Mr. Rogers. My most vivid recollection of her, however, is the memory of her all sprawled out on the floor with Jimmy Savo entertaining a roomful of youngsters at a Post Christmas toy party at the Willard. She revealed qualities then that are apparent in the perfection of her performance in her present role of young motherhood. And besides that, she has grown daughters of her own. If you will look closely in the bridle-path scene in "That Certain Age," you also will catch a glimpse of Betty Blythe, another former star in her own right on the silent screen.

The Variety Club's 1938-39 luncheon season was opened with what is euphoniously termed a "bang" in the Willard room of the Willard Hotel yesterday afternoon at 1. Every place at every table was filled to pay tribute to Rudolph Berger, Washington manager for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, and Zone Manager John J. Payette, of the Warner Brothers' local interests, the first two Chief Barkers of the club, back in the days when all of the preliminary organization work had to be done.

A. Julian Brylawski, present Chief Barker, and that high-strung Southern gentleman, Sam Galanty, Eastern division manager for Columbia Pictures, were the "kings for the day." With Chief Barker Brylawski as toastmaster and spokesman, the Messrs. Payette and Berger were presented with handsomely mounted silver plaques, commemorative of their services to the club—which, incidentally, has grown into one of the Capital's most active and most valuable civic and charitable forces.

Entertainment was furnished, to "show-stopping" applause, by Ethel Shepard, songstress, and Eddie Garr, headliner and master of ceremonies, both of this week's stage bill at Loew's Capitol Theater.

This initial luncheon of the year was a champagne affair, served in Boniface Harry P. Somerville's best manner, with knives and forks and napkins and everything.

The name of the new vehicle in which Ina Claire will be seen at the National for a week's engagement, beginning Monday night, October 31, has been changed from the mildly inept "Generals Need Beds" to "Yankee Fable." Although "Yankee Fable" is said to be pure comedy, Lewis Meltzer, the author, has deftly woven the important theme of a nation's fight for a democratic form of government into three acts of exciting scenes. The scene of the play is a Colonial mansion in Murray Hill, New York, in which Gen. Howe, lured by the charms of a hospitable American, dallies while the rebels plot the burning of the British army camp. John Williams, Claud Allister, Eda Heidemann and Robert Pitkin, former Washington impresario, are prominent in the elegant cast assembled by Producer Cheryl Crawford for Miss Claire's support. This is quite a season we're having this year, by the way.

Neither has the depression reached the matter of the preview. With "That Certain Age" out of the way yesterday, the Loew executives are unspooling "Too Hot to Handle," costarring Clark Gable and Myrna Loy, at 1:30 today and tomorrow, at the same hour, the Warners are unfurling "I Am the Law," starring Edward G. Robinson.

The guys and gals of the drayma desks, I believe, still have an open hour between 4 and 5 a. m., the morning of July 17, 1939!

My gentlemanly subdued squawk yesterday that the bulletin concerning the incoming attractions at the Earle failed to state who sang what in "Garden of the Moon" elicited a by-return-messenger statement from the management that "Discovery" John Payne appears as a band leader in this subject, featuring Pat O'Brien, Margaret Lindsay and others, and, as such, sings "Love Is Where You Find It" and "Confidentially." The band over which he swishes his rattan actually is Joe Venuti and His Swing Cats and "dubbed in" as members are Johnny Davis and Joe Colonna. They account for "Girl Friend of the Whirling Dervish" and "Lady on the Two-Cent Stamp." So now you know.

In "Knickerbocker Holiday," musical comedy has been made the vehicle of spirited, tuneful and pungent political satire, so skillfully embellished with pithy lines and lyrics and so handsomely melodized with a variegated musical score as to create the illusion of a completely new form in the theater.

Maxwell Anderson, author of the book and lyrics of the second successive offering of the newly formed Playwrights' Producing Company, which opened in the National Theater last night before an enthusiastic audience, had a timely idea to expound and adopted a novel method of unfolding it. Kurt Weill, the composer, caught the tempo and the mood of every scene in as expertly turned a musical setting as has come along to the lighter lyrical stage in many seasons. The result is an evening of sheer delight for those who are able to define musical comedy in terms other than those of bare legs, writhing torsos and feminine pulchritude.

It is Washington Irving's presumable perplexity in divorcing himself from the gossip columns of his day and getting down to the substantial business of writing something serious and worthy that Mr. Anderson has chosen as the basis of his libretto. As a sort of prologue to the two acts and three scenes, Mr. Irving, a dashing young blade of 26, enters his study in the year 1809—at the side of the proscenium under a stage box—and ruminates in speech and song upon the object of his ambition. As he writes, the pages of his "Knickerbocker's History" come to life behind the footlights and involve him in all manner of unexpected difficulties. The characters in the New Amsterdam of 1647 need constant prodding lest they do something unworthy of posterity. It is a problem of some delicacy.

Blends Romance And Politics

The principal factors in the story are a hot-tempered young townsman, with a total inability to take orders; the daughter of the slightly corrupt town councilman with whom he is in love, the Town Council itself and, in due course, doughty old Pieter Stuyvesant, who arrives in the capacity of new Governor of the settlement, just in time to save young Master Brom Broeck from being hanged by the stomach until dead to satisfy the council's unanimous view that some one has to be hanged on hanging day or it would be no kind of holiday worthy of the name.

The Governor, being a crafty grafter on his own account, strikes up a bargain with Councilman Tienhoven, pertaining to the shady matters of taxes, wages, profits and the like, and involving also the remunerative business of "bootlegging" guns and fire water to the Indians—a capital offense. To insure his own "split" of the potential wealth in this arrangement, Tienhoven pledges the hand of his daughter, Tina, to the Governor, and let Master Broeck go hang—if that can be arranged.

From this point on, "Knickerbocker Holiday" becomes not only an amusing and melodious romance, but at the same time a penetrating analysis of the conflict between the rule of a "professional" tyrant, obessed with the notion of one-man rule, as against the "amateur" system of a rotating democratic form government. The work somehow suggests a composite of that popular old musical comedy, "The Burgomaster," and the prevalent "I'd Rather Be Right," pitched back into the middle years of the seventeenth century. The whole merry charade is as refreshing as it is timely in its import.

Clevely Acted, Well Sung

Washington Irving's final interruption of the belligerent plans of his irascible old Pieter Stuyvesant is a cleverly devised denouement designed for the comfort of later day descendants of that ineffectual Town Council, bristling with the names of Vanderbilt, DePeyster, Roosevelt, DeVries, Van Rensselear and Van Cortlandt—a gentle gesture probably as superfluous as it is hilarious in its aping of the screen's persistent declaration that "all characters and events depicted in this play are fictitious and not intended to reflect upon any person or place."

The pivotal roles in this lively item have been judiciously distributed among players who are able to do amole justice to [illegible] serio-comic narrative and the sprightly music. [illegible] in the role of Stuyvesant, is, of course, one of the theater's most gifted actors, with a fine command of both dramatic forcefulness and effective levity. His vocal numbers last evening were only a reminder to some in the audience that singing has not always been foreign to his professional activities, but when he joined the "line girls" and danced on his peg-leg, that was in the nature of a complete revelation.

Richard Kollmar is a robust and engaging Brom Broeck, whether singing or acting, and Jeanne Madden's Tina Tienhoven is sufficient evidence that she should have been on the metropolitan stage long ago. Her voice is limpid and true with reserve power fully equal to the more bravura passages in her score. Washington Irving is splendidly acted and sung by Ray Middleton and Mark Smith, George Watts, Frances Pierlot, Charles Arnt, John E. Young, James Phillips and Richard Cowdery form a fabulous group of aldermen. Clarence Nordstrom, Harry Meehan and Howard Freeman contribute further to the comedy.

There are 20 musical numbers in the two acts, of which "It Never Was You," "How Can You Tell An American," "The One Indispensable Man," "September Song," "Our Ancient Liberties" and "[illegible]" were overwhelming hits last night. The piece is staged in infallible manner.

One suspects that the Playwrights' Producing Co. has another hit on its hands.

In Hollywood

With Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Calif., Oct. 10.—I really shouldn't tell you this, because it will mean hundreds more children trying to get on the screen, and with all those in production it appears we have a full quota. But when Paul Hesse was out here snapping some color photographs he made a picture of a little boy and sold it to the Saturday Evening Post for a goodly sum. They used it as a cover.

HEDDA HOPPER

When the picture "Blondie" was started at Columbia they were destitute for a 4-year-old. The Post was lying on a table. The director picked it up and said; "Now, that's the type of kid we want."

The man he was talking to said: "I believe I know that boy. He lives down in Santa Monica."

He did—his name is Larry Sims and he's playing the part. On the set the company gave him a birthday party. It was the first he's ever had. Also one for Daisy, his dog. Hers was a layer cake—especial hamburger. Daisy happens to be a male, just as she is in the comic strip.

• • • •

In the same picture, Penny Singleton had a unique experience. She not only tested for the part of "Blondie," but prayed for it. And I mean prayed. But Shirley Deane got it. After three days work Shirley was taken ill and Penny is "Blondie"—doing a swell job.

Frank Capra has gone to Washington to do his own snooping and research for his next picture "The Man From Montana," which should be called "Mr. Deeds From Montana."

Those four directors who turned down "Boys Town" because they didn't consider it picture material, no longer have to pinch themselves to blush. You just open your mouth to say "Boy . . ." and crimson engulfs them. They were Jack Conway, Sam Wood, Jack Rubin and Ed Marin.

Director Roy Del Ruth not only has a heart, but uses it. He met Kane Richmond at 20th Century the other day. Kane's been in pictures a long time, but for the last couple of years hasn't been very affluent. Roy gave him a test and has put him in a featured role in "Tail Spin" at Kane's top salary. He also has an option for his future services.

Sidney Lanfield's three-year-old girl pulled a wifty on the Russian composer, Sam Pokrass. Sam was trying to impress the young lady, and kept saying: "Won't you be my girl?"

The child just looked at him. He said: "We'll go round steady . . . we'll go round and round."

She said, "I can't, it makes me dizzy."

Anita Louise got publicity on a fake ankle injury. Glenda Farrell had a real one—still limps and can't get a line.

Virginia Bruce and Joan Bennett are the two ace needle pointers of the town. Joan did a rug for her front hall and Virginia's doing seats for her dining room chairs. Busy hands make happy hearts—or just another way of spelling frupal.

'Where's the Umpire,' Wonders Tinker as Floogie Discards Rules

Tinker, 2-year-old terrier, owned by Donald Watson, 16, and his sister, Margaret Jean, 14, and "Flat Foot Floogie" hero-worshipping duck owned by Margaret Jean, stage one of their daily tussles at the Watson home, 3619 Van Ness street northwest. Flatt Foot Floogie" whose nickname is "Ruckie" or anything else you happen to think of, according to Margaret Jean, follows Tinker around the yard, and usually sulks when the dog is not there. When "Floogie" discovered Tinker's favorite sport was playing ball, the duck horned in. Now when the dog refuses to give up the ball, the duck is ready to fight about it. These sudden changes from affection to quarrelsomeness keep Tinker puzzled about his companion, but when the duck attempts to stray from the yard, Tinker forces her back, or trots along as guard.

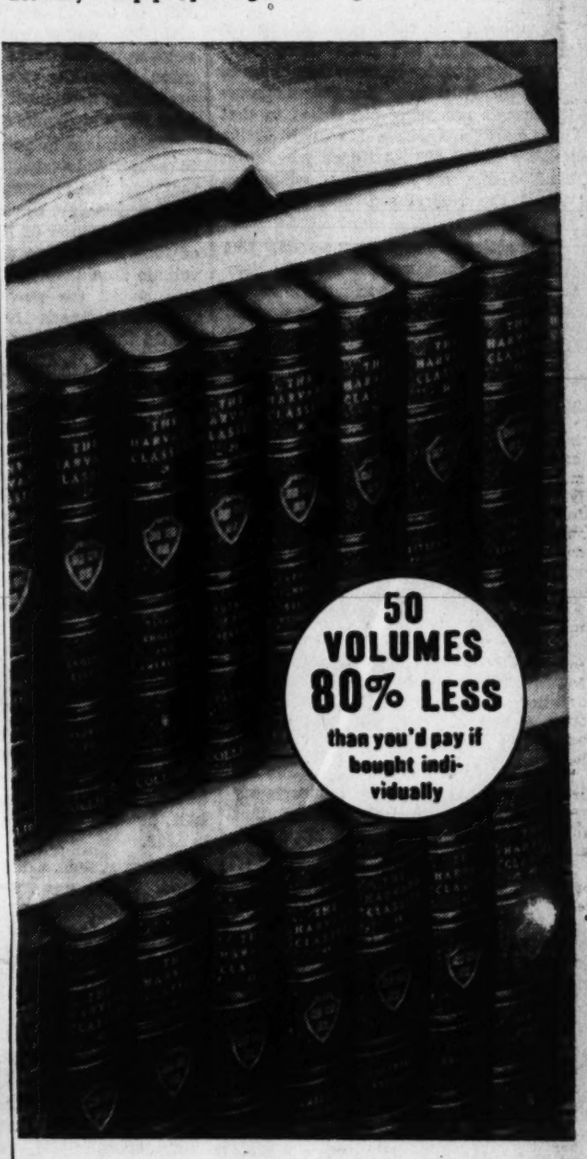
WORLD'S MOST FAMOUS BOOKS
AT A PRICE YOU CAN NOW AFFORD

Are you one of the thousands who have always wanted to own the Harvard Classics? You know what a powerful force they exert—helping ambitious men and women to achieve success in business and society. But until now, something has always kept you from making the investment.

Today that barrier is broken. Now you can own this world-famous library for less than 20 per cent of the price you would have to pay for these books if you bought them individually. This is the opportunity you've been waiting for. Now you can own the Harvard Classics at a price you can easily afford. But you must not delay—for paper, printing and binding costs are rising daily.



BANISH INFERIORITY COMPLEX

As you read these masterful volumes and become absorbed in the world's greatest biography, philosophy, drama, poetry, humor, science, and religion—your perception grows keener—you feel mentally fit. Self-consciousness and mental inferiority that hold others back, vanish. You face the world, and your work, with new assurance, greater vigor.

DR. ELIOT'S FIVE-FOOT SHELF OF BOOKS
(THE HARVARD CLASSICS)

Today a cultural background is an absolute necessity if you are to get ahead. For success demands that you meet people on an equal footing—think clearly—and develop the power of self-expression.

Dr. Eliot, forty years President of Harvard University, made it his crowning achievement to assemble the truly great masterpieces into a compact library of 50 volumes—The Harvard Classics.

ELIOT FOUNDATION COURSE FREE
Now, for the first time, the famous ELIOT FOUNDATION COURSE OF ADULT EDUCATION is included with The Harvard Classics at no extra cost. The Course, prepared by noted university authorities, brings to your fireside the advantages of the finest liberal arts instruction. Keyed to modern trends in education, it presents a curriculum in step with the most progressive teaching methods.

RARE INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY
Here is a true investment opportunity—a purchase you should make even before you think of a new home, finer clothes, a bigger car. It's a small investment, to be sure, but one that may change the entire course of your life. As Dr. Eliot himself has said, "In these books are the essentials of a liberal education. Even if a man devote but fifteen minutes a day to them, he can become well-read". Find out about them today!

"I THANK MY LUCKY STARS I SAW THIS COUPON! IT BROUGHT ME SUCCESS AND HAPPINESS FAR BEYOND MY DREAMS!"

FREE—Men and women in every walk of life thank the inspiration that prompted them to send for the little booklet "Fifteen Minutes a Day". Britain And Palestine

The breathing spell provided by the pact of Munich has given Great Britain an opportunity to mend her battered fences in Palestine. Large-scale reinforcements are being dispatched to that danger zone and within a fortnight 20,000 heavily armed British troops will be on hand to suppress an uprising which has turned the Holy Land into dark and bloody ground.

This action comes none too soon. The situation in Palestine has steadily gone from bad to worse. As long ago as the summer of 1937, in fact, it was deemed so bad that the British government suggested a partition of the country into a Jewish and an Arab state, with Great Britain holding a mandate over the holy cities and a corridor from Jerusalem to the sea.

The partition plan clearly represented a desire by Great Britain to divest herself of responsibilities she had assumed after the war. It was tantamount to an admission of failure to fulfill the terms of the 1922 mandate. Nonetheless, the plan might have had constructive results had it been put into force at once. It was not. Not until early this year did the British government even get around to appointing a commission to delimit the frontiers of the prospective Jewish and Arab states, and that body has not yet reported its findings.

For 15 months, therefore, Palestine has lived in a state of complete uncertainty regarding its political future, and that uncertainty has fed the flames of passion. Every passing month has seen a steady increase in acts of individual violence. During the last 12 weeks alone there have been more than 1,800 casualties, with an estimated death toll of more than 800. But not even this ghastly situation has shaken Great Britain out of her dilatory course.

The indications are that the London government will now take a strong stand. The very circumstance that Britain's prestige has been weakened by the Munich accord has made it peremptory for her to prove to the Arabs, and others who live within the orbit of British interests in the Near East, that Great Britain is not as decadent a power as Fascist propaganda has sought to make out. But if order is restored in Palestine, what then?

Faced by a great increase in the number of refugees from Hitler's Germany and from other parts of Central and Eastern Europe, the Jews are clamoring that the doors into Palestine be opened wider. This humanitarian appeal cannot be ignored by London, particularly since as long as the mandate obtains Great Britain is pledged to permit the establishment of a Jewish homeland in Palestine.

On the other hand, the Arabs are not only insisting that the partition plan be discarded but also that Jewish immigration into the Holy Land be stopped altogether. Thus Great Britain finds itself between the upper and nether millstones. But whatever its ultimate decision regarding the future of Palestine, there can be no shirking the responsibility to re-establish order in that unhappy land. Delay in doing that has been costly; further delay would be disastrous to Arab, Jew and Briton alike.

Of Independence

In the light of some very recent events there may seem to be no little irony in the motto which appears on the reverse of the Roosevelt Memorial Medal. "If," it reads, "I have to choose between righteousness and peace, I choose righteousness." Today perhaps the side of righteousness is not as easy to discern as Theodore Roosevelt thought it was when he uttered those words. However this may be, the Roosevelt Memorial Association has certainly followed the spirit of the motto to the extent of awarding the medals this year to two men of whom it could not be said, either by friend or enemy, that they prefer the side of peace.

In selecting Senator Carter Glass and Robert Moses to be the recipients of the medals, the association has honored two of the Nation's most distinguished "yes, but" men. Indeed, the place of the "yes, but" man in contemporary politics probably has never been much better defined than in the citation which accompanies Senator Glass' medal: "He has worked within the party, but reserved the right frequently to fight its measures in Congress."

This independence of mind and tongue, exemplified by Senator Glass in the legislative sphere, is equally exemplified in the administrative sphere by Mr. Moses. When he fights, says his citation, he does so "with the grim satisfaction of the crusader." Even more important than that is the fact that he fights with success, as is abundantly attested by his achievements with the parks and playgrounds of New York State and City and as head of the Triborough Bridge Authority.

The success of Mr. Moses' methods in such a time as this has a moral importance even greater than his physical accomplishments. He has proved that independence when combined with courage and intelligence still has value—that it is not, as many are now saying, a luxury the world can no longer afford.

Business Upturn

Business and employment gains reported by the Federal Reserve Board for August and September are the more striking because of the shadows cast by the European crisis during that period. Despite the uncertainty that overhung virtually every enterprise, economic recovery in the United States made rapid gains. From the viewpoint of industrial production September is believed to have been the best month since October, 1937.

The increase in output is not confined to favored industries. That fact suggests that a genuine recovery movement is once more under way. During the slack period from the summer of 1937 to the summer of 1938 goods were consumed in larger volume than they were produced. Surplus stocks are now largely depleted. Current demands for finished goods should thus be more quickly translated into orders for raw materials and re-employment of labor.

Industrial activity has been gaining since May, employment since June. During the last five months the Federal Reserve Board's index of industrial production has advanced from 76 to an estimate of 90 for September (the 1923-1925 average equals 100). Coupled with the present improved outlook, this showing certainly stimulates optimism.

It is important, however, that this upturn be viewed in perspective. The volume of production is still considerably below the level attained throughout 1936 and during most of 1937. The second quarter of this year was almost on a par, so far as the output of goods is concerned, with the depression year of 1933. Now industry is back to the 1935 level. Production is greater than the average for 1931, but still below the average volume in 1930.

Obviously, then, a difficult pull remains ahead. If the upward trend is to continue, industry will have to be given an opportunity to expand its operations under relatively stable conditions. Labor will have to assist rather than retard recovery, making its ultimate gain the more certain thereby. And the Administration will have to do its part to encourage the revival of private enterprise.

A constructive gesture in favor of better relations between business and Government has already been made by the White House. That might well be followed up by efforts to remove political obstacles to full recovery wherever possible. A continuously unbalanced budget is a constant threat to any lasting recovery. Now that employment is showing very positive gains, Government expenditures ought to be tapered off as a matter of course.

The Works Progress Administration reports that "many thousands" of its workers are finding other means of support every week. Approximately 195,000 persons left WPA rolls in August. These findings corroborate other indications that relief needs are less acute than they were a few months ago. Yet WPA continues to expand its pay roll.

The Administration can gradually curtail its excess spending and modify other extreme policies without in any way threatening its basic social reforms. Indeed, the gains of the New Deal would be placed on a much more secure footing by a return to financial orthodoxy and adjustment of some statutes that are now a source of unnecessary friction. The duration of present economic trends may depend in large measure upon the willingness of the Administration to shift its emphasis from new experiments to perfection of existing programs in the interests of recovery.

Argument For Revision

The American Federation of Labor has made out a good case for revision of the national labor relations act. In trying to outline the needed amendments, however, the resolutions committee at the Houston convention was less effective.

If the A. F. of L. had its way, the power of the National Labor Relations Board to designate the unit for collective bargaining purposes within each industry would be sharply curtailed. It points out that under the present system some craft unions are forced to stand aside and let rival C. I. O. unions bargain for them because the latter represent a majority of the employes in an entire industry. On the other hand, the C. I. O. complains when the board permits a craft union to bargain for only a fraction of the employes working in a single plant or larger industrial unit.

Under the amendment requested by the Houston convention the NLRB would be compelled "to grant a craft or class the right to select its bargaining representatives by majority vote." That change would disrupt the principle of majority representation in collective bargaining and act as a serious setback to industrial unionism. In effect, it would make the law biased in favor of the A. F. of L.

If industrial and craft unionism are to exist side by side some agency must determine which type of employe representation is best suited to the differing conditions found in various industries. It is not satisfactory to have a governmental board exercising this function with two rival labor organizations bidding for its favor. Under this arrangement the tendency is for the decisions of the board to determine what direction the future growth of unionism should take. That is a decision which only the workers themselves can properly make.

To amend the law to favor craft unions, however, would be even less satisfactory than leaving discretion to the NLRB. What is needed is a careful re-examination of the technique of collective bargaining under present conditions. When the labor relations act was passed the dilemma of dual unionism had not arisen. The fact that the NLRB must serve as a balance wheel between two rival factions, instead of dealing with a united labor movement, as Congress anticipated, is a powerful argument for fresh legislative scrutiny of the act.

In the meantime labor groups should not forget that the designation of collective bargaining units would once more be left largely to their own discretion if they had the statesmanship to bridge the gap that divides them.

Too Much Protest

When all due allowances are made for Russia's unusual diplomacy there still remains something extraordinary about the public denunciation of Col. Lindbergh by a group of prominent Soviet aviators. The statement, including such personalities as the assertion that Lindbergh is a "bribed liar," must be regarded as a pronouncement of the Moscow government. This is not merely because of the prominence and official position of several of its signatories. In a totalitarian state documents of this character do not appear without governmental sponsorship.

The Russian charge, boiled down to essentials, is that prior to the Munich agreement Lindbergh informed certain British leaders as to conditions in the Soviet air force, depicting it in unfavorable and uncomplimentary colors. Both in Parliament and in the London press there have been assertions to this effect, these presumably forming the basis of the intemperate Russian statement.

But, assuming that Lindbergh made the statements attributed to him, they seem entirely inadequate justification for the vitriolic character of the Russian response. Nobody could suppose for a moment that the British government is forced to depend on Col. Lindbergh for its knowledge regarding the status of Russian aviation, or that Mr. Chamberlain's policy in the recent crisis was materially affected, one way or the other, by anything Lindbergh may have said. To believe this is to believe that the British intelligence service is a great deal less developed and more inefficient than is the case.

So when the Russians accuse the famous American flyer of being "a lackey and a flatterer of German Fascists," among other choice invective, inevitably the suspicion arises that there is more in the denunciation than meets the eye. The suspicion arises that Soviet indignation is not intense because Lindbergh was a factor in the Munich agreements, but because what he is alleged to have told the "Cliveden set" in England may approximate the truth.

It would be extraordinary if military as well as civil efficiency had not been materially affected by the continuous purge of prominent leaders which has been operating in Russia for months now. It would be extraordinary if the spirit of the fighting services had not suffered from the wholesale execution of generals, admirals and important bureaucrats whom the Stalinist faction has come to regard as traitors. Right at this moment there seems to be a complete mystery as to the whereabouts and status of Gen. Bluecher, the very competent commander of Russia's Far Eastern armies. Such inexplicable disappearances can never be conducive to morale.

For the sake of clarification it is to be hoped that Lindbergh will now make public exactly what he told a group of British politicians about the Russian air force. It probably was not nearly as much of an indictment as the Russians themselves imply. The unfortunate aspect of the episode is that by amplifying it into an international incident the Soviet flyers have themselves stimulated the very suspicions which they too indignantly endeavor to allay.

How Not To Make Friends

From the San Francisco Chronicle.

Chief Cato has ordered every highway patrol officer to stop at least three motorists each day and examine their drivers' licenses. His purpose is to detect persons driving without licenses or those whose tickets have been revoked or suspended. The method should be effective, as it would be effective for every city policeman to stop three citizens each day and require identifications in order to disclose undesirables and vagrants. It is not, however, the way to conduct a popularity contest.

Letters to the Editor

The Boycott Of Japan

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Amid all the excitement over the European situation, let us not forget the crisis that still exists in China, the outcome of which may be more significant to America than that in Czechoslovakia. Japan is still hammering away at the Chinese while the United States is furnishing munitions of war to the aggressor. However, in spite of what certain American big business concerns are doing to aid Japan in a commercial way, the boycott against Japanese silk and other products is bearing fruit according to statistics from the Department of Commerce and other impartial sources.

There is no need or likelihood of the United States going to war with any European or Asiatic power for at least several years, if ever. But by exercise of the economic boycott and an earnest neutrality policy of our State Department, the United States can help those nations which are struggling to realize the democratic principles we stand for.

Since Great Britain and France have actively aided and abetted the Fascist powers and in fact have become one with them, it is not likely that they would ever come to the aid of America if she were attacked on the Pacific Coast by a Japanized China having access to raw materials and vast man power. The cruel treatment accorded Chinese in conquered areas by Japanese soldiers who have power of life and death, should convince Americans that Japan is Fascist.

Let us then renew our efforts to make still more drastic our boycott of all Japanese products. Let there be no let-up in our peaceful fight against the shameless aggression of a peaceful people—the Chinese—America's traditional friend.

Recalls The 'Big Stick'

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Since the recent turmoil in Europe I have been carefully following your column, "Letters to the Editor," which portrays the numerous ideas and feelings of your readers. My idea is somewhat different.

In the past the United States commanded respect from foreign nations. The policy then was to "speak softly and carry a big stick." Germany at that time was slightly dubious of our meaning, but a few "soft" words from our now deceased former President, set her aright. We have now discarded that policy and are following the trend of other nations, with a lot of barking but no bite.

It is quite well to stay on our own side of the fence, but we have God to thank that the Marquis de Lafayette had no such outlook.

AN ONLOOKER.

Apparently Ironic

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If true intellect consists in recognizing the relationship of apparently unrelated facts, you are to be congratulated on the cartoon appearing in The Post of October 7, with the caption, "Somehow I am Reminded of 1918."

This picture shows plucky little Germany, in the person of Herr Hitler, preparing to belabor the big bully, Czechoslovakia, whom he has somehow succeeded in throwing to the ground.

Let us hope that he keeps that bully helpless and does not make the mistake the Allies made in 1918—of being too lenient with a nation devoid of all sense of justice, honor, or compassion (meaning, of course, Czechoslovakia).

Funds For Civil Service

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Recent headlines brought much relief to many emergency employes. On February 1 they will acquire civil service status upon qualifying. But be assured the battle has just begun. Consider please, that the commission cannot possibly give proper examinations on present administrative appropriations. Will the Congress provide additional appropriations? The House as presently constituted is two-to-one against the merit system. It is still a gamble as to whether the House will vote more appropriations to the Civil Service Commission.

The action taken by the Senate and the House at the last session of Congress is sad. I make reference to the roll call vote on the CCC. Appropriately, one can now inquire, what then? Suppose Congress refuses to grant additional appropriations to the Civil Service Commission. How will all be examined? It would seem that those in the lower grades might be given a written examination, as there are already in existence printed quesfions. But how about those in the upper grades, beginning with CAF 3?

If Congress refuses additional appropriations, the commission, acting under mandate from the President, might "blanket" all in on form 375. This is objectionable, as there is no telling when another Congress might properly argue that if an employe did not acquire status by written examination, such status might be objected to.

It will be remembered that this very thing happened—Senator McKellar attempted to oust alcohol tax unit employes. He extended the argument that the tax employes had not taken a proper written examination. Of course, his efforts were defeated. But it shows what is possible when a civil service status is granted without a written examination.

Let us hope that the Congress will vote a substantial increase in the appropriations to the Civil Service Commission. There is this thought that if the Congress refuses the Chief Executive might grant funds out of emergency relief appropriation to the commission. The executive order of June 24 is a step in the right direction but the co-operation of Congress is still needed.

A Mad World

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "'Tis a mad world," said Shakespeare. Had the bard lived in the present era he would have doubtless decided that lunacy had become aggravated by the singular and bewildering actions of modern men.

Political insanity is especially in evidence, during these troubled times, as farmers are compelled to plow up cotton and destroy food stuff when armies of people are hungry and scantily clad. This policy hardly makes sense.

A fresh form of mental ailment has appeared in the abnormal notion that a nation can borrow and waste its way out of trouble. This theory has been tried, by erratic rulers from history's dim beginning and found wanting. Established principles, which have met the test of time, have been scrapped and the laws of economics have been thrown out of the national window.

The wave of dementia praecox is spreading to the far corners of the globe. We behold European democracies, built on the Christian precept that "right is might" attempting to co-operate with cruel dictators who recognize but one power, viz, physical force. When have fire and water mingled?

Bernard Shaw apparently hit the nail on the head when he observed that this world was the lunatic asylum of the solar system.

E. K. GOLDSBOROUGH.

Seamy Side Of Liberty

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: What must be the mental turpitude of those who write glibly about democracy and with pride point to its advantages without ever mentioning the industrial bondage, the chronic pauperism that afflicts this, the greatest of the democracies.

One day I was stopped on the street by a man, who said, "For God's sake give me the price of a sandwich!" I stopped, not because the request was unusual, but because this man had not acquired the beggar's whine. I steered him to a lunch counter and watched him, then listened to his story—one I had heard a hundred times. Thrown out of employment by the business depression, he had tramped in search of work until he found himself penniless, starving in the streets of the Nation's Capital, while people were piling up dollars which they can never need. He said: "If I were in Germany I'd be in Hitler's army and then I'd at least get three squares a day."

This is the other side of the thing we call democracy, and all the grandiloquent things we hear and read about it doesn't change my mind about it.

If this be democracy, then give me Hitlerland.

Another American Retort

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I feel that it would be an abridgement of American honor if someone did not answer Mr. Brodnek's letter in The Post, October 6.

Having just returned from a tour of England, I can state with authority that his viewpoint upon America is entirely coincident with that of every other Englishman. To him and his countrymen the United States is just a big simple Santa Claus who is supposed to lavish gifts of talent, money and power to the rest of the world without end. When we object then we are the big bad wolf, we are responsible for the world's slipping into chaos, we have surrendered democracy, we have sacrificed mankind on the altar of gold.

If Mr. Brodnek would point out some of the crimes of our foreign policy of the last 20 years I should be a little more satisfied. I think he will find that in all salient points except the League of Nations we have followed a policy of parallel action with Great Britian. He states that all the pacts, leagues, new frontiers, minority emancipations, and similiar international agreements of the post-World War era have been initiated by the United States. If that is the case and if they were so bad or dangerous, why didn't Britain propose more fitting ones? I notice that England has been careful to oppose only those settlements of international differences which gave the advantage to the United States or to some nation which was distinctly outside the pale of British influence.

As to the debt situation, it looks as if the settlement of that question has been also decided without regard to our possible losses. We have practically given away $20,000,000,000 to the nations of Europe and now Mr. Brodnek has the nerve to ask for our gold supply!

Sure, the United States could have put teeth in the League, and so could Britian. But even the people of the United States are not so dumb as actually to surrender the political independence of their country. As it is we have actually seconded every act of the League which we could support, often to our own great material disadvantage.

The Old Camp Ground

THERE is one battlefield in Virginia that has neither monuments nor markers. All is forgotten, and nature with a mantle of underbrush and weeds is gradually obliterating all trace of Camp Alger, the scene of many a brisk poker engagement and craps-shooting skirmish in the Spanish-American War.

At this camp, just outside Falls Church, my father was stationed, a private in Company H, Twenty-second Kansas Volunteers. It is to his diary and reminiscences that I owe my story.

Company H was composed of students who gayly put aside their books at Kansas, Washburn and Manhattan universities, to liberate Cuba from slavery, and themselves from exams and the summer harvest. They traveled across the country like kids going to a fair.

At Athens their train was cheered by the students of Ohio University. Early the next morning they paraded from their coaches to the center of Harpers Ferry, where they awakened the town by giving "fifteen and a tiger" for their famous fellow Kansan. Then back to the train, singing "John Brown's Body" as the citizenry looked out the window to see if there were another insurrection.

They found that at Camp Alger their reputation had preceded them. The story went around that each Kansan had arrived with a chaw in his pocket and a pistol in his luggage. One sentry, hearing of their toughness, called out the officer of the guard to ask for cartridges to put in his gun—and was roundly cursed for his pains.

I find this in the diary: "We got considerable fun out of camp drill this morning. The captain took us up to a mud puddle to show us how to execute a movement to get around it. When he had got us nearly to the puddle we all jumped over it, much to the captain's chagrin."

Either from jumping that or another puddle, the Kansans discovered they possessed a phenomenon leaper in a tall, loose-jointed recruit, who ran like a sandhill crane and jumped like a kangaroo. From this discovery an idea was born.

Next Sunday three or four Kansans drifted over to the camp of a Massachusetts regiment. The Yankees, besides being the natural rivals of the Kansans, were the plutocrats of the camp. The Federal Government paid all regiments alike ($16.70 a month to the privates), but Massachusetts paid its volunteers a salary in addition to the Federal wage. And it was this bounty the Kansans wanted to get at.

Somehow, the talk turned to jumping. Yes, the Yankees had a man who had jumped for Harvard, and so was the best jumper in the country. The talk grew louder and louder, and finally the Kansans offered to bet they had a man who could outjump Harvard's pride. This produced much laughter among the Easterners, who condescendingly agreed to a match.

One of the Kansans went back for Jackrabbit, as their jumper was known.

"Now listen, Jackrabbit," he said. "We're betting you can outjump that Yank, but don't you do it. You let him jump first, and see if you can beat him. Get that?" He repeated, for Jackrabbit was slow of thought, "Don't outjump that Yank."

"You goin' to bet on me and you want me to lose?" Jackrabbit asked incredulously.

"That's the schedule. Then if you figure out you can beat him, we'll all come back payday and get that bunch."

A line had been marked and a pit dug, by the time they returned. The Harvard man had stripped to his drawers, and was trotting up and down the street to warm up. The plotters left Jackrabbit to prepare for the jumping, and mingled with the Easterners, and placed several wagers, trying to conceal the smallness of the amounts by loudness of talk.

When the time came, the Harvard man took a short run and gave a tremendous jump. A cheer went up from the Yankees, while the Kansans tried to cover their elation with a look of funereal gloom. It was in the bag. Jackrabbit could jump farther than that without half trying.

After two false starts, Jackrabbit started loping forward. He reached the line and hurled himself both up and forward. His arms beat giant circles and his legs kept in motion, as if he were running on air. And it seemed that he was, for he came down three feet beyond the other mark. There was no sound except a muttered and incredulous oath from the other jumper. He refused to jump again—he'd had enough.

White with fury, the plotters collected their trifling bets, and then gathering in Jackrabbit started for home. "What's the big idea?" demanded one, as soon as they were outside the Massachusetts camp. "Didn't we tell you to lose?"

"You shore did," said Jackrabbit. "I know you did, for a fact. But I had two-bits bet on myself, and I wasn' goin' to lose that, no matter what you tole me." S. D.

Fair Enough

Hornsby and Landis

JUDGE LANDIS HAS NOT quite made clear his reasons for barring Rogers Hornsby from the press coop at the World Series, but whatever they were they were insufficient. He should have no more authority to bar anyone from the ball yard press coops than a President of the United States has to rule a man out of the press gallery of Congress. Hornsby is a noted veteran of the baseball industry, and if there are any bugs on his record Landis should have the courage to give him a trial and either rule him off openly or clear him while he still was active in the business. This may seem a small issue, but the actions of the judge and—a few years ago—of Jim Farley in the prizefight business in New York have tended to weaken public resistance to the assumption of dictatorial powers by men in public office.

True, Landis is an employe of the baseball industry, but that does not entirely relieve him of public responsibility. He came to his job at a time when it was openly known that some ball players had been "whispered out" of the game on the suspicion of collusion with crooked gamblers, and, with his own record of fearlessness on the bench, was expected to guarantee the public protection from conspiracy and players protection from unjust punishment for mere secret accusation. Hornsby's case indicates that the baseball magnates are up to their old methods again, for there obviously is some conspiracy against him, and yet he never has had an opportunity to confront any charges.

FARLEY, IN HIS TIME as chairman of the prizefight commission, developed an appetite for arbitrary power by watching the dictatorial actions of old William Muldoon, his colleague on the board, who became so arrogant that any offense, however unintentional, to his swollen dignity was punishable by the authority of New York State. It was an offense even to smoke a cigarette in his presence because he hated cigarettes and those who smoked them. He was a man to be flattered and placated at any sacrifice, and Mr. Farley sat by and upheld him in a rule which clearly imposed on the legal rights of petitioners before the commission.

The baseball writers themselves are in part to blame for the judge's extension of his authority to the press coop. For years they permitted the reservation to be made a hangout for dozens of men having no connection with the newspaper business, and there came a time when the rows were so cluttered with guests and ball players attended by their guests that an ordinary working stiff with a story to write had to do his stuff on an 8-inch section of pink plank with sightseers sprawled all over him from both sides and behind.

The late Don Skane called the turn some years ago when, on entering the stand for a World Series at the Yankee Stadium, he surveyed the piled-up rows of old ball players, actors and all, each with a spook to forge his copy for him, and exclaimed: "It looks like a haunted house."

• • • •

THIS OLD FRAUD has just about expired now and sport sections which once were largely given over to pathetic fakes attributed to ball players and even to their wives and children now are filled by the work of professional newspaper men. In Washington the accredited journalists guard their privileges, and an effort is made to keep out lobbyists and others having no rightful place in the press gallery lest there come a scandal—something which would smear the good name of the corps.

• • • •

THE BASEBALL WRITERS have been less careful, and although a gambler or fixer might find no advantage in the press coop so far removed from intimacy with the game it would be wise, nevertheless, to sweep out and restrict admission to those who can prove an assignment to cover the games.

As for the old ball players, the industry itself should make provisions to accommodate them in a veterans' section in the stands.

It does seem cheap and unappreciative of the magnates not to welcome at least those who have played in past World Series and certain others of great distinction instead of shoving them off into the press section, where, to accommodate them, the writers have to falsify their legitimate ticket requirements.

Landis, however, extends his power to the press coop and the air in baseball and gives a challenging example of the manner in which a little authority may be enlarged.

Explorer Finds Rich 'Lost World'

Boston, Oct. 10 (U.P.).—Discovery of an "uninhabited lost world containing mineral deposits and perhaps gold" was disclosed by H. Bradford Washburn, leader of a Harvard Alaskan expedition, on his return tonight from a summer's exploration of the St. Elias range.

The youthful explorer said bad weather during his 4½-month trek into the hitherto unexplored south Alaskan mountains made photographs impossible.

"From a hasty air observation," he said, "I feel certain there are vast mineral deposits and probably gold or other valuable ores."

The Federal Diary

By Scott Hart

NOTE to Huntington Cairns, et al., through the relay of our mail box:

"Just a note on civil service for attorneys. The veterans' preference is with us and if attorneys are blanketed in it, will have no effect on the incumbents and the new registers will undoubtedly be made up from young nonveterans as the veterans are getting too old to qualify under civil service. Specialists—Bunk.

"However, the specialists now on the job would be blanketed in. And since when did the schools graduate specialists? Civil service may not be perfect, but after a century of freedom from civil service take a look at the law staffs. From top to bottom, good, bad, medium—the same as you would get from a register.

"If you really want to know what the attorneys think about civil service, let us take a vote. After 16 years in the service with little or no promotion I have to listen to the chiefs who make up the Cairns committee recommend that I still be left without security in tenure.

"They are policy-makers—excluded—they don't want other . . ."

At this juncture the gentleman's note had reached the bottom of the post card and the missive suddenly ended.

• • • •

SO AT least an attorney in the service has replied; at the moment, the Civil Service Commission says only that it has not been determined "when and of what and if ever" a reply will be given to the lawyers' flat statement that civil service isn't desirable for them at the moment.

• • • •

Washingtonians like Indian silverware best; the sales of silver articles are exceeding even the sales of Navajo blankets and rugs, say the keepers of Interior's new Indian Arts and Crafts Room. Of course, the difference in price between the blankets and small silver trinkets may have much to do with the inclination.

• • • •

THE DIES Committee charge that the Federal theater and writers projects are incubators for communist propaganda leaves those two groups silent and still at the old stands, doing business, as usual. It has been the practice to ignore such allegations, generally ambiguous, and to await the offering of definite evidence, which, the project leaders are said to think, has never been forthcoming.

The committee is reported as saying that project employes who participate in the spread of such propaganda should be let out. If there is any propaganda in the writings and the plays the employes themselves neither could put it there nor have much voice in taking it out.

So, if they are sure there is propaganda and want to oust someone because of it, the action might be directed to the policy-determiners. And if this strikes at high places, it still goes to prove that the Federal writers and actors haven't much to do with what's in their writings or portrayals.

NOTE TO our racing authority, Walter Haight: We know of a gentleman in a big Federal department here who is a whiz when it comes to picking 'em. It's nothing for his "take" to reach several hundred a week. When he only picks up $24 or $50 he thinks he has lost. That's the kind of picker he is. So, if you are looking for some more guest selectors, we can give his name. He's the best in the Government by more than a nose.

NOTES: Nelson A. Loomis, the Travel Bureau chief, returns from a quick trip to California, Oregon and Texas and reports that hotel association members and others are interested deeply in the efforts to stimulate tourist business . . . The number of WPA relief people in the Archives will grow considerably, but the number in Biological Survey is static . . . S. M. Barrett calls to say that the I. D. R. A. News will be out Wednesday if nothing happens to prevent, and he adds that the renowned I. D. R. A. will hold a pre-Halloween ball in the new building the night of the twenty-first; all the beauty contest winners will be there, oh boy! . . . We have a notion that when the Civil Service Commission gets the Cairns committee report submitting that the lawyers abjure the merit system, the motion, (may it please the court) will be denied. And the lawyers, for once in their lives, won't have any court to appeal to.

Hearst Sells WINS, N.Y. Radio Station, In Reorganization

New York, Oct. 10.—William Randolph Hearst has sold WINS, his radio station at 110 East Fifty-eighth street, it was learned today, and intends to dispose of all except two stations in his radio chain to hasten reorganization of his holdings to perpetuate the Hearst publishing enterprises, which employ 27,000 persons and include 23 newspapers.

In disclosing the sale of WINS, E. N. Stoer, a Hearst executive, said the transaction is subject to approval of the Federal Communications Commission.

The station was purchased by Milton H. Biow, New York advertising man, president of the Biow Broadcasting Co., which operates WAAM in Newark.

Today And Tomorrow

The Atlantic Ocean

COMING BACK home after a summer abroad, it has seemed to me that the ocean which separates America from Europe has not in our lifetime been so wide or so deep. For though some of the problems which trouble Europe exist here as well, American problems are in the most fundamental sense different from European. And the difference is this: That here there is still so large a margin of safety that American mistakes are not irreparable, whereas in Europe every problem is tragic, involving the issues of life and death, of the will to exist and the right to survive.

Here, for example, a strike is a strike, costly, inconvenient, angry, but nevertheless an episode which in no ultimate sense touches the national independence or the constitutional order of the American people. But in Europe almost any large strike carries with it the danger of a general catastrophe, either of a convulsive class struggle within or of a new invitation to aggression from abroad. Here again the problem of the government finances is serious and may have large consequences in the long future; but in the remaining free countries of Europe, the collapse of government finances is not only a more immediate danger but it may well involve the system of representative government and the essential liberties of the citizen.

AND SO, BECAUSE American problems are problems of better and worse, or more or less, whereas European problems are absolute and involve the ultimate things of human existence, it is more than ever difficult today for Americans and Europeans to take a common view of social problems. There is a different atmosphere. I came back, for example, the other day to Washington after visiting many of the capitals of Europe, and looking up at the October sky I realized that there was no other capital of a great power in the whole world where officials were working in complete personal safety. Everywhere else, from Tokyo to London, government is carried on by men who have wondered, and will wonder again, whether in a few days they might find themselves in a hurricane of fire and steel, their families killed, they themselves driven underground or forced to flee.

Political life carried on in the presence of death and devastation is such a wholly different thing from politics as we know it here that the two modes of existence are incomparable. During the summer one heard now and then in Europe about a "purge" which the President was attempting in Georgia, Maryland and elsewhere. And then one reads of the purges being conducted in Vienna, and met some of the luckier victims who had escaped and were not in the concentration camps; the contrast was so sharp, our own good fortune so striking, that to discuss American political troubles with Europeans was like a millionaire complaining to one of the unemployed how difficult it is to find a really good valet.

FOR IN AMERICA the common problems of men are still soluble by discussion, by intelligence and by tolerance within the framework of law and morals. American problems are serious, sometimes difficult, but only criminal folly and unforgivable stubbornness can make them desperate. But in Europe the continent is too crowded and the political framework and the political traditions of the separate nations too obsolete to allow much hope of a rational solution; the political discussions of Europe take place against an accompaniment of armaments, mobilization, insurrection, concentration camps, firing squads, secret police, exile, conspiracy, corruption and treason.

The continent of Europe is too small, the population of Europe is too large, the competition is too severe, the national divisions are too numerous, the political separatism is too sharp, to allow any but the naive to hope that the conflicts are soluble except by war, by revolution, or by both. So many people living on such a small territory must find some higher and more general bond of unity or they must sink into barbarism under the destructive divisions of the struggles of the classes and of national groups. Unless Europe can find some kind of union under a common law, the decline of Europe is written in the book of Fate. And Europe will find that union only by passing through an ordeal more profound and more searching than any in modern history.

WERE AMERICANS in their place, they might do no better with the issues that divide Europeans. Almost certainly they would do no better. But Americans are not in the place of the Europeans and the essential difference is so great a good fortune that we must in honor realize that our failure to make the most of it by treating our problems with intelligence, goodwill and with hope would be the unpardonable sin.

Col. R. E. Fletcher Heads Speakers For Chest Drive

Col. R. H. Fetcher, U. S. A., retired, will be governmental unit vice chairman in charge of the speakers' committee, it was announced yesterday by Alvin W. Hall, Bureau of Engraving and Printing director and chairman of the governmental unit for the Community Chest campaign.

FLETCHER

With the objective of reaching all the 130,000 Government employes with a spoken description of how welfare agencies are meeting human needs in Washington, Col. Fletcher plans representation on the speakers' committee for every Government department, agency or commission.

Col. Fletcher was retired from active service last year. He has become a trustee of the Community Chest and a member of the board of directors of the Travelers Aid Society.

Dewey Chides Lehman for Tangle On Job Insurance

Special Dispatch to The Post.

New York, Oct. 10.—After two and a half years of preparation, Gov. Herbert H. Lehman's administration has made a "tragic failure" of handling unemployment insurance, District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, Republican candidate for Governor, said in a radio address tonight, formally opening his campaign.

A year ago, Dewey said, $83,000,000 was available to pay insurance to unemployed; ten days ago there were still 9,000 jobless to whom checks were admittedly due who had not received a cent, and 48,000 whose claim had been in dispute for months. No longer ago than last March, he said, 122,000 claims were unpaid and 70,000 complaints swarming in on the State Unemployment Insurance Bureau indicated a complete breakdown of its administration.

Dewey cited instances from all over the State of unemployed with dependents who needed the money but were unable to get it from Albany, although their insurance requirements had been complied with. The address was broadcast from WJZ over a State-wide network of the National Broadcasting Co.

AAA Results Questioned

By Mark Sullivan

Farm Aid Flops

WHAT IS TO BE SAID about the present state of AAA and the Department of Agriculture and Secretary Henry Wallace? Well, let us go back five and a half years.

The AAA statute was sent to Congress on March 16, 1933. Accompanying it President Roosevelt sent a message. He said:

"I tell you frankly that it is a new and untrod path . . . If a fair administrative trial of it is made and it does not produce the hoped-for results, I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you."

The bill was passed and put in effect. It operated for some two years and eight months, practically three full crop years. Then, in January, 1936, the Supreme Court held part of it unconstitutional, the processing tax part.

Hastily the Administration dug up an already existing and not very important law dealing with conservation of soil. This they adapted, expanding it much and distorting it a good deal, so as to make it a second AAA and give them most of the powers they had had under the original measure. With the soil conservation measure they went on for two more years.

Then they wrote a new AAA. They wrote it much as they wanted it, for with the changes that had taken place in the Supreme Court they felt they could go as far as they liked.

THE LATEST AAA was enacted last February, in time for the present crop year. Has it, or either of the other versions of AAA, or the whole course of experiments about farming, "produced the hoped-for results?" The principal hoped-for result was higher prices for crops. And the answer is in today's quotations. Prices are not as low as they were in March, 1933, but they have been moving toward that level in a way that causes Mr. Wallace and Mr. Roosevelt to understand clearly that their farm program is a failure. They do not in words take the step that Mr. Roosevelt said he would, "I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you." But Mr. Wallace, by his actions, acknowledges it plainly. So far as that goes, acknowledgment by Mr. Wallace or Mr. Roosevelt would be a superfluous ceremony. Farmers know it without being told. The prices of cotton, wheat and other crops cry it out for all to hear.

So what? Mr. Wallace has taken two steps, neither very conclusive. He has reorganized the Department of Agriculture. Whatever the reorganization means in the way of a new program presumably will appear later. About the reorganization, two surmises may safely be made. It is a safe bet that the reorganization does not mean less control over farmers; it means more. And it is a safe bet the reorganization does not mean fewer employes—the tens of thousands of persons who draw pay from the department will not be diminished. However the farmers fare, the bureaucrats will continue to do well.

MR. WALLACE HAS TAKEN one other step. He says he is going to ask Congress to enact a processing tax. What is a processing tax? We had it before. It was on cotton, wheat, rice, tobacco, pork, and for a time on some other crops. The processing tax on pork was 2¼ cents a pound. That is an extremely heavy tax, for the price of hogs is commonly something like 10 cents a pound. I cannot think offhand of any other commodity, except tobacco and liquor, on which there is a tax that high.

The tax on pork was collected from the packers and butchers—including the many farmers who in the fall kill three or four hogs and sell the meat in a nearby village. Many a farmer found himself a quarry pursued by Government agents demanding that he keep accounts and that he pay a tax of $20 to $25 on the sale of three or four hogs, together with a fine because he hadn't known anything about the tax and hadn't paid it on time.

While the processing tax was collected from packers, butchers and farmers, it was, of course, paid by the consumer. It appeared in the retail price. The consumer paid a higher price for his hams and pork chops. Then, having made him pay an extra price, what did AAA do with the money? They took it and paid it to farmers. They did not give it to farmers, they paid it to them, in exchange for a contract. The farmer had to promise to raise fewer hogs. From the point of view of the consumer he was paying a tax that made the price higher, and the proceeds of this tax were used to create scarcity and thus make the price still higher.

• • • •

THE PROCESSING TAX is a tax on food—in the case of cotton, a tax on clothing. As such it runs counter to about the oldest principle the Democratic Party has had since it began, the principle of resistance to taxes on food, clothing and shelter. A Democratic Congress was willing in 1933 to enact a processing tax as an incident of an emergency. But when, five years later, they now discover the emergency is still here; and when they discover further that while the original AAA was put forward as a cure for emergency, it was really intended as a permanent program—in this situation it is difficult to imagine a Democratic Congress exacting a processing tax again.

Beyond Bohemia

By Barnet Nover

Hitler's Push To The East

HAVING SUCCEEDED in carving up Czechoslovakia, in what direction will Hitler move next? If there is any certainty in the world it is that sooner or later he will move again.

The most common presumption is that the Fuehrer will pursue the line already laid down in "Mein Kampf," which means, ultimately, an attempt to include the fertile wheat lands and the vast mineral resources of the Ukraine in the Third Reich. And there is no gainsaying that, in possession of what Bismarck called "the bastion of Bohemia," Hitler is in a far better position to pursue that objective than he was when Czechoslovakia still had her old frontiers and was still part of the French system of alliances. With Czechoslovakia rapidly changing from barrier to highway, the path to the east lies open to the Nazi steamroller.

THERE ARE individuals and groups in England, some in very high places, that view the prospect of Germany's further expansion on the continent with some measure of equanimity.

They argue that as the Nazis are occupied in the east of Europe they will not have the energy for aggressive action in the west as well. Let Germany and Russia fight it out, they say, it is none of our concern!

What they forget is that there is no particular reason why Hitler should religiously follow the expansionist program laid down in "Mein Kampf." He has, from time to time, gone beyond the confines of that program. He can do so again.

There is nothing in the Fuehrer's autobiography concerning the necessity of German intervention in Spain. There is nothing in it about establishing a German foothold in Spanish Morocco. Yet Germany, under his leadership, has for the time being pursued both of these policies. On the other hand, Hitler's recent demand for the return of Germany's prewar colonies, a demand he may soon voice again, is in direct contradiction to the bitter condemnation of the Kaiser's colonial ambitions voiced in the Fuehrer's book.

INDEED, in pursuing that Drang Nach Osten (push to the east) about which so much is being said these days, Hitler has a choice of two courses. He can, in the first place, seek to carry out the policy he himself laid down in "Mein Kampf" with the Ukraine as the goal.

In essence, this is the policy which found concrete expression and a temporary measure of success in the treaties of Brest Litovsk and Bucharest, which ended the war between the central powers and Soviet Russia, on the one hand, and Rumania on the other.

But antedating this policy is the one of making political and economic satellites of all the countries between the Danube and the Persian Gulf; it is the policy which, before the World War, was embodied in the Kaiser's effort to construct the Berlin-Bagdad Railway as the spearpoint of German imperialism.

Both policies are now open to Hitler. But it will make a vast deal of difference to Great Britain which one he decides to pursue.

IT IS SIGNIFICANT in this connection that at the very moment Nazi troops were moving into the Sudetenland following the peaceful conquest of Czechoslovakia with British and French diplomatic aid, the German minister of economics, Walther Funk, was concluding an important trade treaty with Turkey.

What the terms of this treaty are has not yet been revealed. But it is understood that it provides an arrangement whereby Turkey will get substantial credits to be used for the purchase of German airplanes, the construction of airports and the development of the Turkish chemical industry. Now it may be that Herr Funk can be taken at his word when, at the conclusion of this deal, he said that Germany had no ulterior motives, but was only acting out of a desire to extend legitimate trade.

The British cannot ignore the fact that in southeastern Europe, trade and politics go hand in hand. Indeed, it was precisely for this reason that Great Britain recently extended to Turkey a credit of $80,000,000 in a move to keep the Ankara government safely in the British camp. For the same reason France agreed to give Turkey a substantial foothold in the sanjak of Alexandretta, an area which could be made to serve as a springboard from which to plunge into the tangled affairs of the Arabian peninsula.

IT HAPPENS that Kamal Ataturk, the Turkish dictator, has no desire to see Turkey become a tail to Germany's kite. That was the thankless role it played during the World War and to its terrible undoing. But the decline in British and French prestige as a consequence of the Munich surrender and the increase in the prestige of the Third Reich that followed this development has not been lost sight of at Ankara or anywhere else in southeastern Europe and the Near East.

If the difficulties facing France in Syria and Lebanon and Great Britain in Palestine have been considerable in the past they may increase enormously now. It is obvious that despite the optimism regarding the European outlook voiced by Chamberlain at London and Daladier at Paris, they must take account of the far from pleasant situation that faces their nations in the Eastern Mediterranean.

That is why, no doubt, Great Britain is rushing large reinforcements to Palestine where past British weakness and wobbliness has helped bring about a ghastly situation involving not only the Holy Land but neighboring states as well. For Britain to temporize in Central Europe is one thing; to do so in the Near East in the face of present possibilities is quite another and far more immediately dangerous. In giving Hitler a clear path to the Ukraine, British statesmanship has also given Germany a clear path to the eastern Mediterranean as well.

A Woman's New York

By Alice Hughes.

New York, Oct. 10.

LIKE MILLIONS of my fellow citizens, I can take my art exhibitions or leave them strictly alone. I have toured our great Metropolitan Museum and stared sternly at several modern art shows. My last artistic adventure was a trip to the exhibition of surrealism here two years ago—a daffy fiesta which ossified me and gave my little old gentlemar. a terrific blow which knocked him right off the seat of the water-wagon. For once I didn't blame the bloke.

Now art again has me in its fiendish grip, and all because Miss Gracie Allen, the eminent tragedienne of the radio, has had 10 of her very own paintings on display at a nifty gallery just off Fifth Avenue. The ostensible notion of this orgy of the spectrum and panic of the palette was to raise some funds for China. What has really resulted is another bale of publicity for Miss Allen, the goofy Goya, and her harassed husband, Mr. George Burns. They need this just about as bad as the world needs more grief, but no star ever turned down a few free pieces in the papers. Burns and Allen are not unique.

Gracie, one of the smartest girls in show business, played nicely baffled for the reporters as these 10 surrealistic gems were unveiled. For instance she says she only paints them after having partaken of welsh rabbits at midnight. She has also named eight of them with not very funny handles, such as "Dogs Gather on Street Corner to Watch Manfight." But that is pretty good, the best of the lot. The creations, themselves, are just as crackpotty as you imagine.

Of course, it's all right. I can now stay away from Art until Miss Shirley Temple shows her etchings. Good luck, Chinese! Good publicity, Gracie! Good night, all!

Eve Symington, whose retirement from night-club singing I noted recently, turned up at the Winter Garden a few nights ago, wearing a simple but beautiful black velvet evening dress without a speck of jewelry showing! Out of tune with the times, Evie!

Still more minor war bulletins from the hair front, or back hair. A big company tells me the new upturn of the locks has caused a tremendous up-swish of its hair-net business—which has been dark as the tomb since America's hair was first bobbed en masse. The new nets, now selling like crazy, do not plaster the thatch to the skull, but allow plenty of room for the stylish curls and billows of the fresh coiffure. Got any old hair-net stock? Dust it off, sister!

Mary Haworth's Mail

Summer Romance Begets Betrothal Which College Student Now Regrets; He Asks How to Break Off?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a student at one of the larger schools here, having returned from my vacation only a few weeks ago. While at home, I met a girl, of 18 (three years my junior) and was greatly infatuated with her. I say infatuated because I don't believe the feeling between us was anything more serious than mutual attraction. However, by the time vacation ended we had had a number of intimate meetings. I must have gone a little further than I intended, for by the time I left the city I had suggested marriage to her, in spite of the fact that I can't possibly marry for several years. Contrary to my expectations, she agreed to the idea and is planning to wait all that time.

Although I said nothing of this to my friends, I have received word from several saying they hear I am engaged, the information evidently coming from her. Inasmuch as I have many acquaintances in town who have probably heard the rumor by now, I should like to declare myself one way or the other.

Since I have been back here, I find myself liking the girl more and more, due perhaps to the fact that women are scarce on our campus and she occupies a large part of my thoughts. But I do not feel the friendship we developed during my brief stay at home was sufficient to establish her as a suitable marriage partner.

My problem is this: Should I maintain correspondence with her merely as a good friend, letting things shape their course between now and Christmas, when I shall return home for a visit? Or should I discontinue the correspondence, depending upon time and distance to make us both forget? The latter no would would cause the girl some embarrassment among our friends, since she has declared the engagement. I would not like to embarrass her. However, since we are both so young and have many more opportunities ahead of us, it seems to be the sensible thing to do. I shall appreciate any help you can give me. RALPH.

The Ttactful Retreat

DEAR RALPH: When a hasty mistake has been made, the only intelligent, sensible thing to do is to retrieve it, if at all possible—and it certainly is possible in this case. You are not at all in love with the girl. If you were, you would consider her willingness to wait for you the most miraculously unbelievable piece of good luck in the world, and you would find yourself flushing with inexpressible pride and pleasure at every allusion to your alleged engagement. You would be walking on air, and full of joy to the bursting point. Your only concern would be lest she change her mind at some future date.

It is obvious—from your worried reaction to the contrary; your rather sick hope that you may yet learn to care for her to the limit of your dimly realized capabilities—that your proposal of marriage was a circumstance-inspired slip of the tongue, that you would give a great deal to be able to recall. It seems to me, too, that the girl classified herself as something of a wily opportunist in the matrimonial field, in snatching so promptly at the inadvertent suggestion and in attempting to cinch the deal by broadcasting the news of the purported betrothal without your consent to do so.

It seems to me the only honorable—because personally honest and mutually protective—course open to you is that of promptly and tactfully divesting the relationship of special significance and future promise. I think you should write the girl and tell her now you are back in school, with sufficient distance between yourself and her to be able to get your emotions under control and think clearly, that you see how very foolish and unfair it was of you to mention marriage, when marriage is so clearly out of the question.

Tell her to forget the whole business; that you are releasing her from her promise to wait, because you are now convinced that neither of you were in your right minds or knew what you were talking about at the time it was made. Say that you cannot have it on your conscience to preempt either the youth or the affections of a girl when you have nothing worthwhile to give her in return, either now or in the offing.

Tell her you will always think of her as one of the sweetest girls you ever knew; that you would have been honored to have her as a friend, but in view of the consummate jackass you have made of yourself in the short acquaintanceship, you are resigned to the fact that she probably will never speak to you again. By way of putting a final end to the relationship, you might add that this will probably be for the best, since you are now determined—for her sake as well as for your own peace of mind—to forget the past summer and all it meant to you at the time. Say it is understood, of course, that a further exchange of correspondence is out of the question, since it would be too painful under the circumstances, and that, in conclusion, you wish her the best of luck in everything.

As a measure both tactful and and precautionary, I suggest you make no reference to the fact that she has publicized the supposed engagement among your mutual friends. She did so without real warrant, thus crawling out on a limb from which she will have to retreat as best she can. If she writes to complain that the engagement has already been announced; or that friends understand you are engaged to each other, you may reply: "Well, tell them we're not engaged any longer." And leave it to her to explain the situation to her own and her public's satisfaction. After having stated your position to her, should campus acquaintances again broach the subject of your rumored engagement, tell them it's all a mistake; that there was a time when you had a half-way idea you were sort of engaged, but that it's been broken off. And make no further explanation. M. H.

Miss Haworth will be glad to help you in solving your problems. Write her in care of The Post Woman's Page.

Leopard Crouches on Wool

Spots before the eyes betoken optical illusion this fall, but not the kind an occulist can diagnose. Sole cure for this spotty problem is in bundling oneself in fine black wool and leopard. This alliance, as illustrated above, is a revival of an old friend. Skater coat and boxy fur jacket silhouettes may come and go, but every fall and winter will be enlivened by combinations of dark woolens punctuated with jungle spots. This year, leopard, ocelot and tiger cat have been manipulated in the manner of pliant woolens, as, in this case, where a fourth dimensional illusion is achieved through the fur's being worked as both stole and frontispiece of this back-flared coat

Blood Is Only Body Tissue That's Constantly Reformed

By Logan Clendening, M. D

The blood is the only tissue in the body which is constantly being reformed as if it were the tissue of an animal in the very first stages of life. The skin, for contrast, and the mucous membranes of the body, are constantly being replaced, but by the process of one adult cell dividing to form two adult cells.

The blood cells, however, mature, and each one, even in an adult body, goes through every process that it did when the first cells were formed in the beginning embryo. If we were to examine under the microscope the bone marrow in which this process takes place, we could see large mother cells.

And if we looked at growing marrow, we would see these mother cells divided into two or more smaller but still immature cells. Finally, the small red corpuscle would evolve, but it would have a nucleus. In the human species this nucleus is extruded before the cell enters the blood stream and begins its active life. But in most fowls and lower forms, the red corpuscles still have a nucleus.

The red cells are the only cells in the body which function without a nucleus. Sometimes, when there has been a loss of blood, or when there is a disturbance of blood formation, the body's demand for blood cells results in a number of young nucleated red cells being thrown into the blood stream. It is like a country exhausted in war when the youths and boys are called to the colors because not enough adults remain.

Figures Still Count With Business Girls

Few Dowdy Nowadays Work at Looking Well Exercises Imperative

By Ida Jean Kain.

THERE WAS a time when it was not considered proper for a woman to go to work—not if she got paid for it! This week thousands of women throughout the country are observing "National Businesswomen's Week."

Perhaps the greatest change of all is in businesswomen themselves. It used to be that the plainer they came the more efficient they were supposed to be. Nowadays at 5 o'clock in any town you see the trimmest and most alert-looking women of the day. As a group, moreover, the American businesswomen have the best figures in the world.

There Are Exceptions

It is admitted that there are plenty of exceptions to disprove this point, for the quickest and surest way of losing your figure is to sit at a desk 8 hours a day. In Washington they have what is referred to as "the Federal spread," and in stenographic circles elsewhere it's the "desk room spread," but by any other name this expansion of the hipline is just as aggravating. Without doing anything to stop it, you can gain in the hipline at the rate of 1½ inches in a year.

Some of the most effective exercises for slimming thighs and buttocks are taken lying on the side on the floor. Here is one you will like:

MOVEMENT: Point the toes downward and pull the left knee up toward the chest. Straighten the leg, return to position, and repeat the exercise ten times. Then turn over on the left side and perform the same number of times with the right leg.

Stay right where you are, on the side with the legs straight down on the floor, and, after you have rested for a moment, raise the upper leg high in the air. Keep the knees straight, then lower leg flat on the floor. Hold for a second and slowly lower. Repeat three times, roll over and exercise the other leg. From this position you may also swing into the old, reliable side-scissors, holdings both legs perfectly straight and kicking vigorously, one leg back, the other forward, about 25 times.

The Gentler Sex

By Malvina Lindsay

Gambler's Luck

WHEN:

You take the chance and wear the last year's dress that's too tight in the seat and that hasn't been shortened;

And do nothing about your stringy hair because it's too far gone anyway and tomorrow's the day that you'll get a new wave;

And put on your old girdle because it's more comfortable and anyway you couldn't make anything out of your figure with a dress that doesn't fit;

And wear the pair of summer stockings that are too light and are getting a little thin at the back of the heel, but will probably hold out for another day;

And don the old slip that sags at the side and bunches up in the middle;

And slap on your powder and rouge because you're in a hurry and oh, well, what's the difference with this outfit;

And put on your second best hat that got rained on last fall and whose veil has been struck with anemia;

And wear the gloves that tomorrow will go to the cleaners;

And realize perfectly well that you look exactly like your Aunt Lavinia from down in the country, but figure that after all you'll only be downtown a few hours and that you probably won't see anyone who matters.

AND THEN FIND:

That is the day you encounter your old beau's wife, who is looking as dashing as the Duchess of Windsor;

That you run on to at least one eagle-eyed feminine relative of the charming man who has been paying you some lukewarm attention;

That you are hailed by your old schoolmate who hasn't seen you since the dear old days at the dormitory;

That you are unsuccessful in escaping the sightseeing party from your home town;

That you come face to face with the interesting woman you tried to impress at the last cocktail party;

That your Beau Brummel boss calls you in for a long conference;

That your boss' wife, as exquisitely gowned as a window mannikin, stops by the office and pays you a call;

That a successful professional friend from New York drops by to see how you are coming along with your career;

That everybody else in the office comes down wearing new clothes and looking as crisp and bright as October itself;

That an office associate drags in a visiting mother, father or brother and announces "This is the Miss X I have been telling you so much about;"

That you get a luncheon invitation you cannot refuse and find as you return that your stocking did NOT hold out another day;

WELL:

There is nothing to do but just think of how you will look when you get your hair fixed again and your new clothes on and how under the spell of your changed personality they will forget all about it.

Curtsying If Royalty Visits Is No Problem to First Lady

Will Do 'Exactly' What State Department Says Would 'Be Pleased' to Entertain Britons
Mrs. Roosevelt Marks 54th Birthday Today

By Hope Ridings Miller,
The Post Society Editor.

TO CURTSY OR NOT TO CURTSY when, and if, England's King and Queen visit Washington is not a problem with America's First Lady. "The State Department will tell me exactly what to do, and I'll do exactly what they tell me," Mrs. Roosevelt said yesterday at her weekly press conference.

HOPE R. MILLER.

The reply was in answer to questions as to whether she would entertain the royal couple at the White House and whether she would bend the knee upon meeting Queen Elizabeth.

It looks as if the latter won't be necessary. According to Mrs. James M. Helm, social secretary at the White House, there's no bowing or genuflecting in order at all when the wife of the Preisdent of the United States and the Queen of England come face to face. As everyone who saw the news reels knows, of course, Mme. LeBrun, wife of France's President, salaamed after a fashion when she met England's Queen in Paris not long ago; But France's First Lady, it seems, observes a number of customs not followed by the chatelaine of the White House. For example, she makes annual calls at embassies and legations—a procedure not observed by America's First Lady since the Monroe Administration.

While she hasn't the vaguest idea whether the couple will make a visit to Washington, Mrs. Roosevelt said she would "be pleased" to entertain them if they did. If they do decide to visit here, it won't be the first time top-flight royalty has converged on this democratic Capital. The King and Queen of Belgium came over shortly after the World War; the King and Queen of Siam once were wined and dined in our city, and Queen Marie of Rumania, also was feted and fanfared here.

So far as I have been able to find out, all came and went without any bowing and knee-bending on the part of whoever happened to be First Lady at the time; so until she gets notice to the contrary, Mrs. Roosevelt doesn't expect to set any kowtowing precedents.

FROM ROYALTY TO regalia the discussion turned; and upon being asked whether fashion was spinach in general and if in particular, she thought it advisable to follow Elizabeth Hawes' dictate that the same type of clothes should be worn year after year, Mrs. Roosevelt had something to say. It would be grand not to have to bother with following style trends and buying new frocks each year, she observed, but wearing the same dresses and styles season after season might also be boring.

In this connection she pointed out, however, that she buys only one or two new evening dresses a year, and wears the same ones over and over. She expects to appear in last year's models at several of this year's formal functions; and, as usual, she will wear the same frock to a number of receptions and dinners.

Incidentally, the White House social calendar for 1938-39 is being completed and will be announced Sunday. Returning to Washington a few days ago from her home in Grayville, Ill., Mrs. Helm has been working out final details for the official party schedule. One date, announced some time ago, was the debut party on December 27, at which Mrs. Roosevelt will present to society her niece, Miss Eleanor Roosevelt, daughter of Hall Roosevelt, of Boston, and Mrs. John Cutter, of Dedham, Mass.

THE FIRST LADY'S fifty-fourth birthday will be celebrated quietly today. She will have luncheon with the Women's National Press Club, of which she is a member, and there will be a family dinner with the traditional 21-candle cake at the White House. There is no special celebration planned, she said. "I don't pay much attention to my birthdays," she added.

Mrs. Roosevelt will leave Thursday for the Middle West on her first lecture tour of the season. Her opening talk will be given in St. Joseph, Mo., Saturday. She will speak in eight States before returning to the White House at the end of the month, and will hold her next press conference on October 31.

THE ONLY NEW subject on which she will talk this season is "White House Mail." Asked to tell about this yesterday, she said she received 87,000 letters last year, and for the first six months of 1938, she had received 6,000 more than for the same time last year. She dictates personal answers to three or four letters a day and sends around 50 on to the person or agency best fitted to reply to them.

Mrs. Roosevelt praised Massey's performance in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" and said she was especially impressed by the theme of the play, because "It seems that all the way down in history, fundamentally we fight for the same thing." . . . She believes the recent report on unemployment may endanger the position of women in industry unless there is further study regarding reasons why women work outside the home. . . . She spent Sunday in Charlottesville, Va., with her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, and their 3-month-old baby. . . . Like any fond grandmother, she dilated on the child's charm and sweet disposition; his dainty double chin and fat cheeks; his placid outlook on the world in general . . . Roger Putnam, Mayor of Springfield, Mass., dined with the President last evening. He was a member of the Harvard Fly Club with James Roosevelt.

Attractive Newcomer In Diplomatic Corps

Hessler Studio.

Lovely and learned ladies in the Diplomatic Corps had better look to their laurels. Senora de Lecuona (above), wife of the new Minister-Counselor of the Spanish Embassy speaks five languages and is a beauty in any one of them. Slender and blonde, with an enchanting smile and an engaging sense of humor, she was born not in Spain but in Estonia, that peaceful little state across the water from Finland. Although she has traveled widely, she has spent much time in Paris, where her husband represented his country for several years

Mrs. McKenna Fetes Sister From Abroad

Mme. von Matsch Guest Here From London Was D. C. Debutante

Mme. Lillian von Matsch, the former Lillian Hendrick, has arrived in Washington for a visit with her mother, Mrs. David Hendrick, and her sister, Mrs. Royal T. McKenna. She is accompanied by her young son and will be here for several weeks before returning to London, her home.

A tall, attractive former Capital debutante, Mme. von Matsch has in recent years shown herself more interested in feminism than the social whirl.

She at one time was chairman of the woman's consultative committee of the League of Nations and later was head of the committee's propaganda organization.

Among her enthusiasms is the equal rights bill, which various feminist groups have for several years been trying to push through Congress. On her visit here two years ago, Mme. von Matsch was guest of honor at a tea given by the National Woman's Party at its headquarters in Washington.

Yesterday Mrs. McKenna entertained a congenial group of friends of her sister's at her home on Kalorama Circle. Mme. von Matsch has been living in London since her separation from an Austrian diplomat.

English Lygons Due Here for Family Reunion

Sir William Lygon, the seventh Earl Beauchamp, of Madresfield Court, Malvern, England, accompanied by the Honorable Richard E. Lygon, and Lady Mary Lygon and Lady Dorothy Lygon, who arrived in this country on the liner Normandie yesterday, will come to Washington Thursday.

They will be here to attend the second reunion of the Ligon family and kinsmen, which will be held October 13, 14 and 15 with headquarters at the Washington Hotel. The British branch of the family still sells the ancestral name with a "y" while the American members have changed it to an "i."

William D. Ligon, jr., of New York City, president of the Ligon Family and Kinsman Association, will come to town tomorrow to complete arrangements for the event. A family which has spread itself to the far corners of this country, the Ligon reunion is expected to draw members from most of the different States. A feature of the three-day program will be motion pictures of the ancestral home of the Ligons, Madresfield Court.

Joseph Langdons Living With Edsons

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bowling Langdon, who were married October 1, are making their home with Mrs. Langdon's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Howard A. Edson, of Washington, for the present. The bride is the former Miss Margaret Reede Edson.

They were married in Rockville, Md., by the Rev. Herbert O. Conger. The bride, who was unattended, wore a black tailored suit with a white satin blouse and black accessories.

Mrs. Langdon attended the University of Maryland and is a graduate of the University of Illinois, where she was a member of Zeta Tau Alpha and the National Collegiate Players, honorary dramatic fraternity. Mr. Langdon attended Berea College in Berea, Ky.

Miss Cootes Returns With New Net Laurels

With another championship added to her tennis laurels, Miss Mary Cootes has returned to Alexandria from Hot Springs, Va., where she won the annual invitation tourney.

With Frank Shields as her partner, Miss Cootes also was victor in the mixed doubles matches at the Virginia mountain resort. She is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Harry N. Cootes.

Champsaurs to Sail

The retiring Air Attache of the French Embassy and Mme. Norbert Champsaur will sail tomorrow on the Normandie to return to France.

Herbert Fales, Rose Hyde Wed at Her Parents' Home

Hessler Studio.
MRS. HERBERT FALES

Engaged Only a Week Must Sail Tomorrow He Has Post in Vienna

Yesterday afternoon, less than a week after their engagement was announced, Miss Rose Foster Hyde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hyde, and Herbert Fales, son of Mrs. Alice Peck Wright, of Pasadena, Calif., and the late Bingley Russell Fales, were married.

Since Mr. Fales must sail tomorrow for his new post as vice consul at Vienna, plans for the wedding were speeded up so the couple could go together. They have engaged passage on the liner Roosevelt.

The simple ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. John Bachman Hyde, of 2203 Wyoming avenue. The Rev. H. H. D. Sterrett officiated.

Veil Belonged to Bridegroom's Mother

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin, made with a full skirt, brief train and long tight-fitting sleeves. Her lace veil had been worn by Mrs. Wright, the bridegroom's mother, at her wedding, and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley and gardenias.

Her only attendant, Miss Juliet Dulany, was gowned in a floor-length frock of wine-colored velvet and carried a bouquet of autumn flowers.

Dr. Allan Mitchell, of the University of Indiana, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mrs. Hyde wore a long gown of black velvet and Mrs. Wright chose a wine colored frock of the same material. They dispensed with hats.

Made Debut Here in 1935

Mrs. Fales, who was presented to Capital society in 1935, studied at the Potomac and Madeira Schools and was graduated last June from Sweet Briar College. She is a provisional member of the Washington Junior League.

Mr. Fales attended Princeton University and received degrees from Pomona College and Oxford University. He has been studying at the State Department Foreign Service School here since early last spring. He previously was stationed in Berlin.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mrs. Allan Mitchell, Dr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Mitchell, of the University of Virginia, and the Misses Molly Talcott, of Richmond, and Josephine Happ, of Macon, Ga.

Depastas At Shoreham

Newest addition to the diplomats living at the Shoreham is the newly-appointed Counselor of the Greek Legation, George S. Depasta, with Mme. Depasta. The latter, a dark-eyed, dark-haired woman, who favors black attire, is the first woman in the Greek Legation since Mme. Simopoulos and her husband, who was his country's envoy here, left almost four years ago. Neither the present Minister, Demetrios Sicilianos, who sailed last Thursday on the Europa for a two months' vacation, nor the retiring Counselor, Nicholas G. Lely, is married.

M. Lely will leave this week to take up his duties as Consul General in New York. A popular member of the Diplomatic Corps here for several years, M. Lely will be widely missed.

M. Depasta was connected with the State Department in Greece prior to his appointment to the new post. He spent ten years as Consul General in Chicago, returning to Greece from there five years ago.

Another diplomat making his home at the Shoreham is T. K. Bewley, Financial Counselor of the British Embassy, who has returned from a two months' leave of absence in England. Mrs. Bewley will join him here later.

Also living at the Shoreham is the new British Military Attache, Col. Richard Valentine Read. The French Embassy has been represented at the same hotel by the Charge d'Affaires, Jacques Truelle, and the First Secretary, Jacques Dumaine, who left recently for a trip to the West.

Beatrice Coles Sets Oct. 22 for Wedding

Miss Beatrice Coles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Fred Coles of Washington, has selected Saturday, October 22, as the date of her wedding to Bernard Pettit. The ceremony will take place at 7 o'clock in the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Coles and will be followed by a reception. The bride-to-be will dispense with attendants.

Saturday Mrs. John McAney and Mrs. Hugh Dryden will entertain at a luncheon for Miss Coles at Tilden Gardens.

Wrights Visit At Bliss Home

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss have with them at Dumbarton Oaks, their Georgetown home, J. Butler Wright, United States Ambassador to Cuba, and Mrs. Wright. The Wrights have been at the Hotel Weylin in New York since arriving in this country from Havana and were accompanied to the Capital by their daughters, the Misses Edith C. and Mary C. Wright.

Miss Mary Wright spent a week or ten days here last spring as guest of the Hungarian Minister and Mme. Pelenyi, who visited her parents in Cuba last winter. Miss Wright was widely entertained on her stay here.

Expected in Washington in a day or so is the United States Ambassador to France, William Bullitt, who arrived in New York yesterday on the liner Normandie.

Miss Worthington Sets Her Wedding Reception Oct. 22

Mrs. Ralph Worthington has issued invitations to the wedding reception of her daughter, Miss Ethel Worthington, and William James Coad, jr., on October 22, at 4::30 p. m. at her apartment, 2029 Connecticut avenue.

Mr. Coad and his future bride will be at home after November 15 at Fairacres, Omaha, Nebr.

Countess Is Coming

The Belgian Ambassador, Count Robert van der Straten-Ponthoz, will be joined early next month by the Countess, who has been at Chateau Ponthoz, her estate in Belgium, since early summer.

About The Town

With Dudley Harmon

PROBABLY no jittery European feels any happier that the war scare is over, for a time anyway, than do Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fales, whose marriage took place here yesterday. Mr. Fales was assigned some weeks ago to Vienna as vice consul, but during the recent hectic days the State Department decided that no women ought to accompany their husbands to posts in the tinder box countries, and prospects looked exceedingly bleak as far as romance was concerned. But when the tension eased Mrs. Fales, the former Miss Rose Hyde, announced her engagement and got married all within a week.

DUDLEY HARMON.

The bride and bridegroom must have almost as many intimate friends as Elsa Maxwell, as the Hyde residence on Wyoming avenue was jammed at the wedding reception yesterday. The guests even overflowed into the garden.

LOOKING as calm as though she had had months to get ready for her wedding, the pretty bride received with her husband before masses of palms and white chrysanthemums in the drawing room.

Seen here and there: Mrs. George Messersmith, wife of the Assistant Secretary of State, in a dark green suit with a matching coat trimmed with Persian lamb; the First Secretary of the German Embassy and Frau Scholz, the latter wearing the smartest hat in the room, a tiny arrangement of blue feathe held on to her blonde hair with a black velvet band; the Misses Isabel and Elizabeth Ogilby; tall Nancy Brereton, who has decided to take up modeling professionally, having done a lot of it at amateur events; Suzanne Williams, Clement Conger; Mrs. Henry C. Rowland with her daughter, Miss Diane Rowland; Mary Gentry, Christine Gawse, and scores of others.

Mrs. Charles Hyde, the bride's grandmother, arrived just in time for the wedding from Concord, Mass., where she was more or less hurricane-bound for a week.

LIFE, for Signora Augusto Rosso, is just one party after another before she sails the end of the week to join her husband in Moscow. Yesterday she lunched with Mr. and Mrs. Leander McCormick-Goodhart, of the British embassy, was guest of honor at a cocktail party given by George Abell, and tonight will be feted at a dinner to be given by the Naval Attache of the Italian embassy and the Marchioness of Sant'Orsola.

Mr. Abell's party was held at the apartment on Twentieth street which he has taken for the winter. Everybody sat outside on the terrace, and we mean really sat, because it was a pleasantly small affair.

Perched on the railing we saw Mrs. Crosby Miller, in a smart black suit with a hat to match; the Ecuadorean Ambassador with Senora Ponce de Leon of the embassy; Mrs. Marshall Exnicios, in a black velvet dress with a silver fox scarf; Lawrence Bungardeanu, of the Rumanian legation; Mrs. Emily Hura; Hugo Rennert, Max Dunlap and Mrs. Higginson Rogers, and several others.

ANOTHER attractive visitor who was guest of honor at a cocktail party yesterday was Mme. de Hertelendy, for whom Robert Coe entertained in his house in Georgetown. This too was a very small party—let's hope it's becoming a trend. Among the guests were the Second Secretary of the Argentine Embassy and Senora de Zuberbuhler, already discussing a trip to Buenos Aires which they propose to make next May; Mrs. Snowden Fahnestock, in black with a red feather in her hat; Keith Officer, of the British Embassy, recently returned from a trip through the West; Mr. and Mrs. George Howe, who are now installed in their new home on P street, just a few doors up from their former residence; Anthony de Balasy, of the Hungarian Legation; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Cumming, jr., and one or two others.

MRS. GEORGE MARYE is staying at the Mayflower until her apartment at 1785 Massachusetts avenue is ready for occupancy. Her daughter, Mrs. Helen Thomas, is en route here from the West, where she spent the summer, and is expected to arrive the end of the week.

Margaret Louise Smith Wed To F. W. White at Hyattsville

At a candlelight service in a setting of white dahlias and ferns, Miss Margaret Louise Smith was married last evening to Frederick William White at the First Methodist Episcopal Church in Hyattsville, Md. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Murray Smith, of Hyattsville, and Mr. White is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William White, of Washington.

Mr. Smith gave his daughter in marriage. Her gown of white satin was made on princess lines with a high neckline trimmed with a collar of seed pearls, and a medium train. She wore a Juliet cap from which fell a long veil and carried a bridal bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Naoma Smith served as maid of honor for her sister, and the bridesmaids were the Misses Kannie Ray, Bertie Caruthers, Charles Morgan and Mrs. T. Campbell Smith. All were gowned in blue velvet frocks with small trains and wore tiny hats of matching velvet. Their flowers were roses with blue delphinium and baby's breath.

Leonard Murray Smith was best man for his brother, and the ushers were Richard Davidson, Sherard Wilson, Raymond Goodhart and John McWilliams.

A reception at the Delta Delta Delta Sorority House in College Park, Md., followed the ceremony. Baskets of white dahlias and chrysanthemums decorated the drawing rooms. Assisting were Miss Jean Ashmun, Miss Evangeline Gruver, Mrs. Theodore Sellman and Miss Carolyn Hotis.

After a motor trip to the Great Smokies National Park in Tennessee, the couple will reside at Towson, Md. When she left for her honeymoon, the bride was wearing a black wool costume suit with skunk trimming and a shoulder corsage of gardenias.

Both Mr. and Mrs. White are graduates of the University of Maryland. The bride is a member of Delta Delta Delta and her husband's fraternity is Phi Sigma Kappa.

Board Meets Today Session Series Opens D. A. R. Coming Next 1812 Daughters Due

By Jessie Ash Arndt,
The Post Club Editor.

Mrs. William H. Pouch, president, and members of the board of the National Society, Children of the American Revolution, are in Washington today for their annual meeting which will be held at the Mayflower Hotel. Plans for an administration building the society expects to build here will be discussed and its program outlined for the coming year.

Today's meeting launches a series of national board sessions in the Capital this month. The meeting of the board of management of the National Society, Daughters of the American Revolution, has been called for Tuesday and Wednesday, October 25 and 26, and that of the Daughters of 1812, for October 25.

1,000 Officials Expected

Mrs. Henry M. Robert, jr., of Annapolis, president general of the D. A. R., with her staff of officers, will be honored at a reception to be given by the District of Columbia Chapter the evening of October 26 at the Mayflower. Nearly 1,000 members of the organization are expected to attend, including State regents, national officers and committee chairmen. Many of the officers of the Daughters of 1812, who also are members of the D. A. R., will be present. Miss Lillian Chenoweth, State regent of the District, will head the receiving line with Mrs. Robert.

The Daughters of 1812 will honor their president, Mrs. Arthur O'Neill, of Chicago, and her cabinet at an afternoon reception October 25 at the national headquarters, 1461 Rhode Island avenue northwest. Mrs. Lane Schofield is president of the District of Columbia Society which will act as hostess.

The D. A. R. board meeting will be at Memorial Continental Hall. An informal gathering of national officers will be held at 10 o'clock the morning of October 25, followed by luncheon in the banquet hall at 12:45 p. m. and an afternoon meeting of both national officers and State regents. In the evening there will be a "Dutch treat" dinner at the Mayflower, after which most of the members will attend a concert by the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra in Constitution Hall.

To Visit Maryland

The morning of October 26 the official meeting of the national board of management will be held in the board room of Continental Hall, followed by luncheon and an afternoon session.

October 27 the Maryland Daughters of the American Revolution will honor the president general by inviting members of the national board to spend the day in the State. A feature of the visit will be attendance at the Navy Day celebration at Annapolis.

Women's Democratic Club To Hear Wallace Tomorrow

First Luncheon Held at Clubhouse Cabinet Member to Speak at Dinner Thursday Meetings Will Be Changed

The Woman's National Democratic Club launched its fall activities with a luncheon at the clubhouse yesterday, to be followed tomorrow night by a dinner, at which Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace will speak on "Thrifty Democrats."

Yesterday's meeting was devoted to club affairs, reports of committees and discussions of program plans for the season. Mrs. Garland Ferguson, first vice president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Wilbur W. Hubbard, who was out of the city, but will be here for the first dinner tomorrow.

Mrs. Edward Keating, program chairman, was unable to be present yesterday, but her program plans were announced. This year, instead of having the dinner meetings on Thursday nights, they will be set at a time when speakers whom the club desires to hear are available.

It is also planned to have one of the weekly luncheons each month given over to a forum in which an "inquiring reporter" will ask questions of club members, affording opportunity for general discussion of a subject of current interest.

Reports were presented by Mrs. Joseph D. Grigsby, of the education committee; Mrs. Huston Thompson, of the finance committee; Mrs. Loren B. Johnson, of the house committee, and Mrs. Stanley Reed, of the membership committee.

Among other guests at the luncheon were Mrs. Emil Hurja, Mrs. George M. Eckels, Mrs. David Tucker Brown, Mrs. Frank S. Bright, the club treasurer; Mrs. Albert A. Jones, Mrs. J. Brent Clarke, Mrs. Mark Bristol, Mrs. Morris Sheppard, Mrs. Charles Brand, Mrs. James Monroe Johnson, Mrs. Samuel Herrick, Mrs. Arthur Clarendon Smith, Mrs. J. Clinton Tribby, Mrs. Mary Steele, Mrs. Bates Warren, Mrs. Justin Miller, Mrs. B. H. Dorsey, Mrs. Edward Stitt, Mrs. Charles Riordan, Mrs. Imogene Howell, Mrs. George E. Adamson, Mrs. Ruth Hopper, Mrs. O. W. McNeese.

Eastern Star Holds Card Party Dance at Wardman

The Washington Centennial Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star last night held its first fall function, a card party and dance, in the Wardman Park Hotel. Proceeds will go to the Masonic and Eastern Star Home.

Miss Mary J. Bean, matron of the chapter, was chairman of the arrangements committee, assisted by Charles Bartz and Mrs. Edna Muth.

The receiving line was headed by Miss Bean and receiving with her were the patron, Worthington R. Bean; the associate matron, Mrs. Lavinia Nisewanner, and associate patron, Charles H. Pullman.

Beta Sigma Phis To Weigh New Chapter

Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will hold its regular cultural meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at 1222 New Hampshire avenue northwest. Lyda Huff Quiltich, international representative, will discuss plans for formation of a new chapter, Delta. Ella Pharoah will report on plans for a Halloween dance, to be given the evening of October 31 at Holbrook Farm, and Ruth Gilbert will tell of arrangements for a dinner at the Fuhrman Studio at the Fairfax Hotel, November 7.

Margaret Franzen is in charge of the program.

Delta Gamma Alumnae To Honor Mrs. Gradle

The Delta Gamma alumnae will have as guest of honor tonight at their meeting at the home of Mrs. Henry Ralph, 4561 Cathedral avenue, Mrs. Harry Gradle, who is here with her husband to attend the convention of the American Academy of Ophthalmology and Otolaryngology, being held at the Mayflower Hotel.

Dr. and Mrs. Gradle gave a reception Sunday afternoon at the Mayflower for the 2,500 members attending. She will speak to the Delta Gammas on the recent twenty-ninth biennial convention of that international fraternity.

Bedtime Story

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Mrs. Digger's Clever Cousin

Only those may hope to find
The truth who keep an open mind.
—Old Mother Nature.

While Peter Rabbit was learning a little and guessing at a great deal more about Mrs. Digger the Wasp and her private affairs the Old Naturalist was showing Tommy, Sue and Sammy things which caused Sammy to exclaim: "If I didn't know that my two eyes are perfectly good I wouldn't believe that I see what I know that I am seeing."

It all came about because of a remark of Sammy's. "There is one thing that only man can do and that is use tools," said he. "He is the only one smart enough to do that."

The little laugh wrinkles gathered at the corners of the Old Naturalist's keen blue eyes. Sue saw them. "Isn't Sammy right?" she asked.

"Meet me tomorrow morning and perhaps I may be able to show you something that will alter Sammy's opinion" was the reply, and that is all that they could get from him.

All the rest of that day there was much speculation as to what the Old Naturalist could possibly show Sammy to cause him to change his mind. Even Tommy, who was Farmer Brown's boy, and rather intimately acquainted with most of the people of the Green Forest and Green Meadows, was at a loss. Think as he would he couldn't think of one who could use anything that might be called a tool.

"Of course," said he, "birds use their bills and claws like tools, and some animals use their feet and teeth like tools. Paddy the Beaver cuts down trees with his teeth, so I suppose they might be called tools. But somehow I think the Old Naturalist doesn't consider these tools. I think he means something separate from the one who makes use of it, and I can't think of any creature but Man who can do that."

So the three were on hand bright and early to meet the Old Naturalist. They showered him with questions, all of which he ignored. "I'm not going to tell you. I'm going to show you that you may judge for yourselves."

He led the way to a small bit of fairly bare ground. On this he had drawn a fairly large circle. "We'll sit down here and watch what happens inside that circle," said he.

Three pairs of sharp eyes studied the ground inside that circle for some clue of what was to be expected but saw no living thing, not even an ant, and nothing to indicate that any living creature had been there. Sammy was beginning to grow impatient when a small Wasp, a cousin of Digger whom Peter Rabbit had watched, alighted on the ground in the middle of that circle and laid down a caterpillar she had brought. Then she carefully inspected the ground and began to scrape away the earth at a certain point.

"She is starting to dig a hole," whispered Sue as if she feared the sound of her voice would frighten the busy insect, which of course it wouldn't.

The Old Naturalist shook his head. "Watch," said he.

In a moment the loose grains had been brushed aside and a small pebble was uncovered. To the astonishment of all but the Old Naturalist the pebble was lifted and set aside, and there was a hole already dug. Into this the caterpillar was taken. Presently the little worker reappeared. She picked up the little pebble and replaced it over the hole. It just fitted. Then she carefully swept back the loose soil to cover the jaws a small stone and pounded down the loose soil over the hidden entrance to her burrow. She pebble. This was surprising enough but imagine the astonishment of Tommy, Sue and Sammy when the Wasp picked up in her tamped it down to make it firm like the surrounding soil. When she was through and flew away, probably for another caterpillar, there was nothing to indicate where the entrance to her burrow was.

"Did she use a tool when she pounded down that earth?" asked the Old Naturalist.

"I'll say she did!" exclaimed Sammy admiringly, and the others agreed.

Zeta Tau Alpha Alumnae Here Hold Banquet

Mark 40th Anniversary In Candlelight Rites Honor Nine Founders

A candle-lighting ceremony, honoring the founders of Zeta Tau Alpha Sorority, was a feature of the banquet given last night at Congressional Country Club in celebration of the fortieth anniversary of the organization. Mrs. Edgar Withrow, president of the local alumnae chapter, opened the program and Mrs. Franklin Steinko presided as toastmistress.

More than 50 members were present and were seated at a Z-shaped table on which the sorority colors were carried out with blue candles in silver candelabra. After a tribue to the founders by Mrs. Withrow, the Zeta Tau Alpha prayer was sung.

The huge birthday cake bore 40 candles, 9 of which were not lighted. As the flame was touched to each, it was dedicated to one of the nine founders. Alumnae who participated in the ceremony were Mrs. Warren Faircloth, Mrs. George Silcox, Mrs. Paul W. Briggs, Miss Dorothy Rock, Miss Gretchen Hill, Miss Dorothy Eidhammer, Miss Beatrice Clephane and Miss Virginia Ronsaville.

Mrs. John Warlick, former president of the City Panhellenic Association, closed the program with a greeting from Ruby Leigh Orgain, one of the founders.

Similar observances of the anniversary were held last night by chapters throughout the United States. Zeta Tau Alpha is the seventh largest of the 23 national Panhellenic Congress sororities. It recently granted its seventy-sixth chapter and has 70 chartered alumnae groups.

D. C. Pen Women To Honor Author

Mrs. Theodore Tiller, chairman of book review luncheons for the D. C. branch of the League of American Pen Women, announces that John Finch Barnhill, surgeon and author of "Hatching the American Eagle," will be honor guest at a luncheon in the club room at the Grafton Hotel at 12:30 p. m. Thursday. His historical novel, which will be reviewed by Mrs. Robert Clay Sherrill, presents an account of the American Revolution. The author dedicated the book to the Daughters of the American Revolution and which is doing much to promote interest in it. It is available in Braille.

Among those who will attend the luncheon are Miss Helen Stout, Miss Lillian Chenowith, Mrs. Tonnis J. Holzberg, Mrs. George M. Quirk, Mrs. John M. Kerr, Miss Luella Chase, Mrs. Wintermute W. Sloan, Mrs. Howard L. Hodgkins, Mrs. William Gower, Mrs. J. H. Wheat, Dr. Paul Sperry and Mrs. Ross T. McIntire.

Spanish Group Plans Fiesta de la Raza

La Fiesta de la Raza (Columbus Day), will be celebrated by the Spanish Committee in Defense of Democracy, with a banquet at the Madrillon Restaurant, on October 12.

Among the honor guests will be Dr. Fernando de los Rios, Ambassador of Spain, and Senora de los Rios; Dr. Francisco Castillo Najera, Ambassador of Mexico; Luis Quintanilla, counselor of the Mexican Embassy; Luis F. Guachalla, Minister from Bolivia, and Senora Gauchalla; the Charge d'Affaires of the Legation of Honduras, Julian R. Caceres, and Senora Caceres; Pedro Lecuona, Counselor of the Spanish Embassy, and Senora Lecuona.

Beta Phi Alpha to Meet

The Washington City Club of Beta Phi Alpha will have its first meeting of the year at the home of Mrs. Joseph B. Grigsby, 1821 North Rhodes street, Arlington, tomorrow. Miss Dorothy Jeanne Hill will assist the hostess and all Beta Phi Alphas in the city have been invited.

MR. AND MRS. WADE H. ELLIS, who recently returned from England, entertained members of Sigma Nu Fraternity Sunday afternoon at their country home, Rippon Lodge, Va. About 70 members, including the men of the active chapter at George Washington University and some of the local alumni, were present. Among them were Frank Yates, district regent and Roger Byron, of Owensville, Ky., president of the G. W. chapter.

Mr. Ellis, who is former national regent of the fraternity, talked to the guests of Sigma Nu and then told them of the historic background of Rippon Lodge, the oldest house in this section of Virginia.

MRS. FLORA McGILL KEEFER, recently appointed chairman of radio for the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs, will initiate the first program of the season this morning over WRC at 10:45.

Mrs. Ernest Humphrey Daniel, president of the District of Columbia federation, will speak on "Looking Forward with the Federation," and Dorothy Radde Emery, composer and pianist, will play.

THE CAPITAL DIVISION of the Woman's National Farm and Garden Association, of which Mrs. Jay Winston Johns, of Charlottesville, is president, will start its season next Monday with a new vice president for the District, Mrs. Arthur T. Esgate, who headed the local work of the organization last year, recently resigned and Mrs. Johns appointed Mrs. Frederick V. Coville to fill her unexpired term.

The division will have its opening luncheon meeting at the Y. W. C. A. Plans also are being made for a benefit card party October 28, for which Mrs. Fernando Cunaberti will open her home. Mrs. Charles W. Fairfax is in charge of reservations.

"CAN One Learn About Labor from the Press?" will be the subject of a Sunday morning discussion at the breakfast being given by the League of Women Shoppers October 16 at the Congressional Country Club. Breakfast will be served at noon and the speakers will be Paul Y. Anderson of the St. Louis Star-Times and the Nation; Robert S. Allen, of the Philadelphia Record and New York Post and Delbert Clark, manager of the Washington Bureau of the New York Times.

IRENE VIVIAN WRIGHT, a student at the National University School of Law, and an active member of Phi Delta Delta Legal Fraternity, has been appointed business manager of the society's quarterly magazine. "The Phi Delta Delta." Lois Gates Gorman, of Washington, is editor of the publication, which includes discussion of current legal problems, views of the chapters and outstanding members.

THE SISTERHOOD of Adas Israel Congregation will open its season Thursday afternoon with a Succoth membership tea in the vestry rooms of the temple, Sixth and I streets.

Mrs. Levis Rodis and Mrs. Moe Offenberg are in charge of arrangements for the program, which will include songs by Mrs. Benjamin Ratner and dramatic readings by Mrs. Zal Diamond, of the Washington Civic Theater.

106 Register As U.S. Agents For Foreigners

Agents

adviser to the Japanese government on American and international matters and as a representative of the South Manchurian Railway. He said he was paid $500 monthly by the Japanese government and 10,000 yen per year by the railway.

Texan Represents Mexicans

Herbert S. Houston, 70 Fifth avenue, New York, said he represented the Consul General of China, the South Manchuria Railway and the International Chamber of Commerce at Paris. He receives no compensation from the Chinese consul and $6,000 from the railway, he said.

John M. Taylor, San Antonio, Tex., registered as agent for Kiang Huan and associates, representing Chinese national government, and Nicholas Rodriguez, head of the Nationalist Party of Mexico. Both, he said, have secret addresses in San Antonio.

So far as the Chinese government is concerned, he said, his job involves presenting the Chinese side as opposed to the Japanese, while his work for Rodriguez is "purely revolutionary." Rodriguez, he said, plans a new Mexican administration patterned after that in the United States. His compensation in the latter case will be $5,000 "when raised by the party."

A lenient attitude will be followed toward those failing to register between September 6 and October 6, as required by the act, informed sources said. The small number of registrations is believed to be partly due to confusion as to what classes of persons and firms are affected by the act.

The impression was given at first that only disseminators of "propaganda" were to register, and later that the act applied to all aliens.

"Although October 6 was the last day of the period during which all persons required to register under the act should have registered," the announcement said, "the department is still endeavoring to impress upon all agents of foreign principals the advisability of a careful study of the act of June 8 and of the regulations issued by the Secretary of State on September 6, in order that they may be clearly informed of their obligations under the law and may register with the least possible delay."

In the majority of cases registrants were agents for foreign business establishments or private organizations. A large number of the agents mentioning foreign governments represented state railroad and steamship lines owned by the governments. Many handle advertising for foreign concerns.

Registration of foreign agents is expected to be of some value in gathering information on foreign propaganda activities in the country, although department officials have explained that it is not intended to act as a curb on foreign propaganda or espionage. The act, it is said, was not sponsored by the department, which primarily is concerned with foreign affairs and not foreign activities in this country.

How far the department will pursue its lenient attitude was not revealed. It has been indicated, however, that the Justice Department will be asked to prosecute persons who fail to register despite repeated warnings.

Bund Leaders Escape

The department called attention to the requirement of the act that all persons who engage to represent foreign principals after the deadline are required to file immediately a registration statement under oath on the prescribed form.

Moreover, all registrants must, within 30 days after expiration of six months following filing of their first registration statement submit a second statement under oath.

The act, it was revealed, will not apply to foreign agents unless they represent foreign principals directly. In consequence, leaders of the Nazi "bund" and others in a similar position may escape requirements.

Persons failing to register are subject, under the act, to a fine of $1,000 or imprisonment for two years, or both.

Other Registrants

Other registrants include Warren S. Lockwood, Munsey Building, representing the British Rubber Publicity Association, on a commission basis; Polish Information Service, 411 Albee Building, distributing information on Polish affairs for the Polish embassy; William P. Mangold, New York, employed by Spanish Ambassador Fernando de Los Rios at $300 per month to distribute news and information.

Robert A. Wright, Elmhurst, N. Y., employed at $200 per month by the Japanese consul general at New York as public relations counsel; Earl H. Leaf, New York, adviser to the Chinese government at $300 per month; Frederick V. Williams, San Francisco, employed at $300 per month to represent the Japanese committee on trade and information; Eugene M. Prince, San Francisco, serving without compensation as adviser to the British consulate general.

William Wills Davis, New York, head of the Argentine information bureau, an adjunct of the Argentine treasury; Ugo Tomenotti, New York, agent for a Brazilian colonization company; Franklin H. Chino, Chicago, representing the Japanese consulate there at $20 per month as public relations counsel; Carl G. Orgell, Great Kills, New York, employed at $200 per month by the V. D. A. Society, a German organization, and the law firm of Kahin & Carmody, Seattle, Wash., representing the Japanese consul in Seattle at $75 per month.

Other Washingtonians who registered as representing foreign principals were Dr. Paul Wohl, 821 Nineteenth street northwest; J. Raymond Hoover, Metropolitan Bank Building, and G. F. Snyder, 707 Colorado Building.

Price-Tag Ban On Liquor to Be Fought Today

Strong Opposition
Doubt Constitutionality
Newspapers to Be Heard

Strong opposition to a proposed regulation prohibiting the use of prices in liquor advertising will be presented at a public hearing in the District Building at 10 a. m. today, it was revealed yesterday.

A spokesman for dealers said it was doubted whether such regulation, if approved by the Commissioners, would stand up in court.

Several newspapers here yesterday stated their opposition to the proposed regulation.

When the regulation was first placed before the liquor board it was erroneously stated the five newspapers in the city were "in accord." This was vigorously denied by the newspapers which will oppose the petition today.

The regulation would ban use of price lists with liquor in newspaper ads, on shelves in liquor stores and on any advertisements. A price list could be displayed to a customer only if requested.

George W. Offutt, chairman of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, said the regulation was inspired by the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association and has the tacit approval of the ABC board, but it was deemed advisable to hold a public hearing "to hear the other side" before sending the regulation to the Commissioners for approval.

Offutt said it would curb the "perpetual souse" from stocking up with liquor whenever low prices were advertised. Other quarters said the regulation would drive the "cut-rates" out of business.

Footpad Beats Policeman's Wife

Mrs. Catherine Storm, wife of a District police lieutenant, Walter C. Storm, who instructs rookie members of the department, was beaten by a colored assailant yesterday in a hallway outside her apartment at 1420 Chapin street northwest.

Mrs. Storm, preparing to move into the apartment with Lieut. Storm today, was carrying some dishes when the colored man followed her to snatch her pocketbook. When she screamed he struck her with his fist on the chin and fled.

Helen T. Hawkins, colored, 20, 100 block of L street southwest, was charged with operating a lottery and possessing lottery slips yesterday when arrested by police at Sixth and E streets southwest.

She was arraigned immediately before United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage and held for grand jury action. Police said she had an alleged numbers book in her possession and a marked dime.

Third Cavalry Winner At Canadian Horse Show

Montreal, Oct. 10 (Canadian Press).—The Third United States Cavalry's crack three-man team from Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., was announced winner of the Grand Aggregate Challenge Trophy, emblematic of the International Military championship, Sunday as the annual horse show of the Seventeenth Duke of York's Royal Canadian Hussars closed.

NERVOUSNESS

Medical Science now declares that many conditions of nervousness—fatigue—loss of appetite and lack of sleep—neuritis—neuralgia—and many neuritic muscular aches and pains—are due to a lack of certain vital elements the body needs. In such cases, sufferers almost invariably get amazing relief from Neural-Aid, an inexpensive, drugless preparation that contains these vital elements. Clip this ad, bring it in, and you will receive a FREE SAMPLE of Neural-Aid and interesting booklet.

HAS BABY A NASTY COLD?

Relieve the Misery As Most Mothers Do

Rub baby's back, chest, and throat with Vicks VapoRub and tuck him deep into bed. What a comfort to know that VapoRub goes to work right away to relieve the misery of his cold without "dosing"—without risk of stomach upsets. And what a comfort to know that long after restful sleep comes, VapoRub will still be working—two ways at once—direct through the skin like a poultice, and direct to the irritated air-passages with its medicated vapors. You'll find that often by morning the worst of the cold is over.

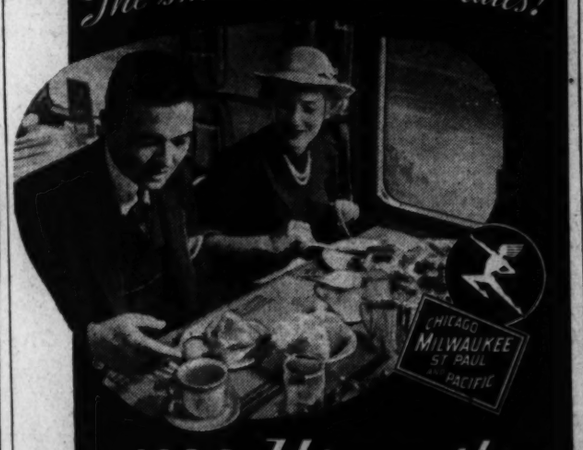
NOW... The smoothest ride on rails!



1939 Hiawatha

AHEAD OF THE TIMES

THIS great streamliner is completely new in appearance, construction and in performance. Only a ride on the 1939 HIAWATHA will show how smooth-riding a train can be. There's scarcely a ripple in your cup as you speed along at 100 miles an hour.

This smoothness stems from a host of engineering innovations. For the first time trucks are equipped with triple coil springs, hydraulic shock absorbers and stabilizing tie-bars that reduce body-sway. Wheels are roller-bearing fitted; and dozens of vibration-absorbing rubber mountings are used in trucks, couplers and buffer plates.

The distinctive beauty of the HIAWATHA's appointments, its new type air-conditioning and amazing silence assure unusual luxury.

Over the Coffee

By Harlan Miller

There's been a faint chill between the Jim Farleys and the Chip Roberts (he's treasurer of the Democrats). It began when Senator Tydings' beauteous wife wowed a party by mimicking Jim Farley's glad-handing of a bunch of politicians and other of his mannerisms.

Mrs. F. D. R. jr. . . markets

Glamorous Evie Robert, an even better mimic, dropped in at the Farley's apartment and imitated Mrs. Tydings' mimicry for the benefit of Mrs. Farley, who is Evie's great friend. Naturally she thought Mrs. Farley would enjoy the take-off.

• • • •

The chill this occasioned (now largely dispelled) is nothing to the chill between the Farleys and the Tydings. Mr. Farley's enthusiasm for Senator Tydings, never very great, fell to a record low. There may, of course, be no connection between this mimicry and his participation in the Maryland "purge," the only one he blessed. But political feuds begin over smaller things.

CAPITAL MEDLEY: Says a diplomat: "Sailors, diplomats and prostitutes meet old friends in every capital of the world" . . . Big shot gourmets who visited the far Northwest this summer want the small, flavorsome Olympia oysters and the giant Dungeness crabs imported to this seafood center . . . Michigan's Senator Vandenberg has been a good sport about letting Iowa's Senator Herring take his pet profit-sharing explorations away from him. This probe is a faint rainbow in the labor clouds.

Some of the foreign officers who witnessed the maneuvers involving the American brigade of mechanized cavalry are still rubbing their eyes in amazement, especially military attaches from countries which can't spend much money on their armies.

One foreign attache told me that he understands it cost $15,000,000 to equip this brigade of 2,000 soldiers, and that his country couldn't spend that much money to equip 50,000 men.

Since President Roosevelt's intimate brooding over the European situation, a slight change is noticeable in his treatment of domestic affairs. The ultra-diplomatic cautious manner of Cordell Hull and his bright young men has infected him.

He has been using Mr. Hull's "No news on that" about seemingly innocuous domestic affairs. Maybe—just perhaps—this is the beginning of a trend toward "appeasement," the birth of an "era of good will."

"—a DuPont goes to market"

Down at the University of Virginia, Mrs. FDR, jr., the former Ethel DuPont, does her marketing in person, going almost every day for fresh fruits and vegetables and other comestibles.

Attired in a simple housedress, without hat or hose, and her blond hair in a striking page-boy bob, she attracts quiet admiration among the native Virginians for her simplicity and loveliness; even from the Carter Glass school of thought.

There's no chromium trimming or moderne note at the 1925 F Street Club, the rendezvous and inner fastness of the ultra-ultra inner circle of Washington society. There the Berkeley Square, Faubourg St. Germain crowd gather for a chop or a salad. It's an old mansion five minutes' walk from the White House, but 500 miles away in point of view. Its political thought is of the Benjamin Harrison era.

Its atmosphere is homey, even more so than that of the local club in any city of 25,000; and its atmosphere is feminine, though men come for lunch. In the bathrooms the tubs still stand stalwartly on four legs.

• • • •

Among the Capital's statesmen, looking at Europe more and more like men from Mars, there's a noble determination to be optimistic about the Munich agreement.

But Sumner Welles, the polished Undersecretary of State, is perhaps a trifle more optimistic about it than the Assistant Secretaries, George Messersmith, who did several years in Hitlerian Berlin, and Francis Sayre, Woodrow Wilson's son-in-law.

There's a wan hope that a few more triumphs will mellow Herr Hitler; that's what the "realists" think; but the "idealists" have their fingers crossed.

Library to Ask $500,000 for New Building

Fund Would Start Work Listed for 1940 Budget $3,500,000 Total Cost

Inclusion of funds in the District 1940 budget to begin construction of a new main public library will be requested today by Librarian George F. Bowerman.

Commissioner Hazen said yesterday a supplementary hearing had been granted library officials to request $500,000. In the present appropriation the libraries were granted $80,000 for plans and specifications for the new building.

It was understood Municipal Architect Nathan C. Wyeth has requested an additional $85,000 to complete the plans.

Site Already Chosen

Hazen said the board of trustees for the libraries had already discussed with the commissioners their budgetary needs for 1940, but that Bowerman had been absent from the city.

Congress has already chosen the site bounded by C street, John Marshall place, Pennsylvania avenue and Sixth street for the new building.

According to plans the completed library will cost $3,500,000, and it is expected Bowerman will ask authorization for the entire amount.

$1,336,000 Asked

The total requested by the libraries for the next fiscal year is $1,336,751, an increase of more than $700,000 over the present appropriation.

Following today's hearings, the commissioners will confer with Budget Officer Daniel J. Donovan to determine the total bill which the District will send to the Budget Bureau.

The total estimated for all departments under the District for 1940 is $66,344,544, but that was a month ago, before the commissioners began their series of discussions with each department. At public hearings, various citizens groups asked the commissioners not to exceed the present appropriation of $49,764,052 in their budget requests for 1940.

Emergency Staff Honors Miss Fish, Chief of Nurses

Members of the Emergency Hospital staff last night honored Miss Janet Fish on her sixteenth anniversary as superintendent of nurses at a dance at the Nurses Home.

Miss Fish, sister of Representative Fish, of New York, joined the Emergency staff following service in New York City and Newport, R. I., and earlier volunteer work with the French Red Cross in the World War.

B. B. Sandidge, superintendent of Emergency, praised Miss Fish's record at the hospital and her devotion to nursing.

Miss Fish could have taken her place in any profession," he said. "She made nursing her life work and gave her heart to it."

F. A. Murray Heads Real Estate Board

Francis A. Murray was elected president of the Washington Real Estate Board at annual meeting last night at the Carlton Hotel.

Fred A. Smith was named first vice president to succeed Murray and Waverly Taylor was elected second vice president. Directors, chosen for two-year terms, were: Morton J. Luchs, Murray's predecessor as president; J. Lee Donnelly, R. A. Humphries, Charles C. Koones, Andrew Saul and S. S. Spruce.

Burnham Re-elected By Treasury Union

J. O. Burnham was elected to his ninth successive year as president of Treasury Department Local 282, National Federation of Federal Employes.

Other officers chosen were: W. E. Perry, first vice president; Mrs. Ola G. King, second vice president; I. A. Lehman, third vice president; E. C. Hooper, financial secretary; Mrs. Virginia Schaefer, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Retta Walsmith, trustee.

Teachers Are Worst Need Of D. C. Schools, Citizens Told

Buildings Next, Kalorama Group Hears Mrs. Doyle Deplores Limited Funds Board Head Boosted for Commissioner

Washington schools' prime need is teachers. Then comes school buildings, Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, president of the school board, declared last night before a meeting of the Kalorama Citizens Association at the John Quincy Adams School.

Mrs. Doyle said that although the school board attempted to plan for the future, it was limited by Congressional appropriations. She commended The Post for initiating the campaign to obtain bus transportation for crippled children now unable to get schooling.

Mrs. Edna L. Johnston, president of the Kalorama unit, introduced Mrs. Doyle as "one whose name has been put forward for the post of commissioner and as one whom many consider best qualified for the position because of her experience in District civic life."

Later the citizens, in a formal resolution, urged appointment of a citizen who has lived in the District not less than 10 years for the vacant commissionership.

The group unanimously reindorsed its demand for national representation for the District, and a majority vote reapproved a request for local suffrage. The body urged appointment of a representative of organized citizens to the commission selecting the District flag.

Mrs. Edwin Pilson was named chairman of the nominating committee. Elections will be held at the next meeting in November.

West End Citizens

Reports that a Communist-backed organization might attempt to gain admission to the Federation of Citizens Associations last night were laid before the West End Citizens Association by Grover Ayers, delegate from that group to the central body.

A resolution was adopted urging exclusion from the federation of "any organization opposed to the Constitution of the United States, or believing in its overthrow, or (people) who have communistic viewpoints."

Ayers had warned that any Communist move to win a foothold in the federation "would be done in a round-about way, so a very searching investigation would be necessary."

The association demanded that the Public Utilities Commission compel the Capital Transit Co. to route northbound street cars around the east side of Dupont Circle.

W. F. Wasson was elected president of the organization; Charles L. Norris, first vice president, and Paul Sweet, second vice president. Praised for his service as president of the association for the last five years, R. D. Lyons accepted the post as third vice president. W. R. Brown, treasurer of the group since 1916, was re-elected.

The association recommended that future District Commissioners be residents of Washington for at least ten years prior to appointment.

Hillcrest Plans Party

Hillcrest Citizens Association last night voted to sponsor an entertainment the evening of November 11, proceeds to be used for equipping Stanton school, Alabama avenue and Good Hope road southeast. The meeting was held in East Washington Baptist Church.

J. H. Reed, chairman of the public utilities committee, reported that the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co. had pledged to remove its poles from the streets in the section and place them in alleys, or to put wires underground.

The following nominations were made: President, J. W. Martin; first vice president, C. L. Scott; second vice president, Sampson Buss; secretary, H. W. Ricker; treasurer, J. J. MacGregor; delegate to the Federation, Bass MacGregor.

Stanton Park

Immediate publication of results of the District relief survey, under conduct by Burdette Lewis, was demanded in a resolution adopted last night by the Stanton Park Citizens Association, meeting at Peabody School.

Proposing the resolution, William J. Bartle, secretary of the association, attacked the advisory committee supervising the investigation for "concealing" Lewis' findings.

Officers elected at the meeting were Curtis E. Chadwick, president; Mrs. W. M. Bartle and William E. Monroe, vice presidents; A. M. Panzer, treasurer; William J. Bartle, secretary; Paul W. Moore, financial secretary, and Moore, A. H. Gregory and Harry N. Stull, delegates to the federation.

Southeast Businessmen

Installation of more traffic lights on Pennsylvania avenue southeast, described as having only one stop-and-go sign between the Capitol and Maryland, was requested last night by the Southeast Businessmen's Federation. More than 70 attended the meeting at 314 Pennsylvania avenue southeast.

The federation also urged investigation of juvenile crime and parole in Southeast Washington.

Piney Branch Citizens

Piney Branch Citizens Association, in session at Iowa Avenue M. E. Church, last night approved a District Health Department move to establish administrative headquarters in the old Tuberculosis Hospital Building until completion of the Municipal Center. Elections will be held at the November meeting.

Chinese Here Mark 'Fourth' As Foes Die

Joyful over reports that 20,000 Japanese troops had just been annihilated, leaders of Washington's Chinese colony smilingly drank tea yesterday with the new Ambassador, Dr. Hu Shih, in celebration of China's Fourth of July.

The tea party, held at the envoy's palatial residence, "Twin Oaks," marked the twenty-seventh anniversary of the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty. It was the first reception Dr. Hu Shih has given since his arrival here last week as the representative of the Chiang Kai-shek government.

Standing beneath a huge red, white and blue Chinese flag, the bespectacled Ambassador stated that "my people would be the first to accept peace—if it's a just peace." He added that he didn't think a peace involving territorial loss would be approved by the Chinese people.

Almost as much at ease in English as in his native tongue, the Ambassador, who earned degrees at Cornell and Columbia, observed that "China is far more unified now than at any previous period."

How Women in Their 40's Can Attract Men

Here's good advice for a woman during her change (usually from 38 to 52), who fears she'll lose her appeal to men, who worries about hot flashes, loss of pep, dizzy spells, upset nerves and moody spells.

Just get more fresh air, 8 hrs. sleep and if you need a reliable "WOMAN'S" tonic take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made especially for women. It helps Nature build up physical resistance, thus helps give more vivacity to enjoy life and assist calming jittery nerves and those disturbing symptoms that often accompany change of life.

FCC Split On Merit Rating For Top Jobs

McNinch for Exemption Payne, Craven Against 60 Positions Affected

The Federal Communications Commission boiled over yesterday as Commissioners George Henry Payne and T. A. M. Craven sent a letter to the Civil Service Commission urging a course of action directly opposed to that advocated by FCC Chairman Frank McNinch.

Wrath of the two commissioners was aroused by the suggestion of McNinch that 60 top positions in the FCC be exempted from the merit system. Payne and Craven not only urged that these positions be retained under civil service but also insisted that McNinch had failed to consult them before proposing the exemptions.

"We have studied this matter very carefully and our deliberate opinion is that these positions should not be so exempted," wrote Payne and Craven to the Civil Service Commission. "We want to say further that the wholesale exemption of positions like these seems to be entirely contrary to the spirit of the Presidential order (extending the civil service) and not in keeping with the President's policies as to civil service matters."

It was learned last night that McNinch had proposed civil service exemption for the entire law department, the director of the information division, certain "confidential" clerks and secretaries and all examiners, the employes who study and recommend action on requests for additional radio broadcast facilities. Some officials maintained that McNinch's proposals would permit dismissal of persons now in civil service classifications.

Payne, who often has clashed with other members of the commission, wrote in the joint letter with Craven that the question of exemptions "has not been up for discussion before the Commission." The Commissioners added that they had not had an opportunity of examinging it" before McNinch had made his recommendations.

"We therefore strongly recommend," they said, "that no action whatever be taken in this matter before this Commission has had an opportunity to make a deliberate decision."

One Drowned, 2 Saved as Launch Burns, Sinks Here

One man was drowned and two others swam to safety early last night when fire broke out on their speedboat just below the Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge in the Anacostia River.

The dead man is Ed Philips, 28, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who has been living in the District for the past month. His companions, J. M. Zobay, of 335 Eighteenth place northeast, and John Ozwood, also of Cincinnati, swam 30 feet to the river wall when the boat sank.

After completing their day's work yesterday, the three started to repair a 16-foot speedboat brought here two days ago by Zobay.

Merit System Extension To All U. S. Lawyers Urged

Report to Federal Counsel Covers 1,500 Suggests Special Civil Service Section Favors Barristers to Select Personnel

Extension of the merit system to all lawyers employed in the Government was asked last night in a report submitted to the executive counsel of the Federal Bar Association, meeting in the Apex Building.

The report, submitted by Thomas H. Ross of the Interstate Commerce Commission, chairman of a special committee, outlined results of a two-year investigation into selection, classification, organization and direction of Government lawyers.

Ross said about 1,500 lawyers, employed in five Government departments and 15 independent agencies, a cross section of 25,000 Federal lawyers, were covered in the report. Its recommendations, he said, represented the opinions of leading legal officials in these groups.

Selection of lawyers, the report showed, should be turned over to the Civil Service Commission, with the understanding that agencies be allowed to specify their particular legal needs, and that these specifications be filled through a new legal section within the Commission.

Ross said his committee found general feeling that the only men who could pass on qualifications of lawyers, and make a "merit system" work were lawyers of wide experience in Government service.

The report urged that the same legal section of the Civil Service Commission which would be entrusted with selection also be in charge of classification. About 100 of the 1,500 lawyers studied were under civil service, while a majority were classified.

In setting up standards of selection, the committee suggested that membership in the bar was essential, and urged that two years of training in a college approved by the American Bar Association be required.

Organization and direction of Government legal staffs, the report urged, should follow the "unitary" system, whereby all legal work for a department would be grouped into one division. Ross pointed out nearly all the divisions studied had adopted this practice. In departments where it had not been adopted, he said, conflicting legal decisions and opinions based on wishes of higher officials were found.

The executive counsel planned to print the report in its October issue, and delay action until they obtained the opinion of their membership.

Dr. H. Milton Colvin, legal counsel for the WPA, will discuss legal and other aspects of recent colonization in Alaska at 12:30 p. m. today at the association luncheon at the National Press Club.

M.E. Conference Puts Boundary Dispute to Meeting on Union

By the Associated Press.

Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 10.—The Baltimore conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, today adopted a report of the boundaries commission recommending that the entire question of alignment under unification of the church be referred to delegates to the uniting conference.

In accepting the commission's recommendation, Bishop W. W. Peele requested the bishops of West Virginia, Virginia and Maryland conferences of the three branches of the church affected in this area call a meeting of all delegations as soon as elected.

Dr. Nolan B. Harmon, Roanoke, secretary of the commission, said an effort would be made to hold the Baltimore "mother" conference together, but he expressed doubt that it could be accomplished because of the complicated overlapping of State and conference lines involved.

D. C. Adopts Zoning Law Appeal Rules

Fees Are Not Set Will Delay Board Ready in 3 Weeks Time Limit Studied

The zoning commission yesterday adopted—with few changes—a set of proposed regulations governing the newly created board of zoning adjustment and promised the new body would function in three weeks.

The delay arose because the commission had not set fees to be charged on appeals to the board, it was explained. The District has not decided what to do with the money once the fee is settled. The District will collect the money, but to which fund it will be credited is the question.

May Extend Time Limit

Following an all-day session yesterday the zoning advisory counsel and the commission approved the regulations and promised to give further study to a suggestion to limit the time of rehearings or reappeal, once these have been denied a petitioner, to five years. The present limit is one year.

L. A. Carruthers, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, had suggested the regulations be changed to prohibit an appeal to the board within five years after a denial. It was explained in order to do this, it would be necessary to change the regulations governing the zoning commission itself.

Permission to use vacant lots in residential sections for temporary parking was stricken out of the proposed regulations by the commission. The board will permit temporary use of vacant land for sand, gravel and clay pits, in residential sections provided the use of such land is not impaired.

Majority Decisions Approved

A suggestion to require all decisions by the board to be unanimous was not approved by the commission. Decisions may be by majority under the regulations.

Capt. Hugh P. Oram, executive officer of the zoning commission and member of the adjustment board, said yesterday he had more than 20 appeals ready to be heard by the body.

Redskins Claim 'Tillie' Manton, Buy Filchok

The Washington Post Sports

18 WASHINGTON: TUESDAY, OCTOBER 11, 1938 X*

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

It seems we can't turn our back on these Redskins for a minute. We spend the afternoon at Yankee Stadium watching them make it three straight world championships and what happens meanwhile at Griffith Stadium? The Redskins get themselves slapped down, 10-7, by a team of Giants they licked by a 49-14 score only 11 months ago.

POVICH.

Naturally there were some questions to be asked after that surprising defeat of the Redskins and this department made it a point to seek out George Preston Marshall, who happens to own the club.

"Mr. Marshall," we inquired, "what, besides the Giants, happened to the Redskins?"

"I believe you have summed it up correctly," said Mr. Marshall. "The Giants happened to the Redskins. But I have less painful things to talk about and, to us, infinitely more interesting."

For example?

"Well, for example, there is the little matter of that crowd of 35,000 persons who saw us play last Sunday. That is something that I think it would be well to dwell upon. Do you realize what thatc rowd meant?"

No.

"Well, sir, I will tell you. To me it means that Washington is positively the finest football town in the United States. We were playing that ball game on a day when the World Series was being broadcast. And stay-at-homes could listen to our game over the radio, too. But we were forced to turn hundreds away at the gate."

What was the matter with Sammy Baugh?

"And another thing. Do you realize what is happening in this office at this very instant? Twelve hundred dollars worth of tickets are being sold here today for our game two weeks hence against the Philadelphia Eagles. To me that means that Washington fans still like the Redskins."

• • • •

Why was Bill Hartman taken out of the game?

"This advance sale for the Eagles' game is no less than remarkable. Do you understand that the Eagles are supposed to be the weakest drawing card in the East? And here, at this instant, we are sold out from goal post to goal post in the upper decks and sold out between the 20-yard lines in the lower seats."

As we understand it, Mr. Marshall, there was a football game at Griffith Stadium on Sunday in which your team, the Redskins, competed.

"As long as you insist on bringing that up, very well. There was a football game at Griffith Stadium on Sunday. And did you read the list of notables who were there. All the best people. Senator Carter Glass, Jesse Jones, Senator Pat Harrison, Amon Carter—people whose time is precious."

And now about Baugh. Against the Giants he——

"Baugh, oh, yes. Baugh is coming around very nicely. He will be physically fit for the game with the Lions next Sunday."

But about last Sunday's game?

"It was a great crowd, a beautiful football day."

A red-headed fellow by the name of Ray Flaherty, who happens to be head coach of the Redskins, walked into Mr. Marshall's sanctum and took the witness stand.

Mr. Flaherty, we understand your Redskins took a beating Sunday.

"You are telling me," said Mr. Flaherty emphatically.

• • • •

Now we are getting somewhere. Just exactly what do you have to say for your Redskins.

"Do you represent a family newspaper?" replied Flaherty.

Yes.

"Well, then, perhaps, I can put it another way. My Redskins last Sunday were a very bad football team. I was not fond of my Redskins last Sunday."

There is evidence that you took Bill Hartman out of the game at a time when he was passing very well and put in Sammy Baugh at a time when Baugh was not passing well.

"On the face of it, perhaps, yes. But I can defend that move by saying that Sammy Baugh at any given time is a better passer than Bill Hartman or any other player in our league. One never makes a mistake when one turns a passing job over to Sammy Baugh. Except for a bit of bad luck——"

For example?

"Well, there was that time we lost the ball near the end of the game when one of Sammy's passes was intercepted. That pass should not have been intercepted. The Redskins got a bad break there. When Burnett caught that pass, he caught it only because it tipped Don Irwin's fingers. Otherwise it would have been merely incomplete. We can't blame that on Sammy."

• • • •

How about that Giants' trick of going into the huddle on the defensive?

"That didn't confuse anybody. One of these days it might be costly to the Giants. I know of a case when a team went into a defensive huddle and the other club didn't wait for it to get back to the scrimmage line but ran a play around end for a touchdown."

Ed Danowski is quite a passer.

"That is correct, but we should be ashamed of ourselves. Our line didn't rush him until the second half. Turk Edwards looked like two different football players Sunday. In the first half he couldn't get out of his own tracks. In the second half he was continually in the Giants' backfield."

And that winning Giant touchdown. How about that?

"I am pained to report that there are some things Andy Farkas must learn about pass defense."

Gabby Plans Wholesale Shake-up

Only 4 Sure of Jobs Three Pitchers, Hack Pilot Disappointed Seeking 'Power Men'

By Ernest Barcella.

Copyright, 1938, by the United Press.

Chicago, Oct 10.—Charles Leo (Gabby) Hartnett, who drove the Chicago Cubs to the National League pennant and then saw them take four straight lickings in the World Series, revealed to the United Press tonight that only four members of the team are sure of their jobs next year.

Shortly after he brought the Cubs back home from New York, the big red-faced manager, bitterly disappointed by his team's showing, asserted:

"There's going to be a shakeup on this team. You can bet on that!"

Then he named names.

"There are only four guys on this club who are sure of their jobs in 1939—Dizzy Dean, Bill Lee, Clay Bryant and Stan Hack. As for the rest, I'll trade, sell or get rid of any or all of them. I want a ball club next year. That's as much as I'll tell you right now.'

Herman on Block

That means that only three pitchers and the third baseman, in addition to the manager-catcher himself, will be immune to the housecleaning Hartnett is planning before the 1939 season rolls around.

It also means that Capt. Billy Herman, veteran second sacker, is among those open to trade or sale. Herman had only a mediocre year during the pennant race and was one of the chief disappointments in the series against the New York Yankees. Herman has been mentioned frequently as possible 1939 manager of the St. Louis Cardinals or Brooklyn Dodgers.

Among the first who reportedly will be lopped off the Cubs' roster in the "top-to-bottom" shakeup are Pitchers Tex Carleton and Larry French and Outfielder Frank Demaree. Because of his dismal showing in the World Series, Outfielder Carl Reynolds also may be among those who will depart early.

Trading Material

It was believed that Shortstop Bill Jurges, First Baseman Rip Collins and Second-string Catcher Ken O'Dea probably would be used as trading material. What would be done with Outfielders Joe Marty and Phil Cavaretta, the two Cubs' standouts in the World Series; Pitcher Charlie Root, Third-string Catcher Bob Garbark and some of the others, including Tony Lazzeri, remains to be seen.

Rumors linking Demaree with a trade have been heard all summer. In fact, last winter the Pittsburgh Pirates offered Shortstop Arky Vaughan, Outfielder Woody Jensen and a pitcher for Demaree and Jurges, but the Cubs rejected the proposal, figuring that Demaree would have a good year. Instead, he had one of his worst, batting only .273. Jurges batted only .243.

Carleton Just Fair

Both Carleton and French had poor years. Carleton, who won 10 and lost 9 during the regular season, appeared as a relief hurler in the eighth inning of the last series game and tossed two wild pitches. French made a more creditable showing in his relief roles during the world series, but won only 10 and lost 19 games during the regular campaign.

Hartnett's objective for 1939 is more power. Only two members of the 1938 Cubs batted .300 or better. Hack topped them all with a .320 mark and Reynolds, by a late season spurt, just managed to make the charmed .300 circle.

Athletic Rift At W.-M. Denied By Coach Bocock

Richmond, Va., Oct. 10 (AP).—Judge Lester Hooker, chairman of the William and Mary General Athletic Committee, called a meeting for October 21 today to consider the college's athletic situation.

This action was taken after both Head Coach Branch Bocock and President John Stewart Bryan issued statements denying reports that Bocock had relinquished his post.

The W. and M. football squad, the published reports said, met and demanded Bocock's resignation because of steps he had taken to discipline Clarence (Gus) Twiddy, backfield star from Norfolk.

Red Raiders Play Today

Battle Anacostia Kick-Off at 3:30 At Eastern Stadium

Anacostia and Western, each with an Inter-High series game under its belt, open the second week of the annual schoolboy competition today with a game at Eastern Stadium. Starting time is 3:30.

From the standpoint of games won and lost, Anacostia holds a slight edge, having lost a match to Gonzaga but managed to hold Woodrow Wilson to a scoreless tie. Western dropped both of its games to date, one to St. John's and the other to Central. The Raiders, however, have the advantage in the matter of series experience and potential power.

Some of the latter's strength was displayed last week against Central as the team moved down the field in the first quarter. It was a drive the Mount Pleasanters were unable to slow down, and a touchdown was tacked on the end. The Raiders seemed to settle back satisfied after that, though, allowing Central to score twice in the second quarter.

Slated to be one of the most potent title bidders in the series, Western to date has plainly showed a lack of unity. George Barnes, a versatile quarterback, will be able to fake numerous large gains by land and air once the squad begins to click. He was smeared before he could move against Central.

Anacostia must depend almost entirely on a tight earial and line defense, limiting its bids for yardage to skirts around end. The team displays a strong competitive spirit, which will help where experience is lacking.

Robert ("Flash") Gordon, ace Anacostia halfback, will not see action in the game, having been removed from the Wilson filt with a leg injury. It was so bad he was taken to the hospital. The burden of the backfield duties, therefore, will fall on Fullback Faircloth, a dependable gorund gainer.

Navy and Princeton Tickets Go on Sale

Tickets for one of the most important and colorful football games to be played in this section—Navy vs. Princeton—have just been received by the Keystone Automobile Club and are available at club headquarters, 1643 Connecticut avenue northwest. This game will be played on Saturday, October 22, at the Baltimore Stadium. Since there already has been a heavy demand for tickets for this game, Keystone Club officials urge Washingtonians planning to attend to make reservations as soon as possible.

Indians and Browns Planning Player Deal

Cleveland, Oct. 10 (AP).—The Cleveland News said the Cleveland Indians and the St. Louis Browns are reported ready to make one of the biggest trades in recent baseball history. Cleveland officials refused comment.

The report was that the Tribe would give Pitchers Dennis Galehouse and Willis Hudlin, Outfielder Earl Averill, Second Baseman Sammy Hale and an unidentified infielder—plus $100,000—for Pitcher Buck Newsom, Infielders Harland Clift, Ralph Kress and Don Heffner and Outfielder Roy Bell.

Trimble Injured Coach Warns Boys Fears Overconfidence

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Annapolis, Oct. 10.—A warning against overconfidence in the Yale game at New Haven next Saturday, was the first move of Head Coach Hank Hardwick as his team prepared for the next battle.

Those who took a major part in the game against Virginia last Saturday stayed out of the hard practice this afternoon, while the rest of the squad scrimmaged most of the period. Also, a group of the squad was drilled in the Yale plays and will furnish the opposition in practice during the week.

The most serious injury of the season hit the Middie team Saturday, Bex Trimble, 200-pounder, and the most powerful of the scanty guard group, having sustained a fracture of the transverse process of a lumbar vertebrae in the Virginia game. He is unlikely to be on the field before the middle of November.

The injury to Trimble is not dangerous, but is necessary to keep him inactive, until the bone heals, and the medical officer stated that Trimble would hardly be available before the Columbia game, which is two weeks before the Army contest. Trimble, recently shifted from tackle, was proving a very valuable guard.

Dodgers Cut Grimes Off

Change Held Needed May Pick Durocher Frisch Has Chance

By the United Press.

New York, Oct. 10.—The Brooklyn Dodgers, problem children of the major leagues, made another reformation gesture today by firing Burleigh Grimes who managed the club the past two seasons. They indicated that a new pilot would be appointed later this week.

Metropolitan baseball writers believe "Lippy Leo" Durocher, shortstop and team captain, will succeed Grimes.

It was uncertain today what effect the new deal would have on the destinies of Babe Ruth, who returned to the game as a Dodger coach during the later half of the recent season. The Bambino received $15,000 for his efforts.

Larry MacPhail, executive vice president, said the retention of Ruth in '39 would be entirely up to the new manager. Meanwhile the other coach, Tom Sheehan, has been manager of the Minneapolis club.

Although MacPhail likes Grimes personally, he feels that a new face in the pilot house will accomplish more in the reformation campaign. Accordingly he has been considering Frankie Frisch, former Cardinals' pilot, Jimmy Wilson, former Phillies manager; Chuck Dressen, manager of the Nashville Southern Association club, and Durocher. In addition he talked today with Bill Killifer, former manager of the Browns and Cubs. Durocher is believed favored.

Grimes is the fifth major league manager to be fired in '38. The others are Frisch from the Cards, Charlie Grimm from the Cubs, Mickey Cochrane from the Tigers, and Gabby Street from the Browns.

Thebaud Seeks Second Victory

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 10 (U.P.).—A confident crew of Gloucester fishermen made last-minute changes in the jib and mainsail of the schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud tonight preparatory to seeking a second victory for the United States in the 1938 international fishermen's races.

Their Nova Scotian rivals appeared glum by contrast as they tightened the rigging of the battered Bluenose, the defending champion, for tomorrow's race off Cape Ann. Braces have been placed around a sprung bowsprit and foretopmast.

Capt. Angus Walters, verbose before Sunday's race, turned taciturn in defeat. He hesitated even to predict victory, but added, "we'll certainly try."

Dameron Davis Leads Southeastern Scoring

Atlanta, Oct. 10 (AP).—Dameron Davis, University of Kentucky halfback and brother of Bob Davis, one of last year's leading point-getters, took the lead today in the Southeastern Conference's individual scoring race with a total of 32 points.

Three players, Parker Hall, Mississippi halfback, Jack Nix, Mississippi State halfback, and Carl Combs, Kentucky halfback, were tied for second place with 24 points each.

New Cornell Coach

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 10 (AP).—Blair Gullion, basketball and track coach at the University of Tennessee for the past two years, was signed today as head coach of basketball at Cornell, succeeding John H. (Bo) Rowland.

Get Place Kicking Leader by Waiver

Locals Move to Bolster Their Offensive Ex-Pirate Great Touchdown Passer Both Join Washington Team at Once Club Leaves Today to Meet Detroit

Washington's Redskins, moving swiftly to bolster their offense following their first defeat of the season, yesterday acquired two highly-rated National League backfield men by claim and by purchase.

From the Pittsburgh Pirates, the Redskins purchased, for an unannounced sum, but reported from Pittsburgh to be $1,000, Halfback Frank Filchok, tosser of more touchdown passes than any back in the league this season.

From the New York Giants, the Redskins claimed at the waiver price Fullback Taldon "Tillie" Manton, professional football's champion place-kicker for the past two seasons.

Both Filchok and Manton will join the Redskins at once and entrain today for next Sunday's game against the Lions at Detroit. They will see action immediately, barring their failure to learn the Redskins' signals within the week.

The acquisition of the two backs increases to 31 the number of players on the Redskins' roster and necessitates the immediate release of one man to conform to the 30-player limit. It is believed that Head Coach Ray Flaherty is prepared to release one of his five ends.

Filchok Indiana Graduate

Filchok, of Czech parentage, graduated last June from the University of Indiana after winning All-Big Ten honors in 1937. He is an inch under 6 feet, weighs 198 pounds and is 22 years old.

Since joining the Pittsburgh club at the start of the season, Filchok has been an outstanding figure in the Pirates' offense, overshadowing Whizzer White in the early games. It was his passing which carried the Pirates to an upset victory over the Giants two weeks ago.

Filchok's release by the Pirates was occasioned, it was reported, by the Pittsburgh club's desire to cut expenses in a year when the Pirates, by reason of too many early-season defeats, find themselves out of the pennant race. Whizzer White's $15,000 salary has been a burden to the club, financially.

Manton's release by the Giants was precipitated by the increasing efficiency of Ward Cuff as a placement kicker. Cuff, a superior running back, has been a potent factor in the Giants' attack with his field goals and points after touchdown.

Will Be Valuable Asset.

That Manton will win a regular post in the Redskins' backfield is hardly deemed likely, but his skill as a place kicker stamps him as a valuable asset. With Riley Smith still incapacitated by an injured leg, the Redskins do not boast a consistent kicker from the field or for points after touchdowns.

Smith last season was runner-up to Manton for place-kicking honors. Manton for two years has been recognized as the professional champion of the art. He did not miss a single attempt for points after touchdowns in 1936, kicking 15 in succession, and in 1937 he added 12 more consecutive points for a record of 27 successful attempts in a row.

A former teammate of Sammy Baugh at Texas Christian University, Manton beat Baugh into the big leagues by one year, joining the Giants at the start of the 1936 season.

He is 26 years old and stands only 5 feet 10 inches. With the Giants he was the smallest fullback in the league.

Before joining the Giants in 1936, Manton led the Texas All-Stars to a 7-6 victory over the Champion Chicago Bears by kicking the point after touchdown.

Head Coach Ray Flaherty tomorrow will take his Redskins to Detroit for a siege of practice before Sunday's game with the Detroit Lions, who loom as Western division champions following their victory over the Green Bay Packers two days ago.

All of the Redskins emerged from the battle with the Giants without serious injury. Sammy Baugh, with another week of rest, is expected to be in peak physical form for the Lions game. Flaherty yesterday indicated that Ernie Pinckert, whose injured leg kept him out of the Giants' contest, will be available for the Detroit battle.

There was also a hint by Flaherty that Riley Smith may make his first appearance of the season at Detroit. Smith was in uniform against the Giants, but was withheld from the game.

Redskins May Set New League Records

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—The Washington Redskins, champions of the National Football League, appear headed for new circuit records in forward passing, scoring and ground gaining.

The champions have completed 42 of 78 passes for 53 per cent, gained an average of 304 yards per game in four contests and tallied 86 points, according to team statistics announced today. With the New York Giants having completed 50 per cent of their aerials and the Chicago Cardinals and Green Bay Packers close behind with 48 and 47 per cent, respectively, the entire league average is 42 per cent, or 4 points better than in 1937 when a new record was established.

The figures this week also revealed that the league scoring is 3 points a game better than last year's high mark. Green Bay has scored 85 points, while Cleveland has 71 and Philadelphia 70.

The Giants are second in ground gaining with a 241-yard average. The Chicago Bears lead on defense, having held their opponents to 114 yards and 6.6 points per game.

Yanks' Reign Due to Last For Years

By the Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 10.—Joe McCarthy's all-victorious New York Yankees broke up for the year today as the baseball world wondered when and where they will stop in the mad rush that has swept everything before it.

The first club in history to win three world titles in succession and the parent organization of two clubs which met in the "little world series," the Yankees apparently have all it takes to make a one-club show out of big league baseball for years to come. Any talk of breaking up the team is hot air. Owner Jacob Ruppert is now out to strengthen, not weaken, the team that already has written baseball records.

Reports from the vast club farm chain indicate the champions should be 25 per cent stronger next year. The farms are growing stars like weeds and several are expected to step into the club roster next year. One, Charlie Keller, of Newark, is almost sure of a regular outfield berth, giving McCarthy a dream outfield. Though rival clubs have offered as high as $125,000 for Keller, the Yankees have rejected all bids.

"The National League," consoled Bucky Harris, manager of the Washington Senators, "should feel very happy. All its pennant winner has to do is to face those Yanks in one series a year. How about us? In the American League we have to see 'em around all year."

Strangely enough, the Chicago Cubs didn't see the champions at their best during the four-game series sweep. The pitching and fielding was normal but the hitting was far below Yankee par with a team average of only .274. Joe DiMaggio hit but .267, Lou Gehrig, .268, and Tommy Henrich a mere .250. Had the Yanks broken loose as they did in that critical series last summer against Cleveland, the series would have been funnier than it was. Cub pitching must be given credit but the Yanks have faced better hurling and made it look like sandlot stuff.

Rip Collins, first baseman and philosopher of the Cubs, summed up the whole 1938 series with:

"Thank God none of us was hurt."

Wiffy Cox, Two Partners Tie Ed Oliver, Douglas in Pro-Am

Wiffy Cox and two partners, Earl McAleer and Claude Rippy, tied Wilmington's pro-amateur world-beaters, Eddie Oliver and Dave Douglas, with best ball 68s yesterday in the first pro-amateur under the District professional golfer's committee.

The tournament was a no handicap affair, with $10 per team entrance fee, and the 68s divided the prize money.

Cox and McAleer had 37, 31-68 and the host pro and Rippy scored 36, 32—68. Cox had an individual 72 after a bad start, 5-6-3-5. Rippy aided by two strokes on the front nine and as many on the back, while McAleer, after helping only a shot going out, had two birdies and a par on 17 on the return trip to pair a 31 and the 68.

Oliver was two under par with a 70 and Douglas helped a stroke on each nine. They still have a perfect record in local competition, as against a heavy Washington field in the annual Lancaster tourney that won two consecutive years, and last week they easily captured the East Potomac tourney.

Cox and Tom Belshe, Indian Spring, had 36, 34—70, a score matched by Al Jamison and Jerry Hart, Indian Spring. Robert Barnett, Chevy Chase and Volney Burnett, Kenwood, had 37, 34—71, George Diffenbaugh and Maury Fitzgerald, Kenwood, 37, 35—72. Leo Walper, and Roger Peacock, Indian Spring 38, 34—72, Gene Larkin and Milton Harris, Woodmont, 38, 35—73, Virgil Worsham, Chevy Chase, and Charles Malone, Indian Spring, 39, 38—77, and Ed Koehler, Quantico and Dave Morris, Congressional, no card.

The next tournament is a pro-lady at Beaver Dam on Friday. The event will be selective drives, alternate shots, with one partner.

St. Louis Gunners Beat Dayton Rosies

St. Louis, Oct. 9 (AP).—A long pass, Mike Sebastian to Vern East, a sub half back, gave the St. Louis Gunners a 6-to-0 victory over the Dayton Rosies in the final quarter of an American League professional football game tonight.

The Gunners marched all over the field to gain 26 first downs to the Rosies' four, but lost their punch at critical moments.

College Net Stars Win

Middle Atlantic Play At White Sulphur Richmonders Win

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Oct. 10 (AP).—Teams from 11 colleges in West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina and Pennsylvania started play today in singles and doubles of the annual Middle Atlantic intercollegiate tennis tournament.

Results in the Singles

First round—Paul Rice, Roanoke College, defeated William Armstrong, Morris Harvey, 6—0, 6—1; Frank Farrell, North Carolina, defeated Emmert Steele, 6—2, 6—1; Jack Mahoney, Virginia, won by default over William Darden, St. John's; Dick Clements, Jr., Washington and Lee, downed Terrell Coffield, West Virginia, 6—2, 6—0.

Second Round Singles

Wilson Rood, North Carolina, defeated George Studebaker, Roanoke College, 6—2, 6—1; Corbin White, Richmond, downed William Mullins, Morris Harvey, 6—0, 6—2; George McCall, Bucknell, defeated Robert Leitch, Richmond, 7—5, 10—12, 6—4; Mahoney defeated Clements, 11—9, 6—1; Clinton Hendrickson, Gettysburg, defeated Austin Dudderar, West Virginia, 6—1, 6—3; William Washburn, W. and L., defeated Edmund Volkart, St. John's, default; Frank Thompson, Virginia, downed Rodney Smith, Gettysburg, 6—2, 6—2.

In doubles matches played before darkness halted competition, Washington and Lee downed Bucknell, 6—4, 6—4, with Clements starring, then advanced by default over St. John's to the third round.

North Carolina defeated Gettysburg, 7—5, 6—1; Richmond downed Morris Harvey, 6—2, 6—3, and the University of Virginia's team of Frank Thompson and Jack Mahoney established itself as one of the favorites by trouncing Roanoke College, 6—4, 6—2.

Fans Still Loyal to Their Cubs

Rogers Hornsby Is Signed As Manager of Orioles

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, Oct. 10.—Rogers Hornsby, the man who held almost every "most" or "highest" title in major league baseball, signed on as manager of the Baltimore Orioles of the International League tonight.

John Ogden, general manager, in announcing the deal said there had been several weeks of dickering. Ogden declined to reveal the terms but it was reported Hornsby, at one time one of the highest-paid players, will receive $10,000.

But even $10,000 is a "most" for Hornsby in the minor league. Travis Jackson, of Jersey City, has hitherto been considered top-money man with a reported $9,000.

The Rajah served for a time last season as coach and pinch swatter for the Orioles but talk of dissension spread like a tip on the fifth at Pimlico and he announced he was going home.

HORNSBY

Down In Front

By Richards Vidmer

Celebration

New York, October 10. — Downstairs a laughing, singing shouting throng of hysterically enthusiastic celebrants gathered. Tables were jammed together so that it was almost impossible to reach one end of the room from the other. Men and women were in a merry mood as the Yankees and their families and their friends brought the World's Series to a close with a burst of glee.

VIDMER.

It was Col. Ruppert's victory celebration and the one unhappy note was the absence of the host, lying ill in his home on the Hudson. But his health was toasted again and again, and the colonel must have smiled as he pictured the party in honor of his champions. It wouldn't be difficult for the colonel to visualize all that was going on, for the colonel has sat in on many such celebrations in the past.

There would be big Lou Gehrig with his broad grin and his charming wife beside him; Lefty Gomez mingling among the throng, flitting from table to table and leaving laughter wherever he lit for a moment; gray-haired Earle Combs, his face glowing with excitement, reversing the usual process by gathering autographs instead of giving them; Ed Barrow leaning back, surveying the scene before him with unmasked satisfaction; Bill Dickey taking bows; Joe McCarthy modestly accepting the congratulations of everyone who could reach him, and everyone talking, shouting, laughing at the same time.

It would have been a familiar scene to the colonel if he could have been present, but this time there was a new note to the cheers, for everyone was hailing the Yankees of 1938 not merely as world's champions, but as the greatest team ever assembled. There was superlative praise for the men who filled each position and a challenge to the world to name a weak link in the championship chain.

Two Negative Votes

The greatest team ever assembled, they said downstairs where the celebration was at its height. But upstairs two men shook their heads negatively.

"We'd wear 'em down," said Joe Dugan with a nod of conviction, and the third baseman of another great Yankee team looked for support from his one-time roommate across the table.

"Right," said Waite Hoyt in complete agreement. "That '27 team was a much better outfit than this one. Why, how could anyone compare the two. We had the Babe, didn't we? And there'll never be another. Pennock could outpitch Gomez the best day he ever had, and I'd take on that Ruffing myself."

"And beat him," nodded Dugan. "They talk about DiMaggio's arm. Huh! I suppose that Meusel couldn't throw!"

"The real test of that team's greatness came the next year," Hoyt pointed out. "Look, when a fighter starts winning a lot of bouts you sort of sit back and reserve judgment. You want to see him knocked down and find out how he will react. You want to see if he can come up off the floor before you call him really great. Well, if you remember, we had about a ten-game lead in '28 and the Athletics overtook us two weeks before the season ended. They were in front when we started our last road trip."

March of the Invalids

"That's right and the whole club was crippled. Gehrig had been hit between the eyes with a ball that took a bad hop. Lazzeri had a sore arm. Koenig was walking on one toe, he had such a bad stone bruise. And the pitching staff was shot to pieces. Pennock had developed neuritis and Cy Moore had fallen off a barn or something painting the roof."

"That's right," Hoyt echoed. "Tom Zachary, George Pipgras and I did all the pitching on that trip. I think I was in 11 out of 14 games. But we came up off the floor and beat the Athletics on the road. That's the kind of a team that '27-'28 club was. We had everything."

"Including more fun than this club," Dugan grinned. "They can't take that away from us, anyway. We had a lot of laughs."

And then the heroes of another era began reminiscing. Dugan recalled the season that he got off to a great start at the plate and for a few weeks had an average around .410.

"Then the pitchers began to fear me," he chuckled. "We were playing down in Washington and that big Marberry threw two

McCarthy Leads Two Medalists Tie Burrows Advances Loving Is Winner

By Merrell W. Whittlesey.

A Staff Correspondent.

Townson, Md., Oct. 10.—Helen Dettweiler made her second visit of the season to this section today and came off with her second course record and tournament medal. This time it was a 79 at Rodgers Forge to pace a small but select field of 24 in the qualifying round of the Middle Atlantic championship.

In May the Congressional star won the medal in the Maryland State championship at the neighboring Elkridge course with a 77 that snapped all competitive records for women's tournament play in Baltimore and vicinity. Today's round broke the Rodgers Forge record of 80 by a single stroke.

The Maryland champion was out in 37, after playing the first seven holes in perfect par figures, and required 42 on the return trip with a pair of three putt greens and a tee shot that hit a tree costing a lower score.

In second place was Miss Dettweiler's much improved clubmate, Mrs. Myron Davy, who played consistent nines of 42, 44 for an 86. Mrs. Davy paced the former champion from Elkridge, Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, and Mrs. Walter Stokes, Indian Spring, by a single stroke. Mrs. Stokes played the harder back nine in 41, lowest of the day, in compiling her score.

With only 24 starters all the favored players easily made the championship flight as scores of 103 and under were successful. Defending Champion Mrs. Betty Meckley required 50 strokes on the back nine for the first time in many years and finished with a 93.

Marion Brown, District titleholder, had putter trouble and posted a 92, with the Manor star's score matched by Mrs. Charlotte Stern, Indian Spring. Mrs. L. G. Pray, Manor, with a 47, 51—98, and Mrs. K. S. Giles, Indian Spring, with 49, 48—97, were safely in the match play rounds. In all Washington qualified eight of the 16 first flight players.

Mrs. Morrow's 87 paced the Baltimore players, while Mrs. Jerome Sloman, Maryland State finalist, had 89 and Evelyn Marvin, suburban, semifinalist in the Mason and Dixon tournament, disappointed with a 97.

After matching men's par for seven holes, Miss Dettweiler was over the short eight with her tee shot and took a four, and then was short of the ninth green in two to finish with a 37.

Three putts on 11 and 14 cost two strokes to par on the back nine, while the medalist hit a tree on the thirteenth and finished with a five on the 176-yard hole over a miniature cliff. She scored 5-3-5 for 42 and 79.

The luck of the draw paired players from the same city in a majority of the matches, Mrs. Meckley meeting Mrs. Stern and Mrs. Walter Stokes playing Mrs. K. S. Giles, all from the same club. Miss Dettweiler plays Mrs. H. C. Trace of the host club, Mrs. Brown plays her host, Mrs. T. E. Schluderberg, while Mrs. Davy and Mrs. Pray battle over a quarter-final berth.

HERE'S THE $1.00 ANTI-FREEZE

Fifty cents' worth now keeps most cars safe down to 10° above zero
MAYBE this is an "Indian Summer" day, when you're not even thinking of anti-freeze. But you know a cold snap will come. Set your mind at ease now. Have your dealer or service station man put a couple of quarts of Du Pont "Zerone" Anti-Freeze in your car today.
Check the radiator solution from time to time. When winter gets down to real business, add enough "Zerone" for lower temperatures. Scientific tests prove that radiator losses are chiefly mechanical, and even then you lose a solution of "Zerone" and water—not one or the other alone. With "Zerone" you get improved engine performance, due to better heat dissipation, and more pep and efficiency, through prevention of rust and corrosion in a clean cooling system. A Left Finds Its Mark in Feature Bout at Arena

Quarles Gets Verdict Over Lew Feldman

Lembo Beats Ricco in Semifinal El Brookman Rallies for Victory Pancho Huerta Wins Over Calvin Calp

By Lewis F. Atchison.

Norment Quarles, a lightly regarded 8-5 underdog in pre-fight wagering, staggered Lew Feldman and stunned his critics last night at the Arena where he scored a clean-cut victory over the cagey veteran in a 10-round bout. The verdict was unanimous.

The green, inexperienced kid fresh from collegiate ranks who bowed to Feldman in their first meeting two years ago, was complete master of the situation last night. He met and beat Feldman at has own game of jabbing and ducking, and had a punishing double-barreled body attack to support his bid for the laurels, and it was more than Feldman bargained for.

Twice Quarles' whistling hooks to the body and head shook Feldman. Twice Lew's knees buckled and a surprised, anxious gleam shone in his eyes. Twice he needed all of the vast ring lore at his command to escape a knockdown, and possibly a knockout. And Quarles might have finished him had he not been over-anxious to get the decision. He wanted to win badly and he was overly cautious in guarding the precious lead he accumulated in the early rounds.

The claret streamed from Feldman's gashed left eye in the closing rounds of the well fought battle as Quarles' southpaw salutes exploded on the damaged optic. Perspiration streaked down Lew's greased jowls, and the weary expression on his face betold the gruelling punishment he was subjected to.

As early as the first round it was evident that Quarles would be a tough hombre for Feldman to han-

Foreigners Dominate A. A. U. Lists

11 Hold Top Places 1938 Performances Wooderson Leads Americans Are Off

By the Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 10.—For the first time in recent years American athletes, despite the general excellence of their achievements, failed to dominate the list of the world's best track and field performers in 1938.

A compilation of the performances in October issue of The Amateur Athlete, official publication of the A. A. U. released today, shows foreigners hold the No. 1 position in 11 of the 20 events. Events that formerly were almost the exclusive property of the United States have passed across the seas—100, 800 and 1,500 meters and 2 miles in the track tests and shot put, hammer throw and discus in the field events.

Sydney Wooderson, Great Britain's mile record holder, is the only athlete to hold top ranking in two events. He hung up a new world mark of 1:48.4 for the 800 meters and ran 1,500 meters in 3:49 during the year.

100 yards—9.5 by Adrian Talley, Benny Reams, Marty Glickman and Fred Wolcott, United States, and Lee Orr, Canada.

100 meters—10.3, by Martin Osendarp, Netherlands.

200 meters—20.5, by Clyde Jeffrey, United States.

400 meters—46.6 by Ray Malcott, United States.

800 meters—1:48.4, Sydney Wooderson, Great Britain (world record.)

Mile—4:07.2, Glenn Cunningham, United States.

1,500 meters—3:49, Wooderson, Great Britain.

Two miles—9:01.8, K. Pekuri, Finland.

5,000 meters—14:26.8, T. Maki, Finland.

10,000 meters—30:10.4, Ilmari Salminen, Finland.

100-meter hurdles—13.9, Fred Wolcott, United States.

400-meter hurdles—52.8, Jack Patterson, United States.

Pole vault—14 feet 7 inches, Ted Day, United States.

High jump—6 feet 8¾ inches, Gilbert Cruter and Dave Albritton, United States.

Broad jump—25 feet 6¼ inches, Jack Robinson, United States.

Shot put—54 feet 2 1-3 inches, Hans Wooelike, Germany.

Hammer throw—193 feet 7¼ inches, Erwin Blask, Germany (world record.)

Javelin—255 feet 5¾ inches, Y. Nikkanen, Finland (world record.)

Discuss—169 feet 7 2-5 inches, Giorgio Oberwoger, Italy.

On Fishing

Early fall fishing along the North Carolina coast is just about tops this season, and right in line with the swell fishing we had off the Maryland coast this summer.

One party, last week, out of Morehead City and fishing near Cape Lookout whistling buoy caught 108 dolphin in a morning's run. Another party from Southport after the big barracuda that hang out around the lightship on Frying Pan Shoals landed ten big ones, but lost plenty of tackle doing it.

ACKERMAN.

Dodd Schuster, the angler who caught the first white marlin of the season at Ocean City is fishing the beaches from Oregon to Hatteras Inlets. He is traveling in a specially constructed beach car, and having just about all the fun he can handle with the big channel bass.

Many other big-game anglers are fishing the edge of the Gulf Stream out of Hatteras Inlet, in the hope of picking up the big blue marlin. So far we have no report of their doing it.

* * * *

Several days ago a large school of blues were off Ocean City, although we have no reports of exceptional catches, however, the channel bass on the beach is another story. Almost everyone fishing for the big spot-tails has been catching one or more.

In South Jersey the finest fishing of the season is under way. They are even taking large stripers trolling in inside waters—a phase of the sport anglers in this section haven't enjoyed for many years, and proof that the work of the sportsmen's clubs and the commission in replanting this fine sport fish, is bearing fruit.

Large hardheads are being caught just over the bar at Absecon Inlet (Atlantic City), trout up to 8 pounds in the bays, and plenty of 6 and 8 pound blues offshore, but due to the long spell of bad weather, only the largest of the boats have been getting off to them. They should be in much closer this week with the cooler weather, and, until the end of this month, is the time for the big 10 and 12 pounders for which this stretch of coast is noted.

Down the Virginia bay shore rockfish are running large, up to 15 pounds, and plentiful; along with the large trout.

For nearby bay waters our Friday prediction still seems to hold good—to take your best luck charm along if you want to get into the schools of trout, blues or rock, that are everywhere in the Chesapeake, for it looks as though it takes more than just a good angler to catch them.

* * * *

We know of one party out with Capt. Rody Langley at Solomons, close on the heels of another, that had just come in with a fine catch of rock—in which many of the fish weighed the limit, that had to show for their night's fishing—one lone toadfish.

At Herring Bay, more than a few catches of big trout have been made during the past week, trolling far out in the steamboat channel, yet boat after boat in the same area had naught but goose eggs for their score. On Saturday, one boat had a 6-pound blue, another, a smaller one, while a third totaled a round dozen.

The local lad, fishing from a rowboat under the bridge at Deale, had the real luck of the day. Ten nice yellow perch and two carp that almost pulled him out of the boat before he could land them. Whatever they were doing in the salt water is more than we can say.

* * * *

At Ocean City, the Game Fisherman's Association have elected for the coming year—Crawford Savage, president; Capt. Jim Whaley, vice president; Capt. James Lombard, secretary and treasurer, and on the board of governors are Captains Frank Parsons, William Bunting, Talbot Bunting, Josh Bunting and William Burbage.

Under this setup, there is little doubt but what the best interests of the off-shore white marlin fishing will be served. Trophies for the catches of the present season will be presented at a meeting of the Maryland Sportsmen's Luncheon Club some time late this month in Baltimore.

Meeting tomorrow evening of the Washington Chapter of Ike Waltons in the aquarium of the Department of Commerce. In addition to several items of real interest, there will also be the distribution of the tickets for the fishing and hunting movies to be shown next month in the Commerce Auditorium.

Shortly there will begin a series of broadcasts showing Marylanders why they should help with their votes to have the next Maryland Legislature pass the proposed model fish and game commission law.

If the writers of the many letters to this column asking that we help in getting better fishing and hunting in their sections will step out and do their part, now that they have something concrete to work for, the job will be accomplished in no time at all. It wouldn't be too much to hope, that if this proposed bill is passed, Maryland sportsmen will have sport comparable to that of the surrounding States.

Grid Practice

Georgetown 135-pound football team will practice tonight at 7 o'clock on the Georgetown Playground. All players are requested to report.

Overcomes Lead Held By Bar Fly

Winner Pays $9.30 Roseretter Is Third Dupps Rides Victor Wins Three Races

By Walter Haight.

A Staff Correspondent.

Laurel, Md., Oct. 10.— Apprentice Jockey Lucas Dupps, setting the pace for riders at this meeting, turned in another saddle masterpiece in the fifth race, the Easton Purse. He brought the Fairfield Stable's Lucky Omen from last position to win the first mile race of the season in this State.

The crowd of 7,000 preferred Roseretter to Lucky Omen in the wagering because the former had many lengths the best of the Gino colt in the Lawrence Realization. However, Lucky Omen reversed that decision and paid a healthy $9.30 mutuel.

Roseretter was a fast-closing third with E. R. Bradley's Bar Fly second. The winner turned in fair time of 1:39 over the fast track.

John One, from the Milky Way Farm string, set the early pace accompanied by Bar Fly. The former slowed entering the stretch and the Bradley colt got to the front. Lucky Omen had not been asked to run when the field reached the far turn. He was last. Dupps finally put him to a drive and guided him to the outside where he fairly ate up ground.

In midstretch he forged to the front and Dupps never stopped hustling him, winning by a length and a half. It was the fifth victory for Lucky Omen in 14 starts this year.

Dupps won two other races earlier on the card. After Chimney Top had taken the first event to start the daily double rolling, Dupps rode Burner home first in the third race to complete a $39.40 pay-off in the twin wager. He also won the second race with Melody Maid.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—CHIMNEY TOP, $12.60, $6.60, $5.20; SUBURBANITE, $10.00, $5.80; CRESTONIAN, $4.10.

CHIMNEY TOP, going in best form, was steadied along close to the pace of OWALLER, rallied when placed to a drive in midstretch and drew clear. SUBURBANITE, forced to race wide to the stretch, lacked racing room and came with a rush in the final eighth. CRESTONIAN closed with good energy from a slow beginning. OWALLER, first away, set a good pace to midstretch and weakened suddenly. BILL BLEIWISS raced forwardly on the outside and was tiring at the end. NANSEMOND was away poorly. WORRY could not keep up. GURKHA was not a factor.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 2:06½. Off at 2:08½. Winner, J. Bachrach's b. m. (5), by Caruso—Sweet Kiss II. Trained by E. Fred. Value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 1:47 1-5.

†Lucky Teter-Mrs. L. H. Silver entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MELODY MAID, $14.50, $8.70, $5.80; JOBAKHETA, $7.60, $4.90; IN MEMORY, $10.70.

MELODY MAID assumed command going to the first turn, disposed of CHANCING to draw out and won with speed in reserve. JOBAKHETA worked his way up on the outside and closed gamely, but was no match for the winner. IN MEMORY saved ground to reach contention, came through on the inside entering the stretch and closed strongly. JOLYON, unable to better his position in the early stages, came with a bold rush in the closing eighth. CHANCING was through after a half. FREDALVA stopped early. STALAGMITE moved up menacingly and tired suddenly. MISS PECAN was held safe. DIGNITARY had early speed.

THIRD RACE—Mile and 70 yards. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stall. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 2:41½. Off at 2:49½. Winner, W. M. Elder's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BURNER, $9.40, $5.00, $3.90; BARKER, $4.60, $3.40; REPELLER (field), $4.70.

BURNER, steadied along for the half, came to the outside for racing room while improving his position while approaching the stretch and closed full of run to dispose of REPELLER. BARKER, away slowly, gained steadily and closed with good courage under pressure. REPELLER was rushed to the front under hustling tactics and weakened from too much usage. TOMOCA had speed in spots and tired in the late stages. TOPEE made up some ground. MOLIDA moved up with a rush and weakened. ALICE DODGE and LA SORPRESA had early speed and quit.

Daily Double, Chimney Top and Burner, Paid $39.40.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:18. Off at 3:23. Winner, Mrs. M. N. Two-dollar mutuels paid—INACTIVE, $28.00, $9.70, $6.80; PATCHPOCKET, $6.10, $5.80; GREEN MELON, $4.50.

INACTIVE, lapped by PATCHPOCKET while setting the pace, dropped back slightly in midstretch and then responded to punishment to hold away in the final sixteenth. PATCHPOCKET was closest to the pace, took command when shaken up and fought it out stubbornly. GREEN MELON, off poorly, stopped best, but had too much taken out of him reaching contention and hung. DURWRACK came with good energy at the end. SYLVIA G. went well placed, but was weakening at the finish. FIRST PIGEON closed with a belated rush. SCREEN had speed in spots and raced in close quarters approaching the stretch. HARDWARE stopped as if short

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,100. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stall. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:54. Off at 3:55. Winner, Fairfields Stable's iron gr. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—LUCKY OMEN, $9.30, $4.80, $3.60; BAR FLY, $7.70, $4.50; ROOSERETTER, $4.30.

LUCKY OMEN, allowed to settle into stride, went to the outside to make a bold move turning for home, took command and ran away, kept to a drive to the end. BAR FLY raced JOHN ONE into defeat and continued gamely, but was no match for the winner. ROOSERETTER was away slowly and improved his position stoutly on the outside in the closing quarter. JOHN ONE set the pace to the stretch and weakened. BLIND EAGLE saved ground, moved up mefficingly and stopped. PRETTY PET could not keep up. BOLD STROKE was through early.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,100. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:05½. Off at 4:27. Winner, H. W. Jackson's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PROPH, $13.50, $7.20, $4.60; BEWITCHED, $8.80, $5.40; CHALPHONE, $5.10.

PROPH, closest to the pace of MAECLOUD to the stretch, took command when placed to a drive and held away to the end under strong handling. BEWITCHED was not hurried for half and closed with good energy. CHALPHONE was taken up when in close quarters going to the first turn and lugged in during the stretch run. ROOM SERVICE moved up menacingly on the outside and hung. MAECLOUD stopped after setting the pace.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:37. Off at once. Winner, T. Two-dollar mutuels paid—KINDACORN, $16.80, $8.20, $5.90; JAVAMOCHA, $6.00, $4.50; PALAN, $7.30.

KINDACORN, closer than usual during the early running, moved up gradually when placed to a drive and wore down JAVAMOCHA to win up in the concluding strides. JAVAMOCHA moved up boldly at the far turn to take command and fought it out willingly. PALAN was taken off the pace entering the backstretch, lacked racing room entering the stretch and came with a rush when clear. BALAPIN, under restraint for half, was blocked while attempting to go to the outside, swung into the rail and hung in the final strides. SHOT UP weakened after moving up leaving the backstretch. BRIGHT SPIRITS was through after a half. JINNEAL quit after three-quarters.

Rifted Clouds Is Winner At Jamaica

Sunsun Is Second In Catalon 'Cap Commentator Third 7-1 Ocean Roll Wins

By the Associated Press.

Jamaica Racetrack, N. Y., Oct. 10. Horses flying the Woolford Farm silks of Herbert M. Woolf accounted for first and third money in the Catalan (Class "D") Handicap, six furlong feature of the program that launched the last week of Long Island's racing season here today.

Rifted Clouds, showing more staying power than usual, stuck it out to win by a half length from Sunsun which represented Robert Klaburg's King Ranch. Commentator finished four lengths behind. The good sized crowd installed the Woolford entry favorite at even money. Rifted Clouds sped home in 1:12 2-5.

Rifted Clouds won her only other purse of the year two races back at Aqueduct. She recently faltered and bowed to Indomitable in a race at Belmont Park, but today the four-year-old daughter of Insco fought it out with rare courage. It was her eighth trip to the post this year.

The filly got a step at it when the break came. She rushed out from her inside post position and took a length lead. Sunsun, a 6 to 1 shot, refused to allow the ultimate winner to get far away, however, and the pair raced in close order after the first quarter mile. Backers of the favorite had some anxious moments until the finish line was reached. Commentator always held down third position in the running.

In a photo finish that took more than average time to decide, the 7 to 1 shot Ocean Roll barely beat out Wha Hae, 7 to 2 choice in the six furlongs of the sixth race. "Buddy" Haas put up a strong ride astride the victor to score his second victory of the day. Wha Hae beat Epical a length for the place.

It was a two horse battle all the way. Wha Hae's head showed in front until inside the stretch, when Ocean Roll, on the outside, poked his nose to the fore and gamely held on to his tiny advantage.

Our Guest Selector

Our Guest Selector for today is Aaron A. Horwitz, commissioner of Bowie, Md. A keen sportsman, he is a stable owner and knows whereof he speaks on turf subjects. Aaron received his racing education at his general store, headquarters for racings biggies while the bangtails are in action at Bowie. Many a horseman owes Aaron for being able to "move on to the next town," as the turf populace calls changing tracks. He is as important to the town of Bowie as Grover Whalen is to the New York World's Fair. He did not toy with the task of selecting the horses. No indeed, Aaron took a long gander at the past performances before passing these along:

Mamakos Splits With Manager

Fight With Furr Off Another Foe Sought Greek Stops Work Ahearn Downcast

A rift between Steve Mamakos, the boiler-plated Greek welterweight, and his agent was reported last night as Matchmaker Goldie Ahearn accused the fighter of running out on a 10-round bout with Phil Furr, scheduled next Monday night at the Arena.

Left holding the bag when Mamakos walked out on him, Ahearn immediately signed Vince Pimpanelli, of New York, as a substitute on paper this looks like a better fight than the original match.

Mincing no words, but mangling the native tongue horribly in his unfeigned excitement, Ahearn accused Mamakos of being an "ungrateful, no good palooka," and added that Furr would chase him out of the ring if they ever met. Mr. Ahearn's broad nostrils quivered, an angry light flamed in his eyes, and his bewhiskered jowls heaved and sank like a blacksmith's bellows. He had come, it seems, to bury Stephen—not to praise him.

But what on the surface appeared to be a well-thought-out publicity gag apparently was a fact, for Mamakos, inquiries brought out, has not been at his training chores these past five days. That is something of a record for the kid with a Spartan attitude toward physical culture. Around the gym the boys said he had complained of an injured right hand, but none was aware of an impending rift between the fighter and his manager.

It is no secret that Mamakos is thoroughly dissatisfied with his current manager and has attempted to put himself under another pilot's more capable wing. A report that Jack Dempsey wanted him was circulated, and other managers frankly said they would like to have his contract. None, however, would accept it until Steve made a clean break with his stable, pointing out that they would be accused of stealing the boy.

Ahearn waxed wrothy denouncing Mamakos last night. He tore his hair, beat his breast and vociferously roared out chapter after chapter of Stephen's ring saga, pointing out how he nursed the boy along, secured the "right" kind of opponents for him, paid him decent wages for his efforts, and made every fatherly effort to advance his interests.

right at my head. That cured me. I decided right there that I'd better go on back to hitting my regular .260. It was too dangerous with an average around .400."

"We had a lot of fun all right," said Hoyt. "Remember the World's Series in '23 when Jack Scott was pitching against us? It was a very tense moment and everybody was holding his breath when you went to bat, Joe. And you walked halfway out to the box and said something to Scott and everybody wondered if you were starting a fight."

"Yeah, I remember," laughed Dugan. "I asked him if he would mind pinning his ears back so I could see second base."

There was a moment or two of silence as the two veterans recalled the good old days. Downstairs the tumult and the shouting continued unabated, but Hoyt and Dugan took no part in it. Silently, they were cheering the heroes of the past—their teammates of another decade. Pennock, Pipgras, Moore, Lazzeri, Coombs, Koenig, Meusel, Ruth and the rest.

"And they call that gang down there the greatest team ever put together!" Hoyt muttered scornfully, "why they never would beat us a game."

"Well, I don't know about that," said Dugan with a sly smile. "They might take one on a Monday—after we'd had a tough week-end."

Thistles Victors

Cumberland, Md., Oct. 10.—The Thistles, captained by James Pitkethly, defeated Tim Dolan's Shamrocks, 13—11, in the second annual Kelly-Springfield intraoffice golf tournament at the Cumberland Country Club. Each team was represented by 16 golfers. There were seven foursomes, four being won by the Thistles and two twosomes, both going to the winners.

Local College Teams Seek Week-End Sweep

Catholic Entertains Bobcats Hoyas Host to Randolph Macon Maryland, Colonials Travel

By Jack Munhall.

The District's four major elevens, having gained only an even break against fairly strong opposition over the week-end which was marked by the fall of Catholic University from the ranks of the undefeated, view the coming week with a great deal of hope and confidence.

George Washington and Georgetown, the unbeaten local teams, are faced with perhaps their toughest games to date, but buoyed by their recent successes, both schools are looking to a third triumph. The Colonials leave tomorrow for Boulder, Colo., for Saturday's engagement with the University of Colorado, while Georgetown will remain at home to await invasion of Randolph-Macon.

Maryland at last is beginning to see a ray of sunshine after weeks of thick gloom attending injuries to first one and then another Terrapin star. Although the Terps have dropped three decisions in succession they are looking forward to Saturday's game with Western Maryland with new hopes. The expected return of Quarterback Charlie Weiding, Halfback Rip Hewitt, and End Francis Beamer more than compensate for the temporary loss of Ralph Brown, tackle, and Nick Budkoff, end, who were slightly hurt against Syracuse last week.

Catholic University, rankling over the 27-0 licking by Detroit, promises plenty of new faces in its starting line-up for the West Virginia Wesleyan contest Saturday, its opening home game. Coach "Dutch" Bergman is frankly disappointed with the showing of the Caadinals against the Titans and is contemplating the demotion of several veterans in favor of enthusiastic youngsters who are displaying far more fight and spirit.

Over at Georgetown, Coach Jack Hagerty also is registering dissatisfaction, though for a different reason. The lackadasical performance of his Hoyas against little Roanoke ired the mentor no little and he has begun to crack the whip in an effort to dispel the overconfidence and apathy so prevalent among his charges. Randolph-Macon, he has warned them, is no set-up and a duplicate of the spotty play against the Maroons may result in an upset.

This week Georgetown will concentrate on pass offense and several new plays built around Joe Mellendeck and Jules Koshlap, his forward passing twins.

Team Jump To Feature Horse Show

Inter-American Event Mexico Enters Eight Teams From Kansas Maj. Yanez Returns

Twenty-eight superb horses, the entries of the Chilean, Mexican and United States Army horse show teams, all trained athletes even as their riders, will compete in the three-day international team jumping event, the high spot of the International Horse Show scheduled for October 20 through 23 at the Meadowbrook Show Grounds.

Capt. Armando Villarreal, captain of the Mexican army team, has brought on eight horses, four of which were entered in the Chile-Mexico-United States show in 1936, Azteca, Donaji, Tolteca and Muchacho. All are great show horses, in the pink of condition after days of schooling out at Fort Myer. Azteca is the horse to watch, although of the younger horses entered this year for the first time in this country, Monterrey holds an enviable record of performance.

Maj. Eduardo Yanez, who thrilled the spectators with his swift riding at the 1936 competition, will show eight horses, among them the great Chilena, winner of countless jumping records, and Toqui.

On October 17, Maj. John T. Cole, captain of the United States Army Horse Show team, will arrive with his five brother officers from Fort Riley, Kans. They are bringing 12 horses, among them the winner of the Prix des Nations event at Aachen, Germany, in 1936—Dakota Others include Masquerader, Don, King Hi, Scamp's Boy, Podhorski, Fralax and Dinger, who were entered in the show last year in competition with the Belgian aggregation. Maj. Cole is showing three new horses developed by the advanced equitation class of the Cavalry School during the past year.

The international classes are to be judged by officers of foreign countries, yet to be announced by Thomas P. Morgan, jr., secretary-treasurer of the show.

The finest jumpers and hunters in the country will be shown in the civilian events, and the interstate team jumping exhibition, a three-day event, will bring picked teams from many States to compete for the Governors' Cup.

Club championship. A large field will play today in the second and last day's qualifying. Match play in the eight flights begins tomorrow.

Harvey Johnson, defending champion and 1936 titleholder, was 77, and E. E. Krewson the other 80-breaker with 79. E. A. Merkle and Dr. W. Bradshaw had 81, the latter holing a four iron shot on the tenth hole for an eagle two.

Tommy Webb had 81 and Luther Stewart 82, scores virtually assured of the championship fight, while Don Kneesi had 85 and Billy Shannon 86.

Today's qualifiers will be led by the seven-time champion and last year's finalist, Miller B. Stevinson.

Burrows Meets Loving; Seay Battles Smith

Subpar golf by Ted Burrows, public links ace, and Calvin Loving carried them into the semifinals of the Anacostia "open" tournament, where they will meet in an upper-bracket encounter. W. W. Seay and T. E. Smith were double victors and will meet for a final-round berth.

Burrows and Loving defeated each of their opponents by 3 and 2, and 2 and 1 margins in the morning and afternoon, and were under par in each match.

Play in the other seven flights will continue through the next two weeks.

Championship Flight

Calvin Loving defeated Earl Bean, 3 and 2; Chris Chrouaker defeated Bill Davis, 2 and 1; Ted Burrows defeated Al Schneider, 3 and 2; John Johns defeated Bill Bradshaw, default; T. E. Smith defeated C. Tyler, 1 up; E. J. Noble defeated Ray Ball, 1 up; W. W. Seay defeated Joe Micker, 2 up; E. Riley defeated Jim Sweattie, 2 up.

Quarterfinals

Loving defeated Chrouaker, 2 and 1; Burrows defeated Johns, 2 and 1; Smith defeated Noble, 2 and 1; Seay defeated Riley, 4 and 3.

Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Roney Tie for Medal Honors

Mrs. Wilda Martin and Mrs. G. C. Roney tied for the medal in the Washington Golf and Country Club women's club championship yesterday with 96s. Play begins today for the title vacated by Mrs. DuBois. The comedalists and last year's finalist, Mrs. William Masten, are favorites.

Pairings and starting times for the five flights, one of the biggest tourneys in the city:

W.-M.-Guilford Game Changed to Friday

Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 10 (AP).—The William and Mary-Guilford football game, originally scheduled for Saturday, will be played here Friday afternoon instead.

The contest was moved up a day in order not to conflict with the Richmond-V. M. I. battle at Richmond on Saturday.

Skeet Mark To D. C. Ace

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Alexandria, Va., Oct. 10.—A new world record for three-event tournament shooting was established by George Deyoe, ace of the National Capital Skeet Club, during the two-day Old Dominion open shoot, which closed here yesterday, a check on the National Skeet Shooting Association records disclosed today. Deyoe's total score of 293 out of 300 was forwarded to the national association yesterday, and officials of the local club were informed today he had chalked up a new mark for registered marksmen.

The D. C. ace took first place in the .410 gauge shoot with a score of 97x100; finished second in the 20-gauge event with 98, and won the all-bore title with 98.

The National Capital Club ace shared honors for the two-day shoot with Dick Stuart, of the Alexandria Club, who took first place in the 20-gauge event with 99 out of 100 birds, and finished second to Deyoe in the .410 event with 89.

Quarles

dle. He jabbed expertly, wasting no punches or motions. He boxed like a Loughran, actually making Feldman, rated one of the cleverest ringmen of all times, resemble a second-rater. And he went on to amass a commanding lead in the first three rounds without taking a single damaging punch in return. He won the first three rounds on the official score-sheet. The next two went to Feldman as he rallied and outsmarted the Southern boy. Quarles won the sixth, eighth, ninth and tenth, and the seventh was even.

Quarles started winging his punishing left as early as the first round, pounding Feldman around the body with hooks, then driving three jabs to the head without a return. Feldman's right eye was red and slightly puffed when he came back to his corner.

Feldman reached his opponent with a roundhouse right to the side of the head in the fourth, and had Quarles blinking with his jack-in-the-box jabbing. Quarles had the best of what little in-fighting there was, but Feldman carried the round. This same modus operandi gained the fifth round for Feldman, whose face plainly showed the anxiety secreted in his heart. Quarles, he discovered, was not the green, collegiate youngster he whipped the first time out.

Quarles staggered Lew in the sixth with a pulverizing left hook follow up with the finishing right. Feldman boxed his way out of trouble that time, and again in the eighth when Quarles ripped both hands to the body, driving the veteran into the ropes and forcing him to clinch.

The ninth and tenth rounds were all Quarles as he stabbed Feldman with jabs to the bad right eye, bleeding profusely by now, and pumped his right hand to the body. He scored with both hands to the head, then buckled Feldman's knees with another rib-bending left hook to the body. Feldman called on his vast store of ring lore to save him from going down in the ninth, and again in the tenth when Norment chased him trying to land a finishing punch.

The Preliminaries

El Brookman (148), rallied in the closing rounds of his six-rounds debate with LeRoy Zinkham (143), to win a unanimous decision. Zinkham piled up an early lead with a series of crushing rights under the heart, and had Brookman in distress in the third round, but El shook off the effects and came on to win with a stiff brand of left-hooking to the head.

The six-rounder involving Pancho Huerta (132) and the aged and legweary Calvin Calp (130) also was a rousing struggle, with the armweary Mexican coming fast in the last round to sway the judges.

Hard-working and sharp-shooting Frankie Lembo (131¾) took the six-round semifinal from Tommy Ricco (131), of Camden. Ricco, whose bulldogish tactics are similar to those employed by Ciaccio, now the Cisco Kid, kept boring into Lembo, and succeeded in opening up the old wounds over his left eye and under his right ear, but Lembo's cleaner punching decided the issue.

Lembo consistently outboxed and outfoxed the dogged and rugged Ricco, and stung him in the fourth with a sharp right to the chin. Ricco's left eye also was slit open during the melee.

U. S. May Be Too Thrifty, Coyle Hints

Savings Retire Funds
Federal Outlay Forced Proper Balance Needed

By Thomas M. Cahill.

That chaotic conditions in our economic system may have resulted from Americans being too saving was an interesting opinion voiced last night, by David Cushman Coyle, engineer and author of books on economics, addressing District of Columbia Chapter of Chartered Life Underwriters at the Cosmos Club.

Talking on "Investment and Government Spending," he declared that "savings in general withdrew money from circulation and these savings are restored to circulation chiefly by investing them in capital goods." Discussing the engineering and economic factors that strictly limit the amount of funds that may be profitably placed in capital investment, Mr. Coyle concluded that "in the business world there appears to be no possibility of an automatic balance between spending and saving."

Since without such balance business becomes paralyzed, the help of Government spending becomes unavoidable. Public opinion, the speaker argued, forces this Government spending to take the form of work relief of an unbusinesslike kind or worse still, to drift toward "excessive military expenditures"—"the only form of spending the conservatives will approve."

Government Spending

The speaker pleaded for a better understanding of the principles involved in Government spending as an agent for balancing the flow of money and expanding markets. When such Government spending takes the form of human conservation and the maintaining of our natural resources and is balanced by strong income taxation, it "appears to be the most feasible method to assure a smooth-working, high-technology capitalism." Under such conditions the confidence of investors will return for a larger percentage of invested funds will represent actual net gain in capital instead of having to be soon charged off as capital loss.

Designation of "Chartered Life Underwriter" was given Robert C. Gilmore, of the Bankers Life Insurance Co., and Samuel J. Sugar, Penn Mutual Life Insurance Co., who completed the required examinations this year. H. Lawrence Choate, general agent of the Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co., acted for the trustees of the American College of Life Underwriters in conferring the designation.

Cotton Gains 8 to 12 Points

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Cotton regained most of Saturday's loss today on trade and foreign buying and in absence of hedge selling. December, which sold at 8.16, advanced to 8.30 and closed at 8.29, with final prices 8 to 12 points net higher.

The market opened 4 points lower to 2 higher. When it became apparent that the larger crop estimate had not disturbed the holding movement and that hedges were light, prices steadily hardened in absence of contracts. Trade interests bought the near positions while houses with foreign connections, especially Bombay, bought distant months.

Business Loans Higher for Week

By the Associated Press.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Commercial, industrial and agricultural loans of banks made another slight rise in the week ended October 5. Banks in 101 leading cities reported to the Federal Reserve Board that their business loans increased $5,000,000 to a total of $3,896,000,000. In the preceding week a $2,000,000 increase was reported.

The increase was due primarily to a $5,000,000 boost in the St. Louis district. Other increases were $2,000,000 each in the Atlanta and Dallas districts and $1,000,000 in the San Francisco district.

Rio Grande Protests Proposal by I. C. C.

The Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad Co. objected yesterday to an Interstate Commerce Commission examiner's report on the proposed reorganization of the line, contending it would create "an impracticable and unworkable capital structure."

The examiner had recommended that the common and preferred stockholders have no voice in the reorganization. The railroad objected to this proceedure.

Steel Shipments Peak for 10 Months

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Shipments of finished steel products by United States Steel Corporation subsidiaries in September totaled 577,666 tons, compared with 558,634 in August, an increase of 19,032 tons. September shipments last year amounted to 1,047,962 tons. Shipments in September were the largest since November, 1937, when they totaled 587,241 tons.

Wheat Firm Despite Drop At Liverpool

Visible Supply Cut
Corn Futures Off
Receipts Are Heavy

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Considerable backbone showed itself in Chicago wheat prices today, the market here displaying at times notable power to recover despite downturns of the Liverpool market.

Helping to stabilize values in Chicago was 892,000 bushels decrease of the United States wheat visible supply total, sharply contrasting with an increase of an equal amount a week ago. Southern Hemisphere reports of better weather for crops had only a transient depressing influence here.

On the other hand, corn prices went lower, responsive to persistent large receipts, 914 cars in Chicago today. Furthermore, the corn market reflected correct anticipations that the Government crop report issued after today's business had ended would show a somewhat enlarged estimate of production, together with big supplies on farms.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ¼ cent off to ⅛ up, compared with Saturday's finish; December, 64⅝@64½; May, 65½@65⅜; corn, ⅛@½ down, December 45@45⅛, May 48⅜@48½, oats ⅛@¼ off, rye, ¼ cent advanced, and provisions 7 to 10 cents lower.

Advance of Utilities Features Early Trading
Other Groups Fail to Keep Pace
First Reaction in Eleven Days

New York, Oct. 10.—Buying of public utility stocks put the market at a new high for the year but when sympathetic strength failed to develop in the other classes of stocks, there was a mild reaction which left the list lower for the session. This was the first reaction after 11 consecutive days of advance, an advance which was inaugurated when the Munich conference was called. It brought no change in Wall Street sentiment, which has been overwhelmingly bullish since peace was re-established in Europe, and reports of trade conditions in the United States have aided this sentiment.

The decline in the composite of the market was slight, amounting to only 0.12 point, and among the speculative leaders the fractional fluctuations predominated. Utilities were strong from the beginning and there was good support for the equipment, store and food stocks.

Oils were again a weak feature, registering their fourth consecutive decline. Selling in this group has been due to the weak market for gasoline and the signs of a softening in the crude oil market in the mid-continent. Selling also was apparent in the steel, motors and metal divisions today. Before these last-named groups started after the oils, however, new highs for the year had been scored by the averages of the steels, coppers, stone and food shares.

Com. & South, the Leader

Commonwealth & Southern was the most active of the power and light group, followed by North American, Electric Power & Light and Columbia Gas & Electric, each of which was up a fraction. Peoples Gas gained a point. Commonwealth & Southern preferred added 1¼ and there was good support for Consolidated Edison.

The general market had the aid of a number of favorable developments to spur buying. While they were not sufficiently effective to keep the list on its upward slant, they helped stem the selling and kept the street in its optimistic frame of mind. Notable was the jump in steel operations. The rate for this week is placed at 51.4 per cent of capacity compared with 47.9 per cent a week aro, a betterment of 3½ points or 7.3 per cent. This was far more than had been expected. The United States Steel Corporation also reported an improvement of 19,032 tons in its September shipments as compared with the previous month, the total being the best for any month since last November.

Another rise in the price of domestic copper, the third in less than a week, encouraged the followers of the non-ferrous metal group but most of these issues later joined in the downward trend. Anaconda was the most active and along with International Nickel, Kennecott and American Smelting it ended the day down a fraction. Loft continued to act independently of the rest of the market, adding another point and becoming the market's most active stock.

Inland Steel, one of the smaller independents, advanced a point to a new high but leaders in this division were subjected to profit taking, big steel and Bethlehem losing 1⅛ and 1⅜, respectively. Telephone was well supported and Johns Manville stood out in the building division, ending the session up 1½.

Bonds Held Firm

Bonds on the stock exchange today managed to hold to Saturday's levels despite considerable profit taking with gains slightly outnumbering losses. Trading was in moderate volume at $7,120,000 par value as activity declined on each moderate reaction.

The average of 30 bonds advanced 0.02 point, led by the utilities, which rose 0.36 point. Rails were practically unchanged on the averages, but individual issues showed strength. B. & O. issues were active and higher and Erie liens ended up. Gulf, Mobile & Northern 5½s of 1950 series B jumped 3 points on one trade. International Great Northern issues were higher and several of the Illinois Central group pushed into new high ground for the year.

In the utility group Brooklyn Union Gas debenture 5s of 1950 made a new high and Commonwealth Edison convertibles were active around their best levels. New York Edison 3¼s bettered their previous high by a fraction and were up to 103 for a gain of 1¼.

Industrial bonds were uneven. U. S. Steel 3¼s of 1948 were up ¾. Republic Steel issues all ended unchanged, while Richfield Oil convertibles of 1952 dropped 1 point on moderate trading.

In the foreign bond section Argentine issues were active and higher and other Latin and South American issues were prominent. Cuban 5½s of 1953 rose 3 points. Japanese 6½s of 1954 was the most active issue in the foreign list, giving up 1⅜.

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Operations in the steel industry for the current week will advance 3.5 points to 51.4 per cent of capacity, compared with 47.9 per cent last week, the American Iron & Steel Institute estimated today.

A month ago operations were at the rate of 45.3 per cent of capacity, while a year ago they were 63.6 per cent.

Silver Production

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Production of silver in August in all countries except Mexico amounted to 16,491,000 fine ounces, compared with 15,097,000 in July, according to figures prepared for the trade. This brought production for the first eight months of 1938 to 118,039,000 fine ounces, against 123,419,000 in the like period a year ago.

Liner Brings Record Cargo Of Gold Bars

Value Is $51,000,000
Most From England
Exchange Operations

By the Associated Press.

New York, Oct. 10.—The S. S. President Roosevelt steamed into New York harbor from Europe today with what was believed to be the largest cargo of gold ever brought here in a single ship. Tugs warped the vessel up to the pier with 914 boxes of gold bars in her hold, the value of which was unofficially estimated at around $51,000,000.

Record-breaking shipments of gold in connection with the United States Government's currency stabilization fund operations during the recent financial and political crisis in Europe were held responsible for the bulk of the ship's cargo of precious metal. The fund's foreign exchange operations conducted to help support the British pound sterling and the French franc sharply lifted the flow of gold here.

From Southampton the President Roosevelt brought 625 boxes of gold bars, valued at around $35,000,000, and from Havre 51 boxes, valued at $2,850,000, all consigned to the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

Copper Price Up to 10¾c

New York, Oct. 10 (AP).—Leading producers of copper advanced the price of domestic metal ⅛ of a cent a pound to 10¾ cents today, making the third markup this month and bringing the quotation to the highest level since last January 18.

The boost in the domestic price followed stronger demand at rising prices abroad and announcement at London that the international cartel had ordered copper producers signatory to the production scheme in effect for several years to increase output to 105 per cent from 95 per cent, effective October 15. Export copper was quoted today as high as 10.96 cents a pound, c. i. f. European ports.

Output to Increase

London, Oct. 10 (AP).—Copper companies which have been operating under production restrictions designed to hold output nearer to consumption announced today they will step up operations to 105 per cent of capacity from 95 per cent effective October 15.

Principal producers throughout the world outside of the United States and Russia are affected by the scheme, which has been operating several years as an aid toward price stabilization in world markets. Rhodesian copper mining securities on the stock exchange advanced in price following the announcement.

HOW to Select Your Bank

EXPERIENCE, Strength, Foresight, Stability, Courtesy . . . Service . . . these are typical of the qualities for which you should look in selecting a bank. For upon them and others of kindred character . . . such as Convenience, Dependability and Judgment . . . depends the value of the banking connection you make.

Of all these qualities, Service is obviously the most fundamental. In one sense, at least, it is the sum of the others.

American Security and Trust Company has won a leading place among District banking institutions by constantly endeavoring to render service of the highest character. Thus, from small beginnings, it has grown steadily to become one of Washington's largest banks.

Our progress has always been genuine progress. The reason for this, we believe, is explained by the fact that sound, conservative banking principles have been the foundation of our policies since 1889.

Com. Credit To Buy Old Finance Co.

Mfrs. Co. of Baltimore $50,000,000 Volume Stock Must Assent

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Baltimore, Oct. 10.—The Commercial Credit Co. announced today that it had made arrangements to buy the entire capital stock of the Manufacturers' Finance Co. of Baltimore subject to the assent within 30 days of 90 per cent of each class of manufacturers' outstanding stock, first and second preferred and common.

Manufacturers' Finance Co. was organized in December, 1909, being the first company of its kind in the East. It purchases current open accounts and notes receivable from manufactures and wholesalers without notice to their customers, doing a volume in 1937 in excess of $50,000,000 upon the so-called "Non-Notification" plan. Of the volume of over $933,000,000 handled by Commercial Credit Co. in 1937, $116,000,000 was current open accounts factored for mills and manufacturers and $120,000,000 represented the same general character of business done by Manufacturers' Finance Co.

Commercial Credit Co. will take over and continue business with the desirable customers of Manufacturers' Finance Co., which may or may not be liquidated under the plan. V. G. Dunnington, president of Manufacturers' Finance Co., will become a vice president of Commercial Credit Co. No personal changes in the field force of Manufacturers' Finance Co. are contemplated and as many of its organization as can be used to advantage will be retained.

Proposals

TUESDAY OCTOBER 11

SEALED PROPOSALS will be received by the County School Board of Arlington County, Va., at the office of Supt. Fletcher Kemp, Arlington Courthouse, Va., until 2:00 P. M., MONDAY, OCTOBER 17, 1938, for addition and alterations to Washington-Lee High School, consisting of addition of three classrooms, three-story brick construction, enlargement to present cafeteria, and alterations to existing shop; at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read.

Plans, specifications and contract documents are open to public inspection at the office of Supt. Fletcher Kemp, Arlington Courthouse, Va., or may be obtained at the office of Division of School Buildings, State Department of Education, Richmond, Va., upon deposit at said office of twenty-five dollars. Deposits for plans, specifications, and forms of proposals will be refunded to each unsuccessful bidder upon return of same in good condition within thirty days after the opening of bids. Deposits of those other than actual bidders will be refunded with a deduction of two dollars upon the return of all documents in good condition within thirty days after date of opening bids, such deduction being the actual cost of reproduction of the drawings.

All bids must be accompanied by a certified check not less than 5% of the total bid, or acceptable bidder's bond not less than 6% of the total bid, made payable to County School Board of Arlington County.

Amount estimated to be available to finance the construction is $38,000.00.

FLETCHER KEMP, Superintendent.

Bob Burns Says—

You know I've been doin' a lot'a thinkin' lately about the way these Hollywood actors dress and I finally decided that the reason they dress that way is because if they didn't nobody could tell they was actors. The same is true of people in pretty near any profession. Musicians dress like musicians and firemen dress like firemen.

When our chief of police down home started to go to the policemen's convention at Kansas city, somebody asked him if he was gonna wear his police uniform. He says, "I should say I am—the last police convention we had at St. Louis, we all wore civilian clothes and half of us was arrested as suspicious characters!"

Traffic Safety Board Sought To Cut Deaths

Plan Before Trade Body
City-Wide Aid Asked Fatality Drop Cited

By Howard F. Wentworth.

City-wide support of proposals to establish in Washington a permanent traffic safety commission was urged yesterday by Col. L. C. Crawford, Board of Trade traffic chairman.

Speaking to members of the board's public order committee, Col. Crawford described the suggested commission as a "much needed" weapon against street casualties.

As a continuing means of bringing the District's many traffic control and highway safety agencies under a co-ordinated program Col. Crawford said the proposed commission would eliminate existing overlapping and uncorrelated safety activities.

Legislation Required

Cities throughout the country which have adopted the safety commission system, he said, showed a 32 per cent reduction in accidents, injuries and fatalities last year as compared to a 22 per cent drop for the country as a whole.

Under the suggested plan, legislation would be adopted providing the city with an official agency, headed by a paid executive officer and operated by salaried personnel.

Col. Crawford pointed out that Washington at present has "more than 100" civic and semi-official groups attempting to solve the complex traffic situation.

"And as a result," he said, "we are not making the progress we should and other cities are leaving us behind."

D. C. Fatality Drop Cited

Col. Crawford was joined in his proposal by Washington I. Cleveland, manager of the capital's AAA Club, who said the District is "lagging far behind other communities in traffic matters."

The safety commission proposal, is before the Board of Trade directors. Action is expected at the next meeting.

Washington was listed yesterday among 33 cities which have shown fatality reductions in the first eight months of this year. The National Safety Council reported a 3 per cent drop in accident deaths for the District.

Providence, R. I.—as a result of intensive safety efforts—topped the list with a 72 per cent reduction, the council said.

Smithsonian to Study Sun From New Mexico Mountaintop

Discloses New Observatory Being Built To Mark Fluctuations in Heat and Light
Mirror to Flash Rays Into Tunnel

A new observatory for the study of fluctuations in heat and light output of the sun is being built on a mountaintop in New Mexico by the Smithsonian Institution, it was disclosed yesterday.

Apparatus used by Smithsonian observers last year on the summit of Mount St. Katherine on the Sinai Peninsula will be installed in the new observatory, located on the 8,000-feet-high peak of Burro Mountin in southwestern New Mexico.

Observing instruments, including some of the most delicate and sensitive known to astronomy, will be located in a horizontal tunnel extending 30 feet into the mountain. A mirror will reflect rays of the sun into the tunnel upon the instruments. Measurements will be made to determine extent of influence of the fluctuations in the sun's radiation upon temperature and precipitation on earth.

In contrast to most stations occupied by the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, the New Mexico station occupies a pleasant spot, according to Charles G. Abbott, secretary of the Smithsonian, who has just returned to Washington from an inspection of the work. He added the ideal spot is one in which cloudy, rainy weather is a rarity.

Business Men to Hear Bus Line Proposal

A report on a proposed cross-town bus line, scheduled for hearing Wednesday by the Public Utilities Commission, will be outlined to members of the Columbia Heights Business Men's Association tonight at 9 o'clock in the Arcade Building. B. A. Levitan will discuss the plan.

The Georgia Avenue Business Men's Association will elect officers at a meeting at 3608 Georgia avenue at 8:30 o'clock.

5,000,000 Pamphlets On Labor Act Given Out

The Wage and Hour Division of the Labor Department announced Sunday it was distributing 5,000,000 copies of a pamphlet describing the fair labor standards act. Officials said the booklets would be available without charge, at all of the 1,616 State employment offices affiliated with the United States Employment Service.

Radio Program Today to Mark Founding of 'Y'

Special radio programs will commemorate "Founders Day" of the Young Men's Christian Association today, at 117th anniversary of the birth of Sir George Williams, who founded the first Y. M. C. A. in 1844 in London, England.

At 12:30 p. m. today a program will be broadcast from New York over the Blue Network of the National Broadcasting Co. and will be carried locally by WMAL.

At 6:45 p. m. a program, illustrating phases of "Y" work will be broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting System and carried locally by WJSV. On this program, from Philadelphia, Rear Admiral Wat T. Cluverius, commandant of the Navy Yard there, will interview a "Bluejacket."

Red Cross Enrolls 53,840; 46,000 Sought

4 More Groups 100%
2,318 Sign in Day
Swimming Class Starts

Edgar Morris, chairman of the Red Cross roll call in the District, announced yesterday his office had received 53,840 memberships, including new 100 per cent enrollments from four groups. New memberships received during the day totaled 2,318.

Organizations reporting 100 per cent enrollment were the Harry Kaufman Co., 1316 Seventh street northwest; Charles Schwartz & Son, 708 Seventh street northwest; the Raymond School, and the District Public Utilities Commission.

Only 7 Days Left

Morris pointed out yesterday only seven days remain to obtain 46,000 members needed to fill this years quota of 100,000. Officers of the roll call for business firms outlined plans to obtain 20,000 members during this period, of which less than half have been received.

In a series of radio broadcasts, Red Cross officials outlined the work of their organization. Edgar Morris, jr., described disaster relief operations in New England and South Carolina over Station WRC.

Swim Class Starts

Mrs. Howard Krinbill, chairman of the District motor corps, spoke over WOL; Mrs. P. J. Altizer, chairman of the production corps, and James F. O'Donnell, vice chairman of the general business committee, spoke over WJSV.

Meanwhile students at Woodrow Wilson High School received instruction in swimming and life-saving from Gordon Stone, Red Cross director of life saving and first aid, at the Shoreham Hotel, in the first class of the fall season.

Court Clears Driver Of Bus in Death

Brought to Police Court last April by a coroner's jury investigating the traffic death of a 75-year-old man, Joseph P. Murray, 26-year-old sight-seeing bus driver, was exonerated yesterday by Police Court Judge Edward M. Curran.

Murray was brought to trial under the negligent homicide act as the result of the death of William Thomas, 75, of 212 Eleventh street southeast, April 20 in Emergency Hospital from injuries he received when struck by the bus Murray drove.

Judge Curran held that prosecution failed to prove Murray was driving negligently. Witnesses for the defense brought out that the bus was traveling 15 miles per hour when the aged man stepped into its path.

195,000 Quit Rolls in August, WPA Reports

At a time when the number of persons on its rolls is at an all-time high, the WPA yesterday announced that approximately 195,000 persons left the rolls in August.

Of 139,702 who left, he said, 54,861 stated they were to accept private employment. Although the others did not explain their reasons for leaving, Williams said a majority were believed to have found private jobs.

Discharges and layoffs removed 54,814 workers from the rolls, Williams declared, and about 10,000 of these found employment with other Federal agencies.
